By HUGH REYNOLDS and
ALBERT J. CAWEIN

Kingston firemen took their case to Supreme Court in Albany today on their bitter wage dispute with the city.

The firemen filed their petition some days ago and the city filed its papers today. However, no arguments were heard as Attorney S. James Matthews, representing the firemen was unable to appear in court. Matthews was given five days to reply to the papers filed with the court by the city. Another hearing is pending but no date has been set.

The city today presented papers at Special Term with Supreme Court Justice John Pennock, presiding, indicating that the 1948 City Charter Revision was repealed in Nov. 1965 by the Common Council and therefore the fire commissioners' negotiations with the firemen is not binding on the council.

The firemen's case is based on the 1948 city charter revision which gives authority to the fire commissioners to set salaries for the fire department.

Long Controversy

The controversy over wages has been continuing since the commissioners set a salary schedule at a meeting in November 1967. The schedule was subsequently rejected by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and the Common Council.

The commissioners set a scale of increases as follows: $1,100 increase for the chief; $1,000 each for four deputies and $400 for the remainder of the department.

The mayor had originally offered a $300 across-the-board wage hike and later increased that to $350 which was approved by the Common Council Jan. 22, this year as part of the 1968 budget. The Police Department accepted the $350 increase.

The $10,200 cut came at the Jan. 22 council meeting when the money was transferred to the contingency fund where it now rests.

The firemen have exhausted every means of negotiation under the Taylor Law, according to their Local 461 president, Robert Gollnick.

Mediator Summoned

A mediator from the State Public Employee Relations Board called into the controversy found complete favor with the firemen's position. Eventually, Garraghan rejected the mediator's recommendations and again offered $350 across-the-board.

In another stage of the controversy, a new State PERB representative was brought in to bring the opposing factions together. To date there has been no report of his findings. Since then Mayor Garraghan has made an offer of a $500 wage hike for the chief, $450 for the deputies and $400 for the firemen, which he said he reported to the state mediator. This offer was also turned down by the firemen.

The city is represented by its corporation counsel, Aaron E. Klein. City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle accompanied Klein to the Supreme Court hearing in Albany.

Aftermath of Tragic Fire in Poughkeepsie

Grim-faced Poughkeepsie firefighters remove a body from a first floor flat at 97 Catherine Street, after flames swept through the home of James and Pearl Hudson yesterday. The blaze took the lives of four of the Hudson's six children, ranging in age from 3 to 15. The children's mother was driving her husband to work at Marist College when the fire broke out. The six children were sleeping when their parents left their home. The flames gutted the 5-room flat and caused some damage to the second floor apartment before firemen brought the blaze under control. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

County Airport—The Operations, Cost

This last of a three-part Freeman series on airports will outline the operation of a county airport, cost of flying and learning to fly and a review of present airport facilities and their future when the new airport is built.

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Last of Three Articles

As mentioned in part one of this series, a county airport can be operated in one of two ways, either by an airport commission as an arm of the legislature or by a private lease arrangement.

Under the lease arrangement, the county turns the entire operation over to a private individual or concern who operates the airport for profit (hopefully) and pays the county a set fee for the use of the facilities.

About $12,000 Salary

The airport commission set-up, which can be compared to the New York Port Authority and the New York Thruway System, seems to be the more popular and workable mode of operation.

Under that system Ulster would hire a professional airport manager who would run the airport through the commission. He would be paid a set salary, in Ulster's case, probably around $12,000 per year.

Undoubtedly, commissioners would be selected from the present Airport Study Commission headed by Harry Kappelman. These include Edward DeGroff, Neil Geller, Raymond Coles, William Kolbert, Arthur Mulligan, Henry Cameron, Raymond Caruthers and Herbert Cochman. All have put a great deal of time and work into advancing Ulster's hopes for an airport as far as they've gone, that is to the point of final site selection.

Once the mode of operation is determined the future of the airport can be better mapped. The theme today is the marriage between airports and industry into the industrial airport complex. The prime requisite is, once again, the saving of time, so why not allow for the building of factories right on the outskirts of the airport itself, planners ask. It has worked remarkably well in the western sections of the country where space is abundant.

Money-Making Takes Time

As far as making money on the airport itself, it takes time, according to Robert Duwell, airport manager at Orange County Airport. However, Orange County, after five years in the red, is rapidly approaching solvency.

Duwell explains that the money is derived from sale of fuel, rental of hanger space and parking space, rental of land, a repair shop, snack shop and flight instruction by the staff. The airport does not charge a landing fee.

As an example of Orange County's progress, Duwell pointed out that the 1967 budget was $220,000 and that he returned $77,000 to the county. This year he expects to return between $100,000 and $110,000.

Orange County is mentioned because it is an airport of about the size that Ulster hopes to have in the near future.

The cost of flying, learning to fly, is not all that high. It runs in the neighborhood of $20 per lesson (they last an hour) which considering that insurance for a $14,000 aircraft is about $800 per year when it is used for student training, isn't that bad.

According to the flight instructors at Aero Lake Airport just south of Kingston, anyone who can drive a car can learn to fly a plane. Eyesight is evidently no problem if it is correctable. There are more than 20,000 one-eyed pilots in this country.

Red Troops Take to Sea to Avoid Shells

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. ships, planes and artillery today pounded 200 to 500 North Vietnamese troops trapped in a South Vietnamese coastal village.

Military spokesmen said American firepower pinned down the invaders Thursday noon in the village 10 miles below the Demilitarized Zone

(DMZ) dividing the two Vietnams.

A spotter aboard the U. S. Navy Cruiser Boston reported "he could see several enemy troops running into the water of the South China Sea to escape the shells," one spokesman said.

Fire on Troops

U.S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division troops had been patrolling the beaches northeast of Quang Tri City when they came under fire from the village. The Communists had given themselves away.

The Skytroopers closed in. The first bursts of American fire killed five North Vietnamese.

"As the ground units advanced toward the village 200 to 300 villagers moved out. They told the U.S. soldiers that there were approximately 500 North Vietnamese troops hidden in bunkers," a spokesman said.

U.S. commanders unleashed their artillery and air strikes. The GIs grabbed and captured 18 suspected guerrillas on the fringes of the exploding village. American commanders flew in more troops—making 800 in all—to "complete a cordon of the trapped enemy force."

The closing of the ring continued today. The GIs pushing in said they killed at least 22 Communists in the fighting.

Fighting in North

In other action U.S. Marines reported heavy fighting on South Vietnam's northern frontier where the Leatherneck force of Khe Sanh was being abandoned.

The fighting, according to spokesmen, raged Thursday 11 miles east of the Leatherneck base camp of Dong Ha far to the east of Khe Sanh, the fort that withstood a 77-day Red siege earlier this year.

The American pullout from Khe Sanh was viewed today by North Vietnam's negotiators in Paris as "one of the most serious strategic defeats" suffered by the U.S. Story Page 28.

Thus far two Marines have been reported killed and 22 wounded. Communist losses includes at least five men killed and one captured.

In the same area Thursday South Vietnam troops killed at least 10 more in two sweeps that cost the lives of 26 government troops.

The fighting erupted after repeated intelligence reports that North Vietnam was stepping up its infiltration of troops into South Vietnam despite American protests at the preliminary talks in Paris.

In other developments:—U.S. jets flew 138 missions Thursday against North Vietnamese southern panhandle supply lines. No planes were reported lost.

Cong Kidnaps 10

—A Viet Cong attack Thursday against a village in Quang

Ngai Province of South Vietnam killed nine civilians and left 10 others wounded. The guerrillas kidnapped 10 villagers. There was a report the raiders blew up a school.

Westly Approves
Meanwhile, in Honolulu, Gen. William C. Westmoreland said Thursday the plan to withdraw Marines from Khe Sanh was made two months ago while he was commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam.

The general said he approved the plan "in principle." He responded to newsmen's questions after an announcement in Saigon that Leathernecks were withdrawing from Khe Sanh and being redeployed for a more mobile defense of the area.

The Khe Sanh area, in the northwest corner of South Vietnam near the Demilitarized Zone, was the scene of a bloody 77-day siege by 16,000 North Vietnamese troops in the early part of the year. The 6,000 Marines who withstood intensive bombardment during the siege suffered more than 2,000 casualties.

Westmoreland, who will become Army chief of staff in July, said, "In April, I approved in principle the plan now being put into execution involving the redistribution of troops in the Khe Sanh area."

GIFT FOR CLEAN AIR CITIZENS—A check for $125 was presented to the Citizens Committee for Clean Air Thursday night by the Kingston Daily Freeman in recognition of its successful campaign for clean air pollution abatement. # $345,000 Listed as Goal For Community Chest

A 1968 goal of $345,000 was announced last night at the annual Ulster County Community Chest buffet dinner at the Gov. Clinton Hotel by campaign chairman William J. Pearson.

According to Pearson, this year's goal represents a 4.5 per cent increase over the amount of money raised in last year's drive and a 7.8 per cent increase over last year's goal.

Pearson added, however, that most counties are shooting for an 8 per cent increase over their 1967 goal.

Speaking to the Division chairman captains and key solicitors—the core of the Community Chest Organization—Pearson stated, "We had a successful drive last year—reaching our goal for the first time ever, and in fact exceeding it by $10,000. Let's not look back. Let's look ahead." He added, "It is imperative for the welfare of our county, which is served by all of our 14 volunteer agencies."

Realistic Figure

Pearson called this year's goal of $345,000 a "realistic figure" but he referred to the budget as being "a bare-boned minimum to support the agencies." He cited the Budget Allocation Committee, saying that they have done "a tremendous amount of soul-searching."

This year the Community Chest will hold its annual kickoff drive—complete with the usual large parade and festivities at Dietz Stadium—on September 14. The campaign wrapup is slated for October 19. The motto for this year's drive—and the campaigners hope that it is an appropriate one—is "The Winning Beat."

At last night's kickoff buffet, it was announced that a new agency had been added to the drive, raising the total number of agencies to a high of 14.

The newly formed agency, an adjunct of the Ulster County Children's Home, and known as the Family Centered Case Work Service, will be headed by Larry Siewers of the Ulster County Children's Home.

Speaking at last night's dinner were Charles Raible, president of the organization and former campaign manager; Len Cane, news director of WBAZ, and public relations chairman of this year's drive; Richard Rochford, general manager of King Chrysler-Plymouth and associate chairman of the Community Chest; Wilfred (Bud) Springer, executive director; and Donald MacIsaac, information manager at IBM, and a member of the advisory board of the Community Chest.

In his address, MacIsaac announced the end of one of the drive's most popular fixtures—the radio-videathon. However, MacIsaac promised "an even bigger and more spectacular event" to highlight this year's drive.

Discusses Problem

Campaign chairman Pearson, in addition to announcing this year's goal, also spoke on a problem that threatens to hinder the success of the drive. According to Pearson, many individuals and groups throughout the county have expressed an unwillingness to support both the Community Chest and new YMCA building fund. But Pearson emphasized the need for a new YMCA building in Kingston. He said that this year's "Y" building fund "is to replace a crumbling, squeaking building." He called the "Y" building fund a "capital drive" and reiterated that the Chest "soliciting for operating funds for the YMCA."

The campaign headquarters for this year's Community Chest drive will again be in the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Paltz Village, Town Harmony— Water, Fire, Communications

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
Both the Village and Town of New Paltz are entering a new phase of cooperation with the announcement yesterday of joint contracts entered into by the two political subdivisions.

Village Mayor Henry DuBois and Town Supervisor Anthony Moriello hailed the action which includes agreements on a Town water district, and a Village contract to provide fire protection for the Town.

Unique Center
The two other areas of agreement, however, deal with the unique communications center located in the town building.

The town and village will jointly operate and finance the center and the village police have already, under the co-operative agreement, moved into their new quarters in the town hall.

The part-time town constables and the village police force will both operate from the center which includes one of the more sophisticated communications hookups in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Equipped with a Plectron communications systems, the officer in charge of the center can flick a switch and contact all firemen and police officers and constables in the New Paltz area.

Some 36 Plectron receivers are in the homes of area firefighters and the radio receiving devices will also be in law enforcement vehicles.

Starts Monday
The communications system will go into operation Monday.

Along with a whistling signal, voiced directions may be made by the desk officer in the center through a microphone.

On the other agreements, the new contract will have the town paying the village a certain amount of money for fire protection.

The amount to be paid will be based on the amount paid the previous year.

As for the water district agreement, there will be meters attached to water lines stretching out of the village and into town areas.

The town will then pay the village based on the metered amounts.

Water lines will be located east, west, and south of the village.

Also, agreements call for the town paying the village for any new capital construction necessary in providing for the future town water needs.

The village is presently building a two million gallon water storage tank located just off the southeast corner of the village line at Bruce Street.

Part of a $1 million project agreement with the State University College, part of the funds will come from the federal and state governments.

$200,000 Village Tab
The village is slated to pay about $200,000 for the project.

The town, however, will be expected to pay for another water storage tank should the need arise, according to the joint agreements.

The State University will also contribute to any capital construction.

The village's new water system should be in operation within the next few weeks, with the Constanzi Construction Company about to install water lines along South Manheim Boulevard.

The new line will travel up the boulevard to the home of Howard H. Grimm at 88 Route 32 South, and then to the new standpipe, southeast of the Rita Street and Bruce Street intersection.

Hopeful of Future
The standpipe itself will be painted and sterilized becoming fully operational in about two weeks.

Supervisor Moriello said that the two boards have made "tremendous progress" since he took office on January 1, and Mayor DuBois claimed he was "looking forward to a number of similar areas of co-operation in the near future."

Two to Landmarks

Mrs. Walter Donnaruma and Harry M. Thayer have been appointed to the eight-member Kingston Historic Landmark Commission by Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, it was announced recently.

Mrs. Donnaruma, who will be serving a one year term, is succeeding former member Mrs. George Beck. Mrs. Donnaruma will serve in the capacity of commission advisor to the mayor.

Thayer is succeeding Mrs. Margaret Hanstein, who resigned earlier this month. Thayer's term will run through July 31 of this year and will be subject to reappointment.

The Historic Landmark Commission is dedicated to the preservation and revitalization of the stone houses located in the uptown section of Kingston. The commission was formed two years ago by Mayor Garraghan and is presently headed by Fred Johnston.

In addition to preserving Kingston's historical landmarks, the commission is hoping to eventually refurbish all of the 37 stone homes in the Crown-Green Streets area. Their ultimate goal is to have that area designated as a National Historic Site.

Since January of this year, the commission has designated nine homes in the uptown area for exterior improvements.

Glasco Hearing — Minor Objections

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
Only minor objections were voiced Thursday night on the $280,000 improvement project for Glasco Water District at a public hearing before Sauger-

Hall. More than 60 residents attended. The Town Board has under consideration all remarks made at the hearing and is expected to vote on the proposal in a special meeting, possibly at a special meeting.

Several residents of the Glasco-Barclay Heights area indicated they thought the $280,000 was a good investment and many agreed that something should be done to alleviate the pressure problems in some parts of the district.

Councilman George Turner turned the hearing over to Christus J. Larios, consulting engineer, who made the Glasco Water District improvement study.

Larios outlined the changes proposed and answered questions about the project.

The work proposed will improve the flow of water from Saugerties Village water system. Glasco Water District, which includes Barclay Heights in the Town of Saugerties purchases its supply from the village.

The project proposed will include installation of 10,000 feet of 12-inch cement-lined water mains to supplement the 6, 8 and 10 inch mains now in use; a 12-inch gate valve; eight new hydrants and a one million gallon steel standpipe with foundation to increase the storage capacity and water pressure.

Mishaps Kill Two Orange Men

John "Duke" Kelly, 63, long-time resident of Newburgh, was struck and killed by a hit-and-run car as he crossed Broadway in Newburgh Thursday night. A short while later, school teacher Francis P. Walsh, 47, of Valhalla, was arrested in a nearby restaurant and charged with drunken driving and leaving the accident scene. Walsh, who police said teaches at Hastings High School, Hastings-on-Hudson, was lodged in the city jail in lieu of $500 bail on each charge. Kelly lived at the Hotel Newburgh.

Erwin Hanshaw, 54, an employee of the Conklin and Strong Lumber Company, Warwick, was killed Thursday when part of a lumber delivery truck fell on him as he worked. Warwick Police Chief Warren McFarland said Hanshaw was under the raised flatbed body of the dump-type truck when the body crashed down, pinning him to the chassis. Hanshaw was a resident of Warwick.

Paltz Village, Town Harmony— Water, Fire, Communications

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
Both the Village and Town of Paltz are entering a new phase of cooperation with the announcement yesterday of joint contracts entered into by the two political subdivisions. Village Mayor Henry DuBois and Town Supervisor Anthony Moriello hailed the action which includes agreements on a Town water district, and a Village contract to provide fire protection for the Town.

Two to Landmarks

Mrs. Walter Donnaruma and Harry M. Thayer have been appointed to the eight-member Kingston Historic Landmark Commission by Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, it was announced recently. Mrs. Donnaruma, who will be serving a one year term, is succeeding former member Mrs. George Beck. Mrs. Donnaruma will serve in the capacity of commission advisor to the mayor. Thayer is succeeding Mrs. Margaret Hanstein, who resigned earlier this month. Thayer's term will run through July 31 of this year and will be subject to reappointment. The Historic Landmark Commission is dedicated to the preservation and revitalization of the stone houses located in the uptown section of Kingston. The commission was formed two years ago by Mayor Garraghan and is presently headed by Fred Johnston. In addition to preserving Kingston's historical landmarks, the commission is hoping to eventually refurbish all of the 37 stone homes in the Crown Green Streets area. Their ultimate goal is to have that area designated as a National Historic Site. Since January of this year, the commission has designated nine homes in the uptown area for exterior improvements.

Part of a $1 million project agreement with the State University College, part of the funds will come from the federal and state governments. $200,000 Village Tab The village is slated to pay about $200,000 for the project. The town, however, will be expected to pay for another water storage tank should the need arise, according to the joint agreements. The State University will also contribute to any capital construction. The village's new water system should be in operation within the next few weeks, with the Constanzi Construction Company about to install water lines along South Manheim Boulevard. The new line will travel up the boulevard to the home of Howard H. Grimm at 88 Route 32 South, and then to the new standpipe, southeast of the Rita Street and Bruce Street intersection. Hopeful of Future The standpipe itself will be painted and sterilized becoming fully operational in about two weeks. Supervisor Moriello said that the two boards have made "tremendous progress" since he took office on January 1, and Mayor DuBois claimed he was "looking forward to a number of similar areas of cooperation in the near future."

Drive for Stronger Gun Laws Receives Crippling Setback

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The drive for stronger gun control laws, already beset by delays and apparent adverse public reaction, has suffered what may be a crippling setback.

The latest blow was a 7-5 vote by the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday to delay further consideration of weapons control bills until July 9.

"Those concerned about the passage of responsible firearms legislation had better realize that this was a real defeat," Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said.

The outlook for new legislation urged by President Johnson had been dimmed previously by a slowdown in the House and by a sharp reversal in an initial flood of mail favoring strong gun controls after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Congress had seemed moving toward speedy action on a measure to prohibit interstate mail order sales of all firearms and ammunition and to ban their over-the-counter sale to nonresidents of a state.

This would have extended to rifles and shotguns the restrictions provided for pistol sales in the recently enacted crime control bill.

Wanted More Laws

But the first of this week, Johnson also asked Congress for laws requiring the national registration of all guns and the licensing of their owners.

Immediately after, congressmen reported their mail had reversed itself from favoring stiffer control laws and was running heavily against the proposals, particularly those requiring registration. This came after the National Rifle Association, main opponent of controls, called for a letter campaign against the bills.

In an apparent move to keep the registration controversy from affecting the mail order ban extension, Johnson asked in his message that the registration proposals not delay enactment of the bills already before Congress.

But his plea didn't seem to have any effect Thursday.

When the Senate committee met, Sen. Tydings proposed an amendment adding the registration and licensing provisions to the mail order bill, which was approved by the House Judiciary Committee last week.

After extended closed-door debate on Tydings' amendment, Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, D-

N.D., moved to postpone further consideration of the legislation until July 9 and his suggestion was adopted, 7 to 5.

Favoring the Motion

Listed as voting for the motion to postpone action were Burdick and Sens. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C.; Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii; Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.; Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C.; Edward V. Long, D-Mo.; and James O. Eastland, D-Miss., the committee chairman.

Those voting against were listed as Tydings and Sens. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn.; Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Tydings said three absent senators "might have been able to help" if present when the vote was taken. He said they were Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; George A. Smathers, D-Fla.; and Hugh Scott, R-Pa. Also absent at the time of the vote was Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who was presiding over an appropriations subcommittee hearing.

UNHAPPY SENATOR — The Senate Judiciary Committee postponed for nearly two weeks consideration of gun control legislation. Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md. (C), a leading supporter of the bill, called it a "real defeat" and tells newsmen that chances of Congressional passage was substantially weakened. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Predict Senate Will Pass High Court Nominations

By STEVEN GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has dumped Abe Fortas and Homer Thornberry into the maelstrom of Senate politics. The betting is they will get Senate confirmation, but not without a major fight.

Johnson's nomination of Fortas to succeed retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren and Thornberry to fill the vacancy on the bench has ignited a partisan political battle which could interfere with efforts by Democrats and Republicans to adjourn Congress before the GOP convention in early August.

So far at least 18 Senate Republicans—half the GOP strength in the Senate—have signed a position paper objecting to the nomination of Fortas and Thornberry by a "lame duck" president. Several other Republicans are considering joining the movement.

Virtually No Chance For Lower Voting Age

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's call for a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 appears to have virtually no chance of congressional approval this year.

Johnson, in calling for a 26th Amendment Thursday, said he hoped it could pass the House and Senate and be ratified by the necessary 38 states within a year.

There was little indication, however, that Congress was inclined to press for passage of such legislation during the preadjournment crush.

Congress wants to adjourn by Aug. 1 or 2.

Although no southern senator has mentioned it, there is little to choose between Warren and Fortas so far as they are concerned. Both justices have sided with the majority on the questions of civil rights and the rights of the accused in criminal cases.

indicated only the most pressing business would be taken up. The House Rules Committee already has set a July 9 deadline—just 11 days away and not all of them working days—for considering all but "urgent" bills.

In a formal call to the Congress for the lower voting age, Johnson said Americans between 18 and 21 are more prepared than ever to exercise the privilege.

"We should now extend the right to vote to more than 10 million citizens unjustly denied that right," the President said.

"The age of 18, far more than the age of 21, has been and is the age of maturity in America—and never more than now."

Man Sentenced To 105 Days

A 46-year-old New York City man was in the Ulster County jail today under sentence of 105 days as the result of an incident in Ellenville.

Howard Kinzler, of 332 Bowery was arrested at 7:30 p. m. Thursday by Sergeant Jack Phillips on a charge of disorderly conduct. A second charge, third degree assault, was lodged against Kinzler by Richard Dupont, a Summitville youth, who accused the defendant of punching him in the mouth.

Kinzler pleaded guilty to both charges before Wawarsing Town Judge Herbert Weinsoff, who presided in court in the absence of the village magistrate. Sentences imposed were 90 days for assault and 15 days for disorderly conduct.

Sergeant Phillips reported he was on patrol when he came upon two men involved in an incident in front of the Ellenville theater. He investigated and was told by Dupont that he and a friend went to the ticket office to purchase tickets for the evening show, when Kinzler walked up to him and punched him in the mouth.

Dupont said not a word was spoken by his assailant.

State Files Bribery Charges Against Pair of Contractors

NEW YORK (AP) — State bribery charges were lodged Thursday against two contractors whose firms did work for New York City. One of them, a Henry Fried, was convicted last week in a federal conspiracy trial for bribing former city water commissioner James L. Marcus.

The second man charged was Edward A. Orlando, 36, of Flushing, Queens. He and his company, the N.A. Orlando Contracting Co. of College Point, Queens, were indicted on two counts of conspiracy and three counts of bribery.

Orlando was accused of conspiring with Marcus and labor lawyer Herbert Itkin to pay them a 5 per cent kickback on all moneys the city paid Orlando's company on no-bidding-necessary contracts awarded by Marcus' water department. Orlando also was accused of paying the two men $6,000.

Itkin, 41, a business associate of Marcus and a self-described FBI informer, has been indicted with Marcus on both state and federal bribery conspiracy charges.

Witness for Government
The federal cases of Itkin and Marcus were severed from three others convicted last week. In that trial Marcus, after pleading guilty, turned government witness. Itkin also was a government witness and bluntly stated he thought he'd never be prosecuted.

The actions Wednesday of a New York County grand jury put Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan in the unusual position of prosecuting the federal government's two star witnesses.

Itkin, for one thing, had testified earlier he expected to be a government witness in at least 50 more cases.

Fried, 68, of Mount Kisco, N.Y., his company, S.T. Grand, Inc., of Ozone Park, Queens, reputed Mafia leader Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo of White-stone, Queens, and bakers union official Daniel Motto of Greenwich, Conn., were convicted in federal court of bribery conspiracy and await sentencing this month.

No Indictment

Fried allegedly paid out $40,000 in bribes to Marcus, Corallo, Motto and others in exchange for an $840,000 city contract that Marcus awarded S. T. Grand without bidding. Fried was arrested, but not indicted, on similar state bribery charges Thursday.

City Councilman Edward I. Koch said Thursday that if Hogan doesn't stop prosecuting

Fallout Into Leukemia

A link between nuclear fallout and children's leukemia has been claimed by a radiation health expert. Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass of the University of Pittsburgh's Department of Radiology, told the Health Physics Society in Denver that the fallout drop caused twice as many deaths from leukemia in the following ten years as might have been expected.

On April 26, 1953, the United States detonated a 43-kiloton atomic weapon above the ground at the Nevada test site. Due to a freak of nature much of the debris in the atmosphere clustered together and was carried east by high speed winds at an altitude of about 40,000 feet. Over upper New York State a high altitude thunderstorm occurred, raining much of the fallout down on the Albany-Troy area.

Those affected included unborn children and children born even eight years later, Dr. Sternglass said. In the eight years before this fallout, there had been 20 cases of childhood leukemia. In the eight years after, there were 43 cases. One study for the Atomic Energy Commission concluded that the area received anywhere from 100 to 1,000 times as much radiation as it did normally in a given day.

The charge was denied by the New York State Health Department. The National Center for Radiological Health promised to look into the charge in detail. Another radiation health expert said that larger doses had not caused increases in child leukemia in Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

It is a very interesting conjecture, and the controversy should lead to affirmation, or rejection, of this very serious finding. If true, atomic tests of the Soviet, China and France should also be investigated as to world health consequences.

Safety in the Water

With the official arrival of summer and the closing of schools, families will be enjoying their pools or flocking to the nearby area beaches, ponds and lakes. Once again we emphasize the importance of achieving skill and confidence in the water and in following the simple rules of safety.

Everybody should learn to swim when they are young so that they have the knowledge and skill that may be necessary to save their lives in emergencies. Adults also should learn to swim and enjoy the water in safety.

In Wednesday's issue of The Freeman, there was listed a number of authorized Red Cross water safety instructors who have been given permission to conduct Red Cross swimming and life saving courses throughout the county in the jurisdiction of the Ulster County Chapter.

Safety rules offered by the American Red Cross include:

Never swim alone. As a wise precaution, make sure help is available if you should need it.

Swim at safe bathing places, preferably one with lifeguards.

Do not swim when overheated, overtired or right after eating.

Be sure water is deep enough for diving and has no hidden objects.

Know your ability. Distance over water is misleading.

Take a boat along for distance swimming in open water.

Be courteous. Consider the safety of others.

Above all, for your own safety's sake, do not act like a showoff.

The wisdom of those admonitions is plain. Lives will be saved if they are heeded.

Washington Drunkenness

It is fairly agreed that Washington's liquor consumption is one of the highest in the country. Drunkenness is consequently a serious problem. The capital's problem is being intelligently attacked in Congress.

Legislation making public drunkenness a health problem, rather than a criminal offense, as present statutes define it in the District of Columbia, has been approved by the Senate District Judiciary subcommittee.

When it becomes law, the act provides for the treatment of alcoholics instead of imprisoning them. It makes drunkenness an arrestable offense only when the intoxicated person is endangering himself or others or destroying property. It is not as a drunkard but as a destructive person that he would be arrested.

Washington would maintain one or more detoxification centers of up to 150 beds, an in-patient extended care facility and an out-patient after-care facility. Commitment would not exceed the time necessary to see the person through a period of immediate danger to himself or others.

That is enlightened care. It should be adopted in any community with a similar problem.

Ready, Aim—

David Lawrence Says Packing Supreme Court With Political Cronies

WASHINGTON—Once again the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States has been cynically made an instrument of personal and political manipulation.

The audacity of presidents in giving judicial appointments to political cronies was pointed out by this correspondent in what he wrote at the time when the two men now being named to fill vacancies on the nation's highest are—Abe Fortas and Homer Thornberry—were first nominated to serve on the federal bench.

Back in July, 1963, President Kennedy announced that he was naming to the federal district court representative Thornberry, a Texas Democrat and for many years a political ally of Lyndon Johnson, then vice president. On July 11, 1963, this correspondent wrote:

"It is reported on Capitol Hill that the administration plans to defer action in the Senate on the Thornberry nomination until some time toward the end of the present session in order to assure his vote for administration policies in the closely divided Rules Committee of the House while important legislation is being considered by the committee in the next few months."

"But why should Representative Thornberry be rewarded with a federal judgeship? He has never served on the bench in any court. Why should the President of the United States give anyone a lifetime post in the judicial system on the basis of favors done of a political nature? How can there be confidence in the federal judiciary if judgeships become a matter of political patronage? Were there no lawyers or state judges in west Texas better qualified for the judgeship in question?"

"Does the system of using judgeships as a reward for past political favors mean that judges already on the bench can expect promotions to the United States Court of Appeals only if they 'play ball' with the administration in power?"

President Johnson in 1965 advanced Mr. Thornberry to the Court of Appeals and now has named him an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Also, when Arthur Goldberg was persuaded to leave the high court to become U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, President Johnson promptly appointed his long-time personal adviser, Abe Fortas, as associate justice. This correspondent wrote then, on July 25, 1965:

"Small wonder that the Supreme Court of the United States has steadily fallen into disrepute in recent years as it has developed into an oligarchy of politically rather than judicially minded individuals. Now President Johnson has selected Abe Fortas—his personal friend of long standing who has never had a day's experience on the bench—to be one of the nine justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. This is in line with the unfortunate trend of the past several years."

"Other presidents besides Mr. Johnson, Republican as well as Democratic, have appointed to the Supreme Court political associates or partisan supporters with a controversial background."

"It is surprising that spokesmen for the bar associations, who often stress the need for a 'rule of law,' are willing to sit by without protest as political rather than judicial training becomes the major qualification for appointment to the highest court of the land."

What redress do the American people have when there is such blatant politics in appointments to the nation's highest court? The voters cannot express themselves on this issue directly at the polls, but they can hold responsible the members of the Senate who may soon vote to confirm the appointments. One third of the senators will be seeking reelection in November, and the people will have a chance to reject those candidates who go along with the "packing" of the Supreme Court with lifetime appointments of political cronies by a "lame-duck" president.

Other senators of both parties who will be voting on whether or not to confirm and who happen not to be up for re-election this year will hardly be indifferent, moreover, to the way public opinion reacts to this strange episode. For when a president with just a few months left in office undertakes to deprive the next president of an opportunity to appoint a Chief Justice of the United States to a position vitally affecting the operation of the American constitutional system—it is hardly likely that the American people will approve what appears to them to be a case of political manipulation. There may even be a filibuster in the Senate to prevent action until the convening of the newly elected Congress in January.

Some SDS leaders have consistently attempted to involve as many young people as possible in illegal actions. Once they have a police record, or have been in a strong emotional confrontation with the police or other authorities, the Mao theory runs, the students are committed to fighting "the establishment." They have no other place to go.

In some demonstrations, goon squad types strong-arm those not in sympathy with the SDS and its allies. This is straight from Hitler's operations.

The major weakness of the SDS is that neither its leaders nor its members have thus far shown the ability to discipline themselves or to sacrifice for what they say they believe in.

Like Bureaucrats

For the most part, SDS leaders and their members have not been able to become one with the people whose causes they espouse. They respond like bureaucrats. Their own instructions to their cadres carefully point out that it will not be necessary to suffer in order to go down and work with people in the slums.

SDS planners are forced to urge their people to help in the poor city areas by sugar

ing a really forthright FCC commissioner.

TV Crime Is Profitable

If the FCC should acquire courage, it could go far to discourage crime and violence on the home screen by a very simple expedient—limiting profits. Crime and violence are featured only because they win high audience ratings and attract big-paying sponsors.

We have a letter from former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington, author of the Federal Communications Act of 1934 which created the FCC. Dill is specific on this point.

"The commission has the power to limit the profits of radio and television stations," writes the Senator who wrote the law giving the FCC its power.

"The FCC has limited the profits of the telephone company to 7 per cent. And the Supreme Court quite recently decided that the FCC has control of the telephone cable business by which programs are distributed. It is in the public interest to stop this profiteering of the airwaves under the authority of FCC licenses."

Dill might have pointed out, too, that the electric utility companies which are given permits to build dams on American streams are limited by public utility commissions to 6 or 7 per cent profit. The airwaves are easier to harness, and the profits fantastic. They are so fantastic that the networks have trouble finding outlets for their cash. CBS, for instance, has become the owner of the New York Yankees, "My Fair Lady," a guitar company and an automated education company.

Radio Corporation of America, according to its chairman, Gen. Sarnoff, totaled record sales in 1967 of $3 billion, of which NBC was responsible for part. "I am happy to report," said Sarnoff, "that 1967 was NBC's most successful year in sales and profits."

Senator Smith's Bill Would Probe Effects of TV Violence

WASHINGTON—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, the lady from Maine, has stepped in where Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., dropped the ball in regard to the relation between juvenile delinquency and the movies which, in turn, end up on television.

She has a bill, now before the Senate Commerce Committee, asking for a Senate committee to watch the movies and their effect on the millions of people who view televised crime in their homes.

Meanwhile the radio-TV industry has been watching with apprehension whom its long-time friend, President Johnson, will appoint to the upcoming vacancy on the Federal Communications Commission. This is an agency set up to regulate the nation's airways, which under the law belong to the American people, but which have become a means of making millions for the few who lease them—rent free.

Instead of regulating the airways, the FCC has become the most lethargic commission in Washington. It eats out of the hand of industry and takes its cue from network spokesman Sol Taishoff, publisher of Broadcasting magazine.

President Johnson so far has appointed two FCC commissioners, one of them, Nick Johnson, a live wire; the other, Jerry Wadsworth, a charming misfit who goes to sleep in commission meetings. On one occasion, all the commissioners had left the hearing room when Commissioner Ken Cox thoughtfully walked back to wake up his peacefully sleeping colleague. Otherwise Wadsworth would have continued snoozing in an otherwise empty room.

President Johnson is a close pal of Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS, while NBC's Gen. David Sarnoff has been a frequent White House guest. It will be interesting to see whether the President goes against his old friends on Madison Avenue by appointing a really forthright FCC commissioner.

The Storer Broadcasting Company, a profitable chain, has acquired Northeast Airlines; while RKO-General, another wealthy combine, owns Frontier Airlines.

RKO-General is so affluent and so farflung that the Justice Department finally

The FCC Sleeps

RKO also operates an outdoor advertising company in the Pittsburgh area, leases TV receivers and other equipment to around 20,000 hotels and hospitals in the Northeast, and owns A. M. Byers, largest wrought iron company in the USA. This company, in turn, is engaged in the investment and bottling businesses.

The parent RKO is itself owned by the General Tire and Rubber Company which also owns Aerojet, the company manufacturing the Polaris missile. General Tire has net tire sales of around $235 million annually, plus sales of polyvinyl resins, chloride resins, vinyl plastics, and various military and industrial rubber products.

Still unmentioned are the radio and TV stations which RKO owns directly—the maximum that the law permits. Yet the lethargic FCC has not lifted a finger to probe the many ramifications of this TV-theatrical-industrial empire and its effect on the nation's thinking.

Other agencies of government, for instance the Justice Department, have been more alert. The Federal Trade Commission has also intervened in regard to harmful TV cigarette advertising. The FCC meanwhile has continued to be the tail-wagging friend of the networks.

The day will come when a Congressional committee will investigate the FCC and its favoritism toward certain broadcasters, the crime it has encouraged, and its pandering to profits at the expense of the public. It will ask why one commissioner goes to sleep publicly, the others privately.

President Johnson will have to shake up the FCC with another courageous, live-wire commissioner to support Nick Johnson, or his record will be no better than the others. And the public, because of his family TV holdings, will deal with him harshly.

These are three examples. There are many more.

It is one thing to study the tactics of Mao, Ho, Che and Hitler and to use some of their techniques successfully; it is quite another to be able to build a successful revolutionary movement.

SDS men have learned from Vietnam, Cuba, prewar Germany and China that a few men, using a few standard techniques, can raise a lot of havoc and create situations very difficult for government, college administrators and police to handle. It is especially difficult for a government which lives by democratic Christian rules if the rioters are young students and women, for whom most people have a great deal of sympathy.

But successful insurgencies require a great deal more than techniques. Mao and Ho, for example, have shown a genius for organization, a persistence and a ruggedness that is phenomenal. They have shown the ability to sacrifice personal comforts, to live in want and isolation and to go to prison for long periods to accomplish their aims.

Fallout Into Leukemia

A link between nuclear fallout and children's leukemia has been claimed by a radiation health expert. Dr. Ernest J. One study for the Atomic Energy Commission concluded that the area received anywhere from 100 to 1,000 times as much radiation as it did normally in a given day.

The charge was denied by the New York State Health Department. The National Center for Radiological Health promised to look into the charge in detail. Another radiation health expert said that larger doses had not caused increases in child leukemia in Hiroshima and Nagasaki in 1945.

It is a very interesting conjecture, and the controversy should lead to affirmation, or rejection, of this very serious finding. If true, atomic tests of the Soviet, China and France should also be investigated as to world health consequences.

With the official arrival of summer and the closing of schools, families will be enjoying their pools or flocking to the nearby area beaches, ponds and lakes. Once again we emphasize the importance of achieving skill and confidence in the water and in following the simple rules of safety.

Everybody should learn to swim when they are young so that they have the knowledge and skill that may be necessary to save their lives in emergencies. Adults also should learn to swim and enjoy the water in safety.

In Wednesday's issue of The Freeman, there was listed a number of authorized Red Cross water safety instructors who have been given permission to conduct Red Cross swimming and life saving courses throughout the county in the jurisdiction of the Ulster County Chapter.

Safety rules offered by the American Red Cross include:

Never swim alone. As a wise precaution, make sure help is available if you should need it.

Swim at safe bathing places, preferably one with lifeguards.

Do not swim when overheated, overtired or right after eating.

Be sure water is deep enough for diving and has no hidden objects.

Know your ability. Distance over water is misleading.

Take a boat along for distance swimming in open water.

Be courteous. Consider the safety of others.

Above all, for your own safety's sake, do not act like a showoff.

The wisdom of those admonitions is plain. Lives will be saved if they are heeded.

Washington Drunkenness

It is fairly agreed that Washington's liquor consumption is one of the highest in the country. Drunkenness is consequently a serious problem. The capital's problem is being intelligently attacked in Congress.

Legislation making public drunkenness a health problem, rather than a criminal offense, as present statutes define it in the District of Columbia, has been approved by the Senate District Judiciary subcommittee.

When it becomes law, the act provides for the treatment of alcoholics instead of imprisoning them. It makes drunkenness an arrestable offense only when the intoxicated person is endangering himself or others or destroying property. It is not as a drunkard but as a destructive person that he would be arrested.

Washington would maintain one or more detoxification centers of up to 150 beds, an in-patient extended care facility and an out-patient after-care facility. Commitment would not exceed the time necessary to see the person through a period of immediate danger to himself or others.

That is enlightened care. It should be adopted in any community with a similar problem.

Ready, Aim--

Packing Supreme Court With Political Cronies

WASHINGTON—Once again the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States has been cynically made an instrument of personal and political manipulation. The audacity of presidents in giving judicial appointments to political cronies was pointed out by this correspondent in what he wrote at the time when the two men now being named to fill vacancies on the nation's highest are—Abe Fortas and Homer Thornberry—were first nominated to serve on the federal bench.

Back in July, 1963, President Kennedy announced that he was naming to the federal district court representative Thornberry, a Texas Democrat and for many years a political ally of Lyndon Johnson, then vice president. On July 11, 1963, this correspondent wrote:

"It is reported on Capitol Hill that the administration plans to defer action in the Senate on the Thornberry nomination until some time toward the end of the present session in order to assure his vote for administration policies in the closely divided Rules Committee of the House while important legislation is being considered by the committee in the next few months. . . .

"But why should Representative Thornberry be rewarded with a federal judgeship? He has never served on the bench in any court. Why should the President of the United States give anyone a lifetime post in the judicial system on the basis of favors done of a political nature? How can there be confidence in the federal judiciary if judgeships become a matter of political patronage? Were there no lawyers or state judges in west Texas better qualified for the judgeship in question? . . .

"Does the system of using judgeships as a reward for past political favors mean that judges already on the bench can expect promotions to the United States Court of Appeals only if they 'play ball' with the administration in power? . . .

"President Johnson in 1965 advanced Mr. Thornberry to the Court of Appeals and now has named him an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Also, when Arthur Goldberg was persuaded to leave the high court to become U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, President Johnson promptly appointed his long-time personal adviser, Abe Fortas, as associate justice. This correspondent wrote then, on July 25, 1963:

"Small wonder that the Supreme Court of the United States has steadily fallen into disrepute in recent years as it has developed into an oligarchy of politically rather than judicially minded individuals. . . . Now President Johnson has selected Abe Fortas—his personal friend of long standing who has never had a day's experience on the bench—to be one of the nine justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. This is in line with the unfortunate trend of the past several years.

"Other presidents besides Mr. Johnson, Republican as well as Democrat, have appointed to the Supreme Court political associates or partisan supporters with a controversial background. . . . 'It is surprising that spokesmen for the bar associations, who often stress the need for a 'rule of law,' are willing to sit by without protest as political rather than judicial training becomes the major qualification for appointment to the highest court of the land."

What redress do the American people have when there is such blatant politics in appointments to the nation's highest court? The voters cannot express themselves on this issue directly at the polls, but they can hold responsible the members of the Senate who may soon vote to confirm the appointments. One third of the senators will be seeking reelection in November, and the people will have a chance to reject those candidates who go along with the "packing" of the Supreme Court with lifetime appointments of political cronies by a "lame-duck" president.

Other senators of both parties who will be voting on whether or not to confirm and who happen not to be up for reelection this year will hardly be indifferent, moreover, to the way public opinion reacts to this strange episode. For when a president with just a few months left in office undertakes to deprive the next president of an opportunity to appoint a Chief Justice of the United States—a position vitally affecting the operation of the American constitutional system—it is hardly likely that the American people will approve what appears to them to be a case of political manipulation. There may even be a filibuster in the Senate to prevent action until the convening of the newly elected Congress in January.

Drew Pearson Says Senator Smith's Bill Would Probe Effects of TV Violence

WASHINGTON—Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, the lady from Maine, has stepped in where Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., dropped the ball in regard to the relation between juvenile delinquency and the movies which, in turn, end up on television.

She has a bill, now before the Senate Commerce Committee, asking for a Senate committee to watch the movies and their effect on the millions of people who view televised crime in their homes.

Meanwhile the radio-TV industry has been watching with apprehension whom its long-time friend, President Johnson, will appoint to the upcoming vacancy on the Federal Communications Communications Commission. This is an agency set up to regulate the nation's airways, which under the law belong to the American people, but which have become a means of making millions for the few who lease them—rent free.

Instead of regulating the airways, the FCC has become the most lethargic commission in Washington. It eats out of the hand of industry and takes its cue from network spokesman Sol Taishoff, publisher of Broadcasting magazine.

President Johnson so far has appointed two FCC commissioners, one of them, Nick Johnson, a live wire; the other, Jerry Wadsworth, a charming misfit who goes to sleep in commission meetings. On one occasion, all the commissioners had left the hearing room when Commissioner Ken Cox thoughtfully walked back to wake up his peacefully sleeping colleague. Otherwise Wadsworth would have continued snoozing in an otherwise empty room.

President Johnson is a close pal of Dr. Frank Stanton, head of CBS, while NBC's Gen. David Sarnoff has been a frequent White House guest. It will be interesting to see whether the President goes against his old friends on Madison Avenue by appointing a really forthright FCC commissioner.

TV Crime Is Profitable

If the FCC should acquire courage, it could go far to discourage crime and violence on the home screen by a very simple expedient—limiting profits. Crime and violence are featured only because they win high audience ratings and attract big-paying sponsors.

We have a letter from former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington, author of the Federal Communications Act of 1934 which created the FCC. Dill is specific on this point. "The commission has the power to limit the profits of radio and television stations," writes the Senator who wrote the law giving the FCC its power.

"The FCC has limited the profits of the telephone company to 7 per cent. And the Supreme Court quite recently decided that the FCC has control of the telephone cable business by which programs are distributed. It is in the public interest to stop this profiteering of the airwaves under the authority of FCC licenses."

Dill might have pointed out, too, that the electric utility companies which are given permits to build dams on American streams are limited by public utility commissions to 6 or 7 per cent profit. The airwaves are easier to harness, and the profits fantastic. They are so fantastic that the networks have trouble finding outlets for their cash. CBS, for instance, has become the owner of the New York Yankees, "My Fair Lady," a guitar company and an automated education company.

Radio Corporation of America, according to its chairman, Gen. Sarnoff, totaled record sales in 1967 of $3 billion, of which NBC was responsible for part. "I am happy to report," said Sarnoff, "that 1967 was NBC's most successful year in sales and profits."

The Storer Broadcasting Company, a profitable chain, has acquired Northeast Airlines; while RKO-General, another wealthy combine, owns Frontier Airlines.

RKO-General is so affluent and so farflung that the Justice Department finally

The FCC Sleeps
RKO also operates an outdoor advertising company in the Pittsburgh area, leases TV receivers and other equipment to around 20,000 hotels and hospitals in the Northeast, and owns A. M. Byers, largest wrought iron company in the USA. This company, in turn, is engaged in the investment and bottling businesses.

The parent RKO is itself owned by the General Tire and Rubber Company which also owns Aerjet, the company manufacturing the Polaris missile. General Tire has net sales of around $235 million annually, plus sales of polyvinyl resins, chloride resins, vinyl plastics, and various military and industrial rubber products.

Still unmentioned are the radio and TV stations which RKO owns directly—the maximum that the law permits. Yet the lethargic FCC has not lifted a finger to probe the many ramifications of this TV-theatrical-industrial empire and its effect on the nation's thinking.

Other agencies of government, for instance the Justice Department, have been more alert. The Federal Trade Commission has also intervened in regard to harmful TV cigarette advertising. The FCC meanwhile has continued to be the tail-wagging friend of the networks.

The day will come when a Congressional committee will investigate the FCC and its favoritism toward certain broadcasters, the crime it has encouraged, and its pandering to profits at the expense of the public. It will ask why one commissioner goes to sleep publicly, the others privately.

President Johnson will have to shake up the FCC with another courageous, live-wire commissioner to support Nick Johnson, or his record will be no better than the others. And the public, because of his family TV holdings, will deal with him harshly.

No Sweat for Ideals

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some Students for a Democratic Society operations show evidence of a thorough study of the riot-demonstration techniques of Adolf Hitler, Che Guevara, Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh:

In the Columbia University riots the students made repeated vicious, personal physical attacks on police to insure a police reaction. He's men used these tactics repeatedly in his build-up to enable his people to charge police brutality and win sympathizers.

Some SDS leaders have consistently attempted to involve as many young people as possible in illegal actions. Once they have a police record, or have been in a strong emotional confrontation with the police or other authorities, the Mao theory runs, the students are committed to fighting "the establishment." They have no other place to go.

In some demonstrations, goon squad types strong-arm those not in sympathy with the SDS and its allies. This is straight from Hitler's operations.

These are three examples. There are many more.

It is one thing to study the tactics of Mao, Ho, Che and Hitler and to use some of their techniques successfully; it is quite another to be able to build a successful revolutionary movement.

SDS men have learned from Vietnam, Cuba, prewar Germany and China that a few men, using a few standard techniques, can raise a lot of havoc and create situations very difficult for government, college administrators and police to handle. It is especially difficult for a government which lives by democratic, Christian rules if the rioters are young students and women, for whom most people have a great deal of sympathy.

But successful insurgencies require a great deal more than techniques. Mao and Ho, for example, have shown a genius for organization, a persistence and a ruggedness that is phenomenal. They have shown the ability to sacrifice personal comforts, to live in want and isolation and to go to prison for long periods to accomplish their aims.

The major weakness of the SDS is that neither its leaders nor its members have thus far shown the ability to discipline themselves or to sacrifice for what they say they believe in.

Like Bureaucrats

For the most part, SDS leaders and their members have not been able to become one with the people whose causes they espouse. They respond like bureaucrats. Their own instructions to their cadres carefully point out that it will not be necessary to suffer in order to go down and work with people in the slums.

SDS planners are forced to urge their people to help in the poor city areas by sugar

-coated urgings: "...students will learn that organizing in poor and working class neighborhoods is not the ascetic, austere, monklike trip that (they imagine)..."

Even with this promise, however, the SDSers are finding their people more ready with riots and demonstrations than with the slow, angling for a hard work among ordinary people. Says one SDS leader:

"We talk of going in to organize neighborhoods or factories, or relating to those projects with some professional skill, but too few of us have moved."

No revolution can be successful with the reluctant attitude these SDS men and women have. Ho's successes and Mao's successes came about because their cadres moved in with the people on their own living standards.

Most SDS members, however, remain isolated from the Negro, the poor, the worker—intellectually, emotionally and financially. They are like the bureaucrat or the aristocrat of old, daintily walking into the slums, handkerchief over nose, handing out charity. The fact that these men and women may put on dirty clothes and talk sex, play guitars and use four-letter words doesn't enable them to forget that they are university men and women and that any day they can pick up their kit and walk into another world.

Numbers of these SDS activists are enamored of words. As one says, "We create symbols which have no content. . . . What does it mean to 'expose the bankruptcy of electoral politics' . . . What does anti-imperialism mean? . . . We have great difficulty using these terms that are bandied about so freely."

In short, many of these SDSers are children playing at revolution. Many are playing only so long as they're certain they won't be hurt seriously.

Freeman Readers Write the Editor

Town of Ulster
June 15, 1968
Editor, The Freeman:

Dog Control Ordinance

The Democratic Party in The Town of Ulster congratulates the Ulster Town Board for finally bringing a controversial issue to a public vote. Under the leadership of Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz the Town Board has found the courage to pass a Dog Control Ordinance. Voting on any controversial issue is rare in Ulster. For years the practice has been to have endless studies and discussions but never a vote. In this way neither those opposed nor those in favor of a measure were offended. The Dog Ordinance was even more remarkable in that the vote in the Town Board was, for the first time in memory, not unanimous.

Those citizens who petitioned in favor of Dog Control have proved that the Ulster Town Government can be moved after all. That too is encouraging.

Whether this ordinance will be effectively enforced remains to be seen. Town Justice Arthur Reilly, who voted a strong no, probably will be very lenient in the courtroom. Justice Sherwood Davis abstained from voting with the excuse that he might someday have to hear a dog complaint and does not want to be accused of bias. If he really feels this way he cannot in good conscience vote on any Town ordinances and should resign from office.

Now that the Town Board has found some courage it would be well for it to consider the other controversial issues which have been around for years. The Zoning Ordinance (10 years old), the Master Plan (11 years old) and the Sewer proposal (5 years old) should be decided in public NOW!

David Lawrence, in his column in the June 18th Freeman, would have readers believe that there will be two Presidential candidates.

I am positive that Mr. Lawrence is fully aware of the fact that there are other candidates, such as Henning Blomen, the Presidential nominee of the Socialist Labor Party.

I agree with him that the Kennedy Nixon debates in 1960 were actually personality contests.

A series of debates between Mr. Blomen as an advocate of Socialism and whoever will be the choice of the Republicans, or the Democrats, as a defender of the status quo, would really be of value to the voters as they would be based, not on personalities, but on the issue of Socialism versus Capitalism.

The following letter has been mailed to Governor Rockefeller. Can you find space in your publication for it?

Governor Rockefeller, the tragic death of Robert F. Kennedy has left a vacancy in the representation in the United States Senate.

Common decency commands that you appoint a qualified Democrat to fill out the unexpired term. I believe it will meet with the approval of Republicans, Democrats, Liberals and Conservatives.

You are advocating a new politics. Can I assume that when a vacancy occurs you will appoint a qualified member of the political party that has lost its seat?

Can this be one of your proposals in your new politics? Hoping the answer will be an affirmative one.

Timely Quotes

There are those today who say that each man can choose the law he wishes to obey, that need for social change is justification to wreck society, that reform is excuse to violate individuals and destroy property. In their perversion of the right to dissent, these revolutionary hypocrites sing songs of freedom but dance to the beat of anarchy.

—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Do you believe that we would be sitting calmly here discussing whether or not abortions should be permitted by law if men lived with the risk of pregnancy every time they engaged in sexual intercourse?

The Negro Veteran Comes Home: Many Help on Job, Home, School

Last of Three Articles
By THOMAS CORPORA

NEW YORK (UPI)—To ease the Negro soldier's return to civilian life, federal, state and local governments, civil rights groups and private agencies are operating numerous programs to help him find a job, a home or an education.

New York City has a center where any veteran can get help in one office with housing, a job or school. Chicago has an employment center limited to Vietnam veterans.

A Washington group known as the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights under Law is helping Negro veterans obtain jobs as policemen. The American Legion has a job program. So does the U.S. Department of Labor.

Three Biggest

The three biggest programs are the Veterans Administration's "one stop" assistance centers recently set up in 20 cities for "disadvantaged" veterans; the Urban League's veterans affairs coordinators in nine major cities; and the Defense Department's "Project Transition."

"Project Transition" began as a pilot program at five military bases in June, 1967. It became optional at all U.S. military bases Jan. 1, 1968.

Of the approximately 150,000 men who leave the services each year, all take part in "Project Transition" at least to the extent of filling out a questionnaire. More than half ask for some help in counseling, skill enhancement, education or job placement.

The program has arranged with about 50 private companies to train men while they are still in uniform. In most cases, this results in quick jobs for the men when they are discharged. Since the men are trained in the service, the program also results in a saving of as much as $1,000 per man to the firm that employs him.

The program offers vocational training in data processing, post office and police department work, automotive mechanics, drafting, electricity, radio and television, welding and service station management.

In addition, the Defense Department offers early discharges to men who qualify as policemen and win jobs on city law enforcement staffs. Since the program was inaugurated last fall, 536 servicemen, some of them Negroes, have gotten early discharges to become policemen.

Sgt. Raymond Daly of Brooklyn, a Negro Vietnam veteran, earned a high school diploma through "Project Transition," and says when he gets out of the service, "I feel my chances of getting a good job will be better."

Diesel Mechanic

S. Sgt. John Earl Foley of Beaumont, Tex., an airman who served in Vietnam, was undecided about what he would do when he got out of the service. Through project counselors he decided to be a diesel mechanic. "Project Transition helped me find a good school to attend to take up mechanics," Foley said.

The Veterans Administration's "one-stop" assistance centers were created early this year to offer the "disadvantaged veteran," primarily Negroes with little education and skilled only in the use of such weapons as the M16 rifle or M79 grenade launcher, one place where he can learn about benefits to which he is entitled and receive job and educational counseling.

The assistance center gets the names of "disadvantaged veterans" from the VA's data processing center at Austin, Tex., and VA personnel attempt to make direct contact with each one through telephone calls, personal visits to his home or by letters. Perhaps the most effective program is operated by the Urban League. It is financed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the Defense Department cooperates.

Contact GIs

Between 90 and 120 days before discharge, military officials contact each Negro GI, inform him of the Urban League's program and, if he desires, give him a league questionnaire that asks about employment, education and housing and whether the serviceman needs assistance.

Frank R. Steele, a retired major and head of the program, said the league gets about 1,600 requests for assistance each month—about 19,200 a year, or from one-third of the Negroes being discharged.

The league has full-time veteran coordinators in nine cities—New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Atlanta, New Orleans, Detroit, Washington and San Francisco.

Modeled after New York City's veterans center, the program offers job, educational, housing and other counseling services in one office.

The Urban League has had considerable success. During the first three months of this year, 2,162 Negro veterans asked for assistance in finding a job and the league placed 605 of them; 150 wanted help with housing and the league helped 59, and 779 asked for vocational or educational guidance and the league assisted 662.

Problems Exist

Despite the numerous programs, there are still problems—jobs in Atlanta, for instance. In New Orleans, it is housing.

Otilio Mighty, New York Urban League coordinator, said he gets many calls from well-meaning employers who have a $65 a week janitorial or delivery boy jobs to offer.

Some Negro veterans find that the best way to get what they want is to avoid the various programs that have been created for them and use their own resources.

Robert C. Kayton, 24, of Detroit, discharged from the Marine Corps in January, was determined to become a photographer. He went to the Urban League for help.

"The Urban League suggested maybe I'd better take another job for a while and they'd keep looking," Kayton said. "I didn't do that."

He finally found a job as an industrial photographer through a Negro employment agency. His boss, Scott Lewis, said he hired Kayton because he showed "good potential."

"I expected a lot of him when I got him, and he's showing me more than I expected," Lewis said.

By JON POWERS

Area dairy product prices will be partially affected by the July 1 hike in milk distributor costs announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, local retailers have told the Freeman.

The proposed hike will directly affect the milk distributors in the area. However it is their decision whether or not to raise the price of dairy products for the consumer.

Most of the local retailers differ as to the specific products that will be affected, but all agree that some prices will have to be raised in order to compete with rising costs.

The July 1 hike is expected to increase by 10c per hundredweight the cost of milk resold in bottled or fluid form. Additional amendments to the proposal will raise milk distributor's costs an additional 10-15 cents per hundredweight. The proposal will represent a total increase of approximately 1/2 cent per quart of milk for the distributors.

While most of the milk distributors in Ulster County have not yet decided whether milk prices will be raised, most have indicated that the by-products of milk, such as heavy cream, cheese, and half and half, will experience a price increase of approximately a cent for each item.

If consumer prices for dairy products are increased by the local retailers, the hike is not expected to take effect until late July. Most of the distributors will probably wait several weeks before reaching a final decision. A consensus of local dairies indicates that all have considered the possibility of increasing their prices, but none have reached a positive decision at this late date. The Hi Health Dairy of Kingston reported that it will probably raise the price of milk by-products by one cent per item, but that the price of milk will remain the same. The Wiltwyck Dairy stated that, if the proposed measure did go into effect, it would have to raise its prices accordingly. And the Silver Lake Dairy anticipated that all products would experience a price raise later in the summer.

The items that will be most affected by the price increase are those that the distributors buy from other retail markets. Products such as eggs and cheese will, according to one Ulster County dairy, cost more for the consumer.

Protective Custody For King Witnesses

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Three persons, believed to be key witnesses in the April 4 slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., may have been taken into protective custody.

Local authorities refused comment and a special agent of the FBI said he had "no knowledge" of the whereabouts of Charles Q. Stevens and Willie Anchutz, both occupants, and Mrs. Bessie Brewer, the former manager, of the down-at-the-heels rooming house on South Main St., from where the fatal shot was fired.

All three saw the man who checked into the rooming house and allegedly fired the shot that killed King. The FBI later identified that man as James Earl Ray, a fugitive from a Missouri prison arrested June 8 in London under the name Ramon George Sneyd.

In extradition proceedings in London Thursday, barrister David Calcutt, representing the United States, said Stevens was a witness to the King assassination, a statement that sparked a search here for the witnesses.

A check of the rooming house revealed that Mrs. Brewer and her husband, Frank, had been replaced in the manager's office by Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald; Stevens' room No. 6 was padlocked, and there was no report on Anchutz.

Frank Holloman, director of fire and police, said he could make no comment on any facet of the case. He repeated the statement as he was questioned about the whereabouts of the three.

Robert Jensen, special agent in charge of the FBI office here, said he talked with Stevens a "few weeks" ago, but "I have no knowledge of his whereabouts at the present time."

Jensen refused comment about Mrs. Brewer and Anchutz, saying, "I'm sorry I'm restricted and can say nothing about the case."

Sgt. Raymond Daly of Brooklyn, a Negro Vietnam veteran, earned a high school diploma through "Project Transition," and says when he gets out of the service, "I feel my chances of getting a good job will be better."

Diesel Mechanic
S. Sgt. John Earl Foley of Beaumont, Tex., an airman who served in Vietnam, was undecided about what he would do when he got out of the service. Through project counselors he decided to be a diesel mechanic. "Project Transition helped me find a good school to attend to take up mechanics," Foley said.

The Veterans Administration's "one-stop" assistance centers were created early this year to offer the "disadvantaged veteran," primarily Negroes with little education and skilled only in the use of such weapons as the M16 rifle or M79 grenade launcher, one place where he can learn about benefits to which he is entitled and receive job and educational counseling.

The assistance center gets the names of "disadvantaged veterans" from the VA's data processing center at Austin, Tex., and VA personnel attempt to make direct contact with each one through telephone calls, personal visits to his home or by letters. Perhaps the most effective program is operated by the Urban League. It is financed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the Defense Department cooperates.

Contact GIs
Between 90 and 120 days before discharge, military officials contact each Negro GI, inform him of the Urban League's program and, if he desires, give him a league questionnaire that asks about employment, education and housing and whether the service needs assistance.

Frank R. Steele, a retired major and head of the program, said the league gets about 1,600 requests for assistance each month—about 19,200 a year, or from one-third of the Negroes being discharged.

The league has full-time veteran coordinators in nine cities—New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Atlanta, New Orleans, Detroit, Washington and San Francisco.

Modeled after New York City's veterans center, the program offers job, educational, housing and other counseling services in one office.

The Urban League has had considerable success. During the first three months of this year, 2,162 Negro veterans asked for assistance in finding a job and the league placed 605 of them; 150 wanted help with housing and the league helped 59, and 779 asked for vocational or educational guidance and the league assisted 662.

Problems Exist
Despite the numerous programs, there are still problems—jobs in Atlanta, for instance. In New Orleans, it is housing.

Otilio Mighty, New York Urban League coordinator, said he gets many calls from well-meaning employers who have a $65 a week janitorial or delivery boy jobs to offer.

Some Negro veterans find that the best way to get what they want is to avoid the various programs that have been created for them and use their own resources.

Robert C. Kayton, 24, of Detroit, discharged from the Marine Corps in January, was determined to become a photographer. He went to the Urban League for help.

"The Urban League suggested maybe I'd better take another job for a while and they'd keep looking," Kayton said. "I didn't do that."

He finally found a job as an industrial photographer through a Negro employment agency. His boss, Scott Lewis, said he hired Kayton because he showed "good potential."

"I expected a lot of him when I got him, and he's showing me more than I expected," Lewis said.

By JON POWERS

Area dairy product prices will be partially affected by the July 1 hike in milk distributor costs announced recently by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, local retailers have told the Freeman.

The proposed hike will directly affect the milk distributors in the area. However it is their decision whether or not to raise the price of dairy products for the consumer.

Most of the local retailers differ as to the specific products that will be affected, but all agree that some prices will have to be raised in order to compete with rising costs.

The July 1 hike is expected to increase by 10c per hundredweight the cost of milk resold in bottled or fluid form. Additional amendments to the proposal will raise milk distributor's costs an additional 10-15 cents per hundredweight. The proposal will represent a total increase of approximately 1/2 cent per quart of milk for the distributors.

While most of the milk distributors in Ulster County have not yet decided whether milk prices will be raised, most have indicated that the by-products of milk, such as heavy cream, cheese, and half and half, will experience a price increase of approximately a cent for each item.

If consumer prices for dairy products are increased by the local retailers, the hike is not expected to take effect until late July. Most of the distributors will probably wait several weeks before reaching a final decision.

A consensus of local dairies indicates that all have considered the possibility of increasing their prices, but none have reached a positive decision at this late date. The Hi Health Dairy of Kingston reported that

Protective Custody For King Witnesses

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Three persons, believed to be key witnesses in the April 4 slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., may have been taken into protective custody.

Local authorities refused comment and a special agent of the FBI said he had "no knowledge" of the whereabouts of Charles Q. Stevens and Willie Anchutz, both occupants, and Mrs. Bessie Brewer, the former manager, of the down-at-the-heels rooming house on South Main St., from where the fatal shot was fired.

All three saw the man who checked into the rooming house and allegedly fired the shot that killed King. The FBI later identified that man as James Earl Ray, a fugitive from a Missouri prison arrested June 8 in London under the name Ramon George Sneyd.

In extradition proceedings in London Thursday, barrister David Calcutt, representing the United States, said Stevens was

Albany Dems Give Nod Again To O'Connell

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Daniel P. O'Connell, an old-style politician, sparing of word, but long on political power, has won unanimous reelection as chairman of the Albany County Democratic Committee, which he has ruled for nearly half a century.

The 82-year-old O'Connell was elected in less than a minute at Thursday night's committee meeting. The O'Connell organization has dominated city and county government here for the past 45 years.

O'Connell's reelection Thursday came in the aftermath of victories here in last week's State Primary Election, of three uncommitted presidential delegates, countering a statewide trend for delegates pledged to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. In addition, Albany County gave Eugene H. Nickerson, a comfortable margin in his unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate nomination.

O'Connell, an intimate of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Postmaster General James Farley, and many other well-known political leaders, is the last of the state's longtime Democratic county leaders.

We Have Given You The Facts!

- 1—Cost of heat, light and power in the Ulster County Office Building is less than half of the costs for the Ulster County Community College buildings with electric heat.
- 2—The ACTUAL electric bill at the Ulster County Community College was over $1500 a month more than the engineering report said it would be!
- 3—Ulster County Community College was told the cost of labor, maintenance and repair of an oil heating system would be $21,594.00 annually. At the Ulster County Office Building this cost averages less than $500 annually.
- 4—Construction costs are practically the same regardless of which form of heat is used.

Will the above facts be considered in the heating decisions for Phase 2 of the Ulster County Community College?

We, the local oil heat dealers are heartily in favor of the establishment and further expansion of the Ulster County Community College!

Economic Crisis in France, Money May Lose Its Value

By LOUIS NEVIN

PARIS (AP) — In the wake of its national convulsion, France faces the threat of galloping inflation that may force devaluation of its money and put a strain on the entire international monetary system.

An inflationary rise of prices raises the threat of another round of social strife in the autumn.

The French crisis will probably have mixed results on the international level. Salary raises and increased social benefits handed out to settle the three-week wave of strikes across France are expected to increase purchasing power by some $4 billion this year and nearly $10 billion next year. This could trigger an import explosion that should immediately benefit France's Common Market partners, especially West Germany.

But the flood of exports to France could easily create a demand inflation in West Germany and other Common Market countries which would be to the advantage in the long run to Americans and British.

With greater unencumbered financial reserves that the United States, the French will not face a need to cut the franc's value until next year, experts say.

The government has already served notice it will fight to save the franc with all of the nation's considerable resources. And government informants say the regime will only consider devaluation as part of a broad reform and revaluation of the monetary system.

The strikes that virtually halted all communications and industrial production, however, have left the franc the most overvalued money in the West.

It has been crawling along for weeks at its floor level of 4.9740 to the dollar, the rate at which the government is obliged by international convention to buy in order to ward off a further decline.

Banks in Belgium, West Germany and Switzerland, though report a continuing flow of francs being changed into dollars, Swiss francs and other currencies despite the strict exchange controls imposed May 31 by the new finance minister, Maurice Couve de Murville.

Tighten Controls The controls were tightened last Saturday after the discovery of widespread evasion. The original measure permitted residents of France to take 1,000 francs, roughly $200, with them every time they went abroad.

This was reduced to 100 francs, or $20, in any 24-hour period. It was discovered some Frenchmen were going back and forth across the border taking 1,000 francs with them every time.

Couve de Murville was still counting the cost to the nation of the strikes which at their height idled an estimated 8 million to 10 million workers. He is not expected to make public a balance sheet until after Sunday's final round of elections.

Synagogue News

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim is located at 24 West Union Street, Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, DD, Cantor Herman Slomovits. Agudas Achim is a traditional synagogue affiliated with the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations, is open every day of the year for services and private devotions.

Light the Sabbath Candles this evening at 8:12. Mincha Services will start at 7:30. Saturday morning services will start at 8:30. Rabbi Rappaport will speak on the topic, Divided We Fall, based on the scriptural reading of the week from Numbers 16. Mincha services on Saturday night will start at 7:45.

Sunday morning services will start at 8. Sunday evening Mincha will be at 7. Weekday services are held at 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Congregation affiliated with the United Synagogue of America, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday, 8 p. m. and Saturday, 9:30 a. m. During the summer months there will be no weekday morning or evening services, beginning this Sunday, June 30 until Labor Day. Regular weekday services will resume after Labor Day. Those members who will have to say Kaddish at a yahrtzeit, should contact the rabbi, Ephraim Propp or Carl Lipton, and a service will be arranged.

This Friday, 8 p. m., a family service will be held at which time those celebrating birthdays and wedding anniversaries will be honored, and a reception will be given at the Oneg Shabbat.

The following are celebrating their birthdays in June: Mark Parnett, Jonathan Liffgens, Bruce Nussbaum, Ellen Horowitz, Leslie Wall, Jay Cohen, Barbara Bush, Herschel Weinstein, Deborah Love, Phyllis Furman, Robert Strugatz, Mark Tannin, Lawrence Spiegel, Lewis Spiegel, and Bruce Minksky.

The wedding anniversaries are of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Adin, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gikner, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Goldman, Mr. and Mrs. William Helmrich, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Liffgens, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gruber, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gruber, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gerstenzang, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis.

For the information of those interested, this issue of Synagogue News for Congregation Ahavath Israel may be discontinued for a while during the summer months, so the Rabbi would like to stress now that religious services Fridays 8 p. m. and Saturdays at 9:30 a. m. will continue at usual at all times.

Demonetization means the removal of standard monetary value from a metal, or to a coin issue withdrawn from circulation.

Montreal Man Newest for Heart Surgery

MONTREAL (AP) — A 49-year-old electrical designer, who doctors said had little time to live after suffering his third heart attack, underwent heart transplant surgery today in the Montreal Heart Institute.

He was receiving the heart of a 23-year-old man who had died as the result of a traffic accident.

The operation, is the 22nd in the world. Four of the transplant recipients are still living, including Dr. Philip Blajberg, 53, who received a heart in Cape Town, South Africa, Jan. 2.

The operation today was started hours after the recipient's wife publicly appealed to hospital emergency wards in the area to remind families of accident victims that her husband needed a heart transplant.

"As a wife and mother of five children, I ask only that any family that is in a position to come to the aid of my husband does not hesitate to make the gesture which will cost nothing but which could save a life," she said in an interview.

Her husband had suffered three heart attacks since 1963.

Gaetan Paris, 49, an electrical designer, was receiving the heart of Yvan Bastien, 23, a traffic accident victim.

The transplant operation is the second performed by the institute.

The previous patient was Albert Murphy, who received a new heart in an eight-hour operation May 31. He died June 1.

State Reports On Controlling Fox Abundance

Research studies to find a reproductive inhibitor effective in controlling fox abundance have been very promising. Tests of several inhibitors in caged foxes indicated.

The report was made in a State Conservation Department announcement which noted a continued decline in cases of active rabies infection in animals in the state during the first five months of this year.

In the report one case of rabies in a dead bat was noted in Ulster County.

The department's Division of Fish and Game reported from Jan. 1 through May 31, 10 cases of rabies were discovered with only five counties involved, including Ulster. During the same period last year there were 23 cases of rabies in 10 counties. There were 89 cases reported during all of 1967 which tied 1963 for the lowest annual total in over 22 years. The 10 positive cases discovered during the first five months of this year resulted from tests conducted by the State Health Department on approximately 600 dead animals suspected of being rabid.

In this year's survey, Clinton and Franklin Counties have each had three cases; St. Lawrence County, two and Ontario and Ulster, one each. Franklin County had three rabid foxes; Ontario, one fox; Clinton, one fox, a cow and a skunk; St. Lawrence, a fox and a horse; and Ulster County a rabid bat.

The statistics were developed by personnel assigned to the Conservation Department's Wildlife Rabies Control Program in cooperation with the State Health Department.

Under this program, wildlife trappers have been employed to reduce the population of foxes and skunks, the primary vectors, or carriers of wildlife rabies.

People using outdoor recreation areas this summer were cautioned to prevent possible contact with rabid animals by not disturbing or picking up young animals they might find in the woods.

Investigate Burglary

Ellenville police today investigated a burglary at the Finkelstein Bros. store, 18 Market Street, that village, which was discovered when the establishment was opened for business shortly after 6 a. m. Investigation by Sergeant Otis Brown and Patrolman Warren Hall disclosed the place had been entered by prying a window on the south side of the building. The intruder, who made off with a 19-inch GE portable television set, left the store through the rear door, police said.

Harrassment Charge

George Dorsey, 46, of New York City, was arrested Thursday by Kingston Detectives Joseph Peraca and Meyer Levy on two charges of harassment. Dorsey was held for arraignment before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Boy, 6, Killed

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Duane Kim, 6, was injured fatally Thursday when struck by an automobile in front of his home. The child had chased a ball into the street, sheriff's deputies said. He was the son of Mrs. Gladys Kim.

County Airport

been keeping a close eye on Kennedy Airport in New York. At present, there are two a day during the week, two Saturday morning and one Sunday afternoon. Cost is $39.80 roundtrip, about twice the cost of travel by land.

The planners and the Federal Aviation Administration have more than a passing interest in this small operation which began a few months ago. If it is successful, it could indicate a need for regular charter service for the county and yet another reason for building the airport.

While owners of present airports don't appear too happy with the prospect of a large, county-owned field, it could actually work to their advantage. Pleasure flying is expected to enjoy the same booming popularity in the next 10 years as boating has in the past 10.

Ulster County is well stocked with airports although they are of varying quality and length. All should be accessible to pleasure craft, however. They include five classified as commercial: Aero Lake with a 3,000-foot runway, Coblet (2,900 foot, 500 turf), Stanton (2,600), Sage (2,500) and Kingston Ulster (3,400).

Listed under private airports are the following turf strips: Accord (2,320), Ploft (1,735), Anderson Acres (2,100), Wright (2,000), Gardiner (2,400), Marlboro (1,722), Striber (2,000) and the controversial LHJ Airport in Ellenville with a 4,000 foot paved runway.

Ulster County's future is clearly in the air. The question is whether we want to reach high enough.

State Distribution

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $292,965 for July 1968 to the Social Service District of Ulster County. This money represents approximately 80 per cent of the Federal and State share of the anticipated welfare expenditures by this locality. The Federal share of this advance amounts to $234,372. Unlike New York City, Federal regulation does not require semi-monthly payments to the Ulster County District. Ulster County's appropriation is the 18th largest in the state.

Caution on Pools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extreme caution should be used in storing, handling and mixing calcium hypochlorite, a chemical used to sterilize swimming and wading pools, the state Commissioner Hollis S. It has been crawling along for weeks at its floor level of 4.9740 francs to the dollar, the rate at which the government is obliged by international convention to buy in order to ward off a further decline.

Banks in Belgium, West Germany and Switzerland, though report a continuing flow of francs being changed into dollars, Swiss francs and other currencies despite the strict exchange controls imposed May 31 by the new finance minister, Maurice Couve de Murville.

Tighten Controls

The controls were tightened last Saturday after the discovery of widespread evasion. The original measure permitted residents of France to take 1,000 francs, roughly $200, with them every time they went abroad. This was reduced to 100 francs, or $20, in any 24-hour period. It was discovered some Frenchmen were going back and forth across the border taking 1,000 francs with them every time.

Couve de Murville was still counting the cost to the nation of the strikes which at their height idled an estimated 8 million to 10 million workers. He is not expected to make public a balance sheet until after Sunday's final round of elections.

Synagogue News

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim is located at 24 West Union Street, Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport, DD, Cantor Herman Slomovits.

Agudas Achim is a traditional synagogue affiliated with the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations, is open every day of the year for services and private devotions.

Light the Sabbath Candles this evening at 8:12. Mincha Services will start at 7:30. Saturday morning services will start at 8:30. Rabbi Rappaport will speak on the topic, "Divided We Fall," based on the scriptural reading of the week from Numbers 16. Mincha services on Saturday night will start at 7:45.

Sunday morning services will start at 8. Sunday evening Mincha will be at 7. Evening services are held at 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Congregation affiliated with the United Synagogue of America, at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday, 8 p. m. and Saturday, 9:30 a. m. During the summer months there will be no weekday morning or evening services, beginning this Sunday, June 30 until Labor Day. Regular weekday services will resume after Labor Day. Those members who will have to say Kaddish at a yahrtzeit, should contact the rabbi, Ephraim Propp or Carl Lipton, and a service will be arranged.

This Friday, 8 p. m., a family service will be held at which time those celebrating birthdays and wedding anniversaries will be honored, and a reception will be given at the Oneg Shabbat.

The following are celebrating their birthdays in June: Mark Parnett, Jonathan Liffgens, Bruce Nussbaum, Ellen Horowitz, Leslie Wall, Jay Cohen, Barbara Bush, Herschel Weinstein, Deborah Lowe, Phyllis Furman, Robert Strugatz, Mark Tannin, Lawrence Spiegel, Lewis Spiegel, and Bruce Milkofsky.

The wedding anniversaries are of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Adin, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gikner, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Goldman, Mr. and Mrs. William Helmrich, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Liffgens, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gruberg, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gruberg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gerstenzang, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis.

For the information of those interested, this issue of Synagogue News for Congregation Ahavath Israel may be discontinued for a while during the summer months, so the Rabbi would like to stress now that religious services Fridays 8 p. m. and Saturdays at 9:30 a. m. will continue at usual at all times.

Demonetization means the removal of standard monetary value from a metal, or to a coin issue withdrawn from circulation.

State Reports On Controlling Fox Abundance

Research studies to find a reproductive inhibitor effective in controlling fox abundance have been very promising, tests of several inhibitors in caged foxes indicated.

The report was made in a State Conservation Department announcement which noted a continued decline in cases of active rabies infection in animals in the state during the first five months of this year.

In the report one case of rabies in a dead bat was noted in Ulster County.

The department's Division of Fish and Game reported from Jan. 1 through May 31, 10 cases of rabies were discovered with only five counties involved, including Ulster. During the same period last year there were 23 cases of rabies in 10 counties.

There were 89 cases reported during all of 1967 which tied 1963 for the lowest annual total in over 22 years. The 10 positive cases discovered during the first five months of this year resulted from tests conducted by the State Health Department on approximately 600 dead animals suspected of being rabid.

In this year's survey, Clinton and Franklin Counties have each had three cases; St. Lawrence County, two and Ontario and Ulster, one each. Franklin County had three rabid foxes; Ontario, one fox; Clinton, one fox, a cow and a skunk; St. Lawrence, a fox and a horse, and Ulster County a rabid bat.

The statistics were developed by personnel assigned to the Conservation Department's Wildlife Rabies Control Program in cooperation with the State Health Department. Under this program, wildlife trappers have been employed to reduce the population of foxes and skunks, the primary vectors, or carriers of wildlife rabies.

People using outdoor recreation areas this summer were cautioned to prevent possible contact with rabid animals by not disturbing or picking up young animals they might find in the woods.

Cities are where the action is. There must be new systems of management, all the best talent in the country must go to the cities and money must be made a tool instead of being an enemy.

—New York Mayor John Lindsay.

I don't believe we will solve the problem of violence and crime until the heart of man has been changed.

—Evangelist Billy Graham.

Investigate Burglary

Ellenville police today investigated a burglary at the Finkelstein Bros. store, 18 Market Street, that village, which was discovered when the establishment was opened for business shortly after 6 a. m. Investigation by Sergeant Otis Brown and Patrolman Warren Hall disclosed the place had been entered by prying a window on the south side of the building. The intruder, who made off with a 19-inch GE portable television set, left the store through the rear door, police said.

Harrassment Charge

George Dorsey, 46, of New York City, was arrested Thursday by Kingston Detectives Joseph Peraca and Meyer Levy on two charges of harassment. Dorsey was held for arraignment before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Boy, 6, Killed

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Diane Kim, 6, was injured fatally Thursday when struck by an automobile in front of his home. The child had chased a ball into the street, sheriff's deputies said.

He was the son of Mrs. Gladys Kim.

Montreal Man Newest for Heart Surgery

MONTREAL (AP) — A 49-year-old electrical designer, who doctors said had little time to live after suffering his third heart attack, underwent heart transplant surgery today in the Montreal Heart Institute.

He was receiving the heart of a 23-year-old man who had died as the result of a traffic accident.

The operation is the 22nd in the world. Four of the transplant recipients are still living, including Dr. Philip Blaiberg, 59, who received a heart in Cape Town, South Africa, Jan. 2.

The operation today was started hours after the recipient's wife publicly appealed to hospital emergency wards in the area to remind families of accident victims that their husbands needed a heart transplant.

"As a wife and mother of five children, I ask only that any family in a position to come to the aid of my husband not hesitate to make the gesture which will cost nothing but which could save a life," she said in an interview.

Her husband has suffered three heart attacks since 1963.

Gaetan Paris, 49, an electrical designer, was receiving the heart of Yvan Bastien, 23, a traffic accident victim.

The transplant operation is the second performed by the institute.

The previous patient was Albert Murphy, who received a new heart in an eight-hour operation May 31. He died June 1.

Preparing to Move Dangerous Chemicals

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Police and chemical experts prepared today to remove more than 350 gallons of dangerous chemicals found stored in a fire-damaged barn in nearby Akron.

Boys State Picks Leader Of Nationalists

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Gregory C. Chisholm of Manhattan defeated Michael Pergola of Brooklyn in the election for governor at the 31st annual Boys State.

Voting Thursday for candidates of two mock political parties highlighted the five-day program sponsored by the American Legion.

Chisholm, 17, a senior at Manhattan College Preparatory School, ran on the Nationalist ticket. Elected with him were Kendall Martin of Quoque, lieutenant governor, and Richard Zulewski of Mattituck, attorney general.

Steven Glauber of Garden City was chosen comptroller as a Federalist. Vote totals are not disclosed. The program ends today.

Double Demonstration
GUILDFORD, England (UPI)—Students sitting in at the Guildford School of Art received unexpected reinforcements Thursday. Security guards hired by a county council to lock the buildings joined them.
The guards were protesting their own pay and work conditions.

A sheriff's deputy said the chemicals "could blow up half of Erie County."

The situation was described as "fully under control" at dawn by John Denton, Akron police chief, who spent the night at the scene.

Denton warned an explosion was possible if the chemical fumes came in contact with each other.

Lance Kohn, a chemist with the Hooker Chemical Corp. of Niagara Falls, said there was little danger of an explosion, but another fire in the 80 x 100 foot structure could result in toxic fumes covering the surrounding area.

Denton said ownership of the chemicals was still undetermined. He said he hoped arrests would be made in the case because of the health danger posed by the situation. Authorities did not order any evacuations, nor did they declare a state of emergency.

The deputy said a fire at the barn was put out Thursday, and it was "one of those quirks of nature that the whole thing didn't go."

He said the barn was on the outskirts of the village, population 3,000, located 24 miles northeast of Buffalo.

The deputy said among other chemicals, the barn contained "old-fashioned mustard gas," sodium nitrate, butyl bromide, di-butyl phthalate and nitro benzene.

Officials said butyl bromide could be highly poisonous when it comes in contact with moisture, and described nitro benzene as a gas which is absorbed through the skin and paralyzes the nervous system.

James Holtz, Akron fire chief, said the barn was owned by a trucker, Joseph Lighter, although it was subleased to a chemical dealer.

Bid Received For Hawthorne Improvements

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The State Department of Transportation received a bid of $25,668,403 Thursday on a project to replace the Hawthorne traffic circle in Westchester County with a three-level interchange.

Savin Bros. of Bloomfield, Conn., was the lone bidder on the job, which calls for construction or reconstruction of 3.89 miles of the Taconic, Sawmill River, Sprain Brook parkways and related roads, 4.07 miles of access roads, 11 bridges and two other smaller intersections.

The work will be done for the East Hudson Parkway Authority.

ATTEND CONFERENCE — Among those attending the 19th annual summer conference school of the New York State Supervisors-County Legislators Association are (l.) Joseph Martorana, Ulster County 9th District legislator; David Schoentag, county executive; Dutchess County, John Burns, commissioner of the office of local government and Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, supervisor of the Town of Ulster.

Wallace Group To Map Plans At Local Meet

The New York State Committee to Elect George C. Wallace President will meet in Kingston Saturday night to map plans for the petition drive July 29 to Sept. 3.

The meeting 8:30 p. m. at the Howard Johnson Motor Inn will be limited to invited volunteers who responded to the newspaper advertisements in this area. The principal speaker will be Dr. Horace Greeley Jr., a Kings County physician.

Arnold McCullough of New York City will chair the meeting and introduce James P. Duffy, head of the state committee.

Supervisors-Legislators Confer in Cooperstown

The Supervisors' Association of the State of New York held its 19th annual summer conference school from June 23-26 at the Hotel Otesaga in Cooperstown, at which time Joseph Martorana, county legislator, 9th District, Ulster County and Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, Supervisor of the Town of Ulster, were invited to participate in a panel discussion on "Cooperation between the Town Supervisor and the County Legislator."

Also participating in the panel were Paul M. Spiegel, supervisor, Town of Pittsford, Monroe County and Henry W. Williams Jr., county legislator, Monroe County. Presiding over the panel was Albert J. Evans, third vice president of the association.

The two panelists from Monroe County covered in detail their present experience between supervisors of townships and Musialkiewicz and Martorana went into detail on the history of Ulster's association and the purposes for such an association.

It was outlined that cooperation between the two groups is essential in order to be aware of problems of towns and what laws might be enacted by County Legislators and the effect of those laws. Complete cooperation was stressed to unite to make good relationships between both legislative boards.

Also in attendance at the conference representing Ulster County was Milton Houst, supervisor of Woodstock and George Majestic of the Town of Gardiner.

Smuggling Suspect — PARIS (UPI)—Police arrested Raymond Guirch, 43, Thursday as the fifth suspect in a ring accused of smuggling $45 million worth of heroin into New York in an automobile.

LEGAL NOTICE — NOTICE: PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency is desirous of receiving proposals for the purchase and development of Lots 11 and 12 in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project, NYR-107, which parcels may be used for light industrial use. Parcel 11, consisting of approximately 84,000 square feet, will be available for construction on or about September 15, 1968. Parcel 12, consisting of approximately 146,800 square feet, will be available on or about April 1, 1969.

Any developers who are interested in purchasing and developing either or both of the above mentioned parcels should contact the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency by letter at 426 Broadway, Kingston, New York 12401. Attention: Ward Tongue, Acting Executive Director. All interested developers should contact the Agency no later than August 1st, 1968 at 3:00 p. m.

All developers who have expressed an interest in the above mentioned parcels will be invited to submit a proposal outlining the terms under which the prospective developer will purchase and develop the parcels, and thereafter make an oral presentation to the Agency outlining the terms of the proposal. The Agency will only allow prospective developers who have registered their interest in the project prior to August 1st, 1968 to submit a formal proposal. The aforesaid proposals must be submitted within 30 days after receipt of the invitation from the Agency to submit a formal proposal and indicating the material to be included in the proposal.

The Agency reserves the right to reject any or all proposals which may be submitted hereunder.

Commissioner Gives Warning To Pool Owners

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The state health commissioner Thursday warned swimming pool owners of a potential fire danger when using calcium hypochlorite to sterilize their pools.

Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham said the chemical powder was frequently used by pool owners who did not realize the dangers involved.

"Although calcium hypochlorite is ordinarily stable and not combustible, there is a potential fire and explosion hazard if it is carelessly stored, improperly handled or mixed with certain other common chemicals and materials," Ingraham said.

He said the chemical should be stored in a cool, clean, dry area, and never mixed with anything other than plain water. He said it was important in mixing to add the chemical to the water, not pour the water into the dry chemical.

C-H Growth Kiwanis Topic

From an incident occurring 2,000 years ago on the island of Crete where a shepherd's crook accidentally discovered magnetism in a rock, to the present day experiments with atomic power relative to the production of electricity—this was the capsule-span of a talk by Charles E. Moehrk of the Central Hudson organization at the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday.

In outlining the growth of Central Hudson, Moehrk pointed out that the first utility in the Mid-Hudson valley was the Poughkeepsie Gas Light Company, formed in 1850, and that electric lights first appeared in the valley in 1884 in Newburgh. The Rondout and Kingston Gas Light Company began operations in 1854, and the first electric company locally was formed in 1886.

Moehrk introduced a bit of humor into his presentation when he spoke of some old contracts with cities, in the possession of the Central Hudson organization, which stated that street lights were to be used only during the "dark of the moon." Municipalities were not going to pay for electricity when the moonlight was available, he said.

In 1927, a corporation was formed from 64 companies which over the years had been absorbed, combined, united, and merged to form a single economic unit to serve the entire Mid-Hudson valley. This corporation is the current Central Hudson, serving a population of about 470,000 in a 2,600 square-mile area.

Moehrk also spoke of future planning by C-H, including the possibility of an atomic plant for generating electric power. This planning is necessitated by the growing "load" on the electric power system caused by increased use of electricity in industry, the home, and municipalities.

Rape Suspect Released on Bail

James A. Allen, 39, of RD 3, Box 298, Saugerties, held in county jail on a first degree rape charge, was released on $3,000 property bail pending a preliminary hearing.

Allen was arrested Wednesday night by County Investigator Harold T. Bowers following a complaint of a 13-year-old girl. Allen was arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan.

Also arrested by sheriff's deputies Wednesday night was William Robinson, 20, of 150 West Bridge Street, Saugerties. Charged with unlawfully dealing with a child, Robinson was sentenced to 45 days in county jail following a guilty plea before Town of Saugerties Justice Calvin H. Cody.

$80,000 for Kingston In Sales Tax Revenue

A check of $80,000 for the first quarter anticipated revenues from the city sales tax was received today by City Treasurer Stanley J. Petro Jr., from the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

The city sales tax has been in effect since March 1 and a total of $325,000 annually has been anticipated.

Treasurer Petro said the $80,000 check is in anticipation of receipts for March, April and May. The partial payment is mandatory under Section 1261, Article 29 of the Tax Law according to State Finance Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy.

If the three-month total receipts for Kingston is greater than the $80,000, the amount will be supplemented by the July 12 payment, the commissioner said. If it is less the adjustment will be made at the same time.

Youths Held After Accident On Sawkill Road

Charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle after truck was involved in an accident on the Sawkill Road about two miles west of Routes 209 and 9W in the Town of Ulster, Thursday night two youths were held for arraignment before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Kingston police booked the pair as Robert Leo Riggins, 18, of Route 2, Sawkill Trailer Park and Frank Gulick, 17, of 17 Janes Avenue, Kingston.

According to State Trooper Norman Kilfoyle, a pickup truck operated by Riggins was traveling north on Sawkill Road at 8:40 p.m. when the driver lost control as the vehicle went off the left side of the road into a ditch. Riggins sustained lacerations of the left knee and Gulick received multiple lacerations of the face.

Both youths were treated at Kingston Hospital. Kilfoyle charged Riggins with driving a motor vehicle without a license. The summons is returnable before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Detectives Leonard Ellsworth and Albert Hutton questioned Riggins and Gulick about the truck, which reportedly had been taken from the property of Zwick and Schwartz, Inc., wholesalers of 36 O'Neil Street. The detectives filed the charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against both youths, according to police records.

Riggins and Gulick appeared today before Judge Richter, who adjourned hearing until July 2 at 9 a.m. and fixed bail at $1,000 for each youth.

March Slated In Poughkeepsie; Fire Is Cited

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Community leaders voted at a public meeting Thursday night to march on City Hall Monday night to try to get Common Council to approve an appropriation to fix building code violations in rundown areas.

The march is scheduled to begin an hour before the council's meeting—forming up at the site of a home in which four children burned to death Thursday on Catharine Street. Firemen said a defective heating system may have caused the blaze. The building was several times cited for code violations, officials said.

Among those at the meeting agreeing to the half-mile march were representatives of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Dutchess County Boy Scout Council, and clergymen from various churches.

The proposed Common Council resolution would have the city lay out money to repair building code violations, then seek to get the money back from landlords. But several councilmen have voiced sentiment against the plan on grounds the city might not be able to collect, and get stuck with the bill.

Successful Investing...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
More Savings Needed For Home Purchase

Q—We are a young couple soon to be parents. Our financial position is: $10,400 savings, 100 Southland Corp., 30 McLean Ind., 103 Life Insurance Investors and 180 Dreyfus Fund with 3 years to finish our accumulation plan. We want to buy a $35,000 to $40,000 home in a few years. Are our stocks suitable? What are the prospects for insurance in industry? We have $1,000 to invest; what do you suggest?—D.H.

A—Both your common stock holdings should be retained. McLean reported a large increase in first-quarter earnings and has recently been awarded $16 million contract by the Post Office Department. Southland, with an improving earnings picture, has agreed to purchase a Boston chain store operation.

Your insurance fund has reflected the lackluster performance of the industry as a whole. However, several recent developments improve the long-range prospects, and shares should be held. When you are ready to buy a home, you should investigate with your fund salesman whether or not your plan offers borrowing privileges. Most banks currently are requiring 20 per cent down on conventional home mortgages which would leave you with an inadequate backlog for emergencies. New home buyers are inclined to overlook the fact that home ownership entails repeated outlays for upkeep and improvement.

Thus, I believe that additional funds should be used to build up your savings.

Q—As a birthday present I gave my son some money. He follows the market and thinks I should buy shares of Technicolor with it. Since he has just been sent to Vietnam, I thought he might enjoy hearing about "his stock" in my letters. It would give him something to look forward to. What do you think of his choice?—W.P.

A—Let me say first that I hope you are speedily reunited with your son.

Technicolor controls a color film processing method that is widely used by the movie industry. Earnings have not been consistent but last year reached a new high and were up 15 per cent in the March quarter. Shares have growth prospects and are not overpriced.

Bail Jumper Is Nabbed

George T. Mayes, 33, of Mountain Riding Center in Schuylers Street, Albany, who left the area while under $500 bail, was arrested Thursday afternoon in New York City by BCI Senior Investigator Charles Teelon of the state police and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office.

Mayes is being held in Ulster County Jail pending arraignment in county court. He was facing a third degree burglary charge filed in 1965 and was out on $500 bail when he left the jurisdiction of the county.

Mayes was arrested in connection with the theft of two typewriters and two cameras from William Rohde at Blue Town of Saugerties. Mayes was employed there as a cook.

State police reported Mayes was arrested in August 1965 in Catskill with the loot in his car. At that time he was charged with grand larceny, second degree. Later he was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury for third degree burglary.

$80,000 for Kingston In Sales Tax Revenue

A check of $80,000 for the first quarter anticipated revenues from the city sales tax was received today by City Treasurer Stanley J. Petro Jr., from the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

The city sales tax has been in effect since March 1 and a total of $325,000 annually has been anticipated.

Treasurer Petro said the $80,000 check is in anticipation of receipts for March, April and May. The partial payment is mandatory under Section 1261, Article 29 of the Tax Law according to State Finance Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy.

If the three-month total receipts for Kingston is greater than the $80,000, the amount will be supplemented by the July 12 payment, the commissioner said. If it is less the adjustment will be made at the same time.

Youths Held After Accident On Sawkill Road

Charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle after truck was involved in an accident on the Sawkill Road about two miles west of Routes 209 and 9W in the Town of Ulster, Thursday night two youths were held for arraignment before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Kingston police booked the pair as Robert Leo Riggins, 18, of Route 2, Sawkill Trailer Park and Frank Gulick, 17, of 17 Janzen Avenue, Kingston.

According to State Trooper Norman Kilfoyle, a pickup truck operated by Riggins was traveling north on Sawkill Road at 8:40 p.m. when the driver lost control as the vehicle went off the left side of the road into a ditch. Riggins sustained lacerations of the left knee and Gulick received multiple lacerations of the face.

Both youths were treated at Kingston Hospital.

Kilfoyle charged Riggins with driving a motor vehicle without a license. The summons is returnable before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

Detectives Leonard Ellsworth and Albert Hutton questioned Riggins and Gulick about the truck, which reportedly had been taken from the property of Zwick and Schwartz, Inc., wholesalers of 36 O'Neil Street. The detectives filed the charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle against both youths, according to police records.

Riggins and Gulick appeared today before Judge Richter, who adjourned hearing until July 2 at 9 a.m. and fixed bail at $1,000 for each youth.

March Slated In Poughkeepsie; Fire Is Cited

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Community leaders voted at a public meeting Thursday night to march on City Hall Monday night to try to get Common Council to approve an appropriation to fix building code violations in rundown areas.

The march is scheduled to begin an hour before the council's meeting—forming up at the site of a home in which four children burned to death Thursday on Catharine Street. Firemen said a defective heating system may have caused the blaze. The building was several times cited for code violations, officials said.

Among those at the meeting agreeing to the half-mile march were representatives of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Dutchess County Boy Scout Council, and clergymen from various churches.

The proposed Common Council resolution would have the city lay out money to repair building code violations, then seek to get the money back from landlords. But several councilmen have voiced sentiment against the plan on grounds the city might not be able to collect, and get stuck with the bill.

More Savings Needed For Home Purchase

Q — We are a young couple soon to be parents. Our financial position is: $10,400 savings, 100 Southland Corp., 30 McLean Ind., 103 Life Insurance Investors and 180 Dreyfus Fund with 3 years to finish our accumulation plan. We want to buy a $35,000 to $40,000 home in a few years. Are our stocks suitable? What are the prospects for insurance industry? We have $1,000 to invest; what do you suggest? — D.H.

A — Both your common stock holdings should be retained. McLean reported a large increase in first-quarter earnings and has recently been awarded $16 million contract by the Post Office Department. Southland, with an improving earnings picture, has agreed to purchase a Boston chain store operation.

Your insurance fund has reflected the lackluster performance of the industry as a whole. However, several recent developments improve the long-range prospects, and shares should be held. When you are ready to buy a home, you should investigate with your fund salesman whether or not your plan offers borrowing privileges. Most banks currently are requiring 20 per cent down on conventional home mortgages which would leave you with an inadequate backlog for emergencies.

new home buyers are inclined to overlook the fact that home ownership entails repeated outlays for upkeep and improvement.

Thus, I believe that additional funds should be used to build up your savings.

Q — As a birthday present I gave my son some money. He follows the market and thinks I should buy shares of Technicolor with it. Since he has just been sent to Vietnam, I thought he might enjoy hearing about "his stock" in my letters. It would give him something to look forward to. What do you think of his choice? — W.P.

A — Let me say first that I hope you are speedily reunited with your son.

Technicolor controls a color film processing method that is widely used by the movie industry. Earnings have not been consistent but last year reached a new high and were up 15 per cent in the March quarter. Shares have growth prospects and are not overpriced.

Bail Jumper Is Nabbed

George T. Mayes, 33, of Mountain Riding Center in Town of Saugerties, Mayes was employed there as a cook.

State police reported Mayes was arrested in August 1965 in Catskill with the loot in his car. At that time he was charged with grand larceny, second degree. Later he was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury for third degree burglary.

Mayes was arrested Thursday afternoon in New York City by BCI Senior Investigator Charles Teelon of the state police and County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office.

Mayes is being held in Ulster County Jail pending arraignment in county court. He was facing a third degree burglary charge filed in 1965 and was out on $500 bail when he left the jurisdiction of the county.

Mayes was arrested in connection with the theft of two typewriters and two cameras from William Rohde at Blue

Fix Sagging Floors Now, Save Money in Future Pick Right Fillers For Holes, Cracks

By MR. FIX

Sagging floors seem to be a problem common to most old houses. Floors sag when the girders beneath them are weakened and sagging. This may come about because the supporting posts were not placed properly or because either posts or girders (or both) have begun to rot.

cause difficulties. Walls may be relocated without additional support from below. Heavy appliances may be located in one part of the house.

And there always is the possibility that the floors sag because of faulty construction in the first place.

Whatever the reason, at the first sign of trouble steps should be taken to correct it.

You'll know when trouble is developing. Cracked plaster that keeps cracking; doors that won't open and close properly and which would have to be planed out of square to make them work; floors that slope so that round objects roll across a table—there are all kinds of signs.

If you suspect trouble, give girders in the basement a close inspection. Use a straight edge or a level to determine where sagging has occurred. A point at which girders have been spliced together, a corner where girders meet—these points are suspect.

A very simple, inexpensive and fairly foolproof device has been created to solve the problem. This is an adjustable post, called a jack post. It consists of two steel tubes, one inside the other. The height can be set easily. The inside tube has a series of holes. A steel pin slips through this and rests on the outer tube, thus setting the desired height.

This adjustment can be made only every few inches. For closer adjustment and for slowly raising the floor there is a metal plate at the top of the post. This rests on a heavy-duty adjusting screw.

There also is a base plate for the whole affair to rest on. This can be set right on the ordinary basement floor in good condition. For thin floors (less than four inches of concrete) or for floors that are cracking you may need more support. This calls for breaking a hole in the floor and making a new base of about a foot or so of concrete. Allow this to dry thoroughly before trying out the post.

The post is set under the girder and raised to the nearest proper height. Then the screw is adjusted until the top plate is firm against the girder. From here on the post works like an auto jack, only much more slowly.

A sagging beam cannot be raised quickly. This could cause great damage. Give the screw about a half turn every week, never more.

Cracked plaster, damage to water lines could occur if the lifting were done any more quickly.

Check with a level now and then to see where you can stop. Since jack posts are strong and inexpensive, they can be left in place as permanent posts.

By MR. FIX

For repairing cracks and holes in wooden items there are a number of materials available. Not any one type, however, will do for all patching situations. Picking the right one and applying it properly is the only way of being certain of good results.

Nail holes, cracks and such can be filled with a ready-mixed plastic or putty substance. There also are compounds in dry powder form which are mixed with a liquid before using.

Cabinet makers have a system for making wood filler which is excellent when you are working on a project and the material is available or if you have some of the same wood around.

All that is required is some fine sawdust from the same wood and a good wood glue. Mix these to form a putty and you have a wood filler that is the same color as the original and which will not shrink.

Plastic compounds are quite common. They consist of wood powder and an adhesive mixed together. They come in can or tube, dry quickly and result in a dense, tough compound. Experimentation with brands will tell you which dries smoothest—some are fairly coarse.

The neutral or so-called natural wood color is used when the surface will be painted over. When a clear finish is used another problem arises. Wood plastic compounds will not take stain. If the wood surface has no finish, do your staining before making the repairs.

Then buy a wood filler that is the same color. Manufacturers provide a variety of tinted patching materials. Tinting colors can sometimes be used to color a neutral filler before applying.

Ordinary linseed oil putty is often used as a wood filler. It handles easily, is easy to smooth and because of this can be smoothed out thinly over a surface. Since linseed oil putty doesn't get very hard, however, it does not have the strength of wood plastics and it cannot be used for building up corners or edges. It is best for tiny cracks and nail holes.

Linseed oil putty can be used outdoors where expansion and contraction are often problems. You can paint over putty but it will not absorb a stain. Putty can be tinted in advance with oil colors to a shade that is close to that of the wood.

Do not apply putty to raw wood. It will stick better to wood that has been primed. Use paint, linseed oil or a sealer.

If you have a quantity of patching to do, try the dry powder compounds which are cheaper than the ready-mixed. Unlike the ready-mix stuff, the dry powder will keep indefinitely. Once mixed with water, however, it hardens quickly.

One quality this has over the ready-mix is that it can be applied in thin layers. You can feather an edge and do a neater, smoother job.

Since this cannot be tinted once it is hard, the powder must be tinted by adding colors which are also available in powder form.

America's Favorite Tree? Popular Dogwood Gets Nod

WASHINGTON — One of America's prettiest spring trees has the least appropriate name.

The dogwood's popular name derives from an old European practice of boiling the bark in water to produce a strong potion used to treat dogs suffering from mange.

Today flowering dogwood is the state tree in Missouri, its blossom the official flower in North Carolina and Virginia, the National Geographic Society says. Week-long spring festivals honor the native American tree in Atlanta, Ga.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Charlottesville, Va.

The dogwood bloom suggests an ivory Maltese Cross, and it traditionally opens a week before those of most other flowering trees. Thorneau likened the petals or bracts to "a flock of white birds passing."

Washington Planted Many
George Washington celebrated his birthday on Feb. 22, 1783, by transplanting several young dogwoods from the forest to his garden at Mount Vernon.

A careful nurseryman, the general took up "as much dirt with the root as could be well obtained."

Washington's love of dogwood is memorialized at Valley Forge. Some 50,000 blooming trees there form one of the most magnificent floral displays in the world. Many of the old dogwood trees were growing before Washington and his Revolutionary troops camped on Pennsylvania soil in the bitter winter of 1777.

Dogwood trees bring remembrances of the Civil War, too. One soldier wrote, "How white the dogwood bloomed in the dark woods of Shiloh."

One tropical species provides a narcotic and an excellent poison for stunning and catching fish. American pioneers used dogwood to fashion arrows, wooden cogs, and skewers. Modern artisans have used the lumber to make handsome inlays.

About 20 of the 45 or more varieties of dogwood grow in the United States. The most striking are the flowering dogwood (Cornus florida), which blooms in the eastern United States, and the Pacific dogwood (Cornus nuttallii) of the West Coast.

Dogwood Used in Cross

Many legends stem from the dogwood and its strong, durable wood. Greek mythology holds that dogwood grew on Mount Ida in a grove sacred to Apollo. The god of youth and beauty was furious when Greek soldiers chopped down the trees for lumber to build the Trojan Horse.

Another familiar legend maintains that Jesus was crucified on a cross made from dogwood. As the story goes, Jesus was moved to pity by the sorrowing tree. He comforted it by promising that dogwoods never again would grow large enough to be used for such an evil purpose.

Those Four Long Holidays Will Take Effect in 1971

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he will sign the bill making four national holidays fall always on Mondays, but the resulting long weekends won't start until 1971.

The new law will change the dates for Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day and Veterans Day, and give Columbus Day status as a national holiday.

Washington's Birthday will fall on the third Monday in February, Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, Columbus Day on the second Monday in October and Veterans Day on the fourth Monday in October.

The bill applies only to federal employees and the District of Columbia. But by Jan. 1, 1971, when the law takes effect, most states are expected to have decided to go along with the new holiday lineup, which, with Labor Day, will produce five three-day weekends a year.

"This is the greatest thing that has happened to the travel industry since the invention of automobile," said Clarence A. Arata, president of the National Association of Travel Organizations.

Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 4, organized play activities will be held at the Chambers School Grounds.

Boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 16 are eligible to participate in the program. Permission slips signed by parents are required. The slips may be picked up at the supervisor's office, the town clerk's office, and at Acker and Lipton Bus Terminals.

Albany Youths Indicted in Woman's Death

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Four Albany-area youths have been indicted on murder charges in the stabbing of a 47-year-old Schenectady woman, whose nude body was found in a creek on the night of June 17.

Indicted Thursday by an Albany County grand jury, and held for arraignment in the death of Mrs. Rose Murch, were Robert L. Pierce, 21, of Slingerlands; Joseph B. DiDomenico, 18, of Westmere; Alfred C. Salisbury, 16, of Gunderland, and William P. Sacchi, 16, of Mendon.

Police said the woman had been assaulted sexually.

If you suspect trouble, give girders in the basement a close inspection. Use a straight edge or a level to determine where sagging has occurred. A point at which girders have been spliced together, a corner where girders meet—these points are suspect.

A very simple, inexpensive and fairly foolproof device has been created to solve the problem. This is an adjustable post, called a jack post. It consists of two steel tubes, one inside the other. The height can be set easily. The inside tube has a series of holes. A steel pin slips through this and rests on the outer tube, thus setting the desired height.

This adjustment can be made only every few inches. For closer adjustment and for slowly raising the floor there is a metal plate at the top of the post. This rests on a heavy-duty adjusting screw.

There also is a base plate for the whole affair to rest on. This can be set right on the ordinary basement floor in good condition. For thin floors (less than four inches of concrete) or for floors that are cracking you may need more support. This calls for breaking a hole in the floor and making a new base of about a foot or so of concrete. Allow this to dry thoroughly before trying out the post.

The post is set under the girder and raised to the nearest proper height. Then the screw is adjusted until the top plate is firm against the girder. From here on the post works like an auto jack, only much more slowly.

A sagging beam cannot be raised quickly. This could cause great damage. Give the screw about a half turn every week, never more.

Cracked plaster, damage to water lines could occur if the lifting were done any more quickly.

Check with a level now and then to see when you can stop. Since jack posts are strong and inexpensive, they can be left in place as permanent posts.

By MR. FIX

For repairing cracks and holes in wooden items there are a number of materials available. Not any one type, however, will do for all patching situations. Picking the right one and applying it properly is the only way of being certain of good results.

Nail holes, cracks and such can be filled with a ready-mixed plastic or putty substance. There also are compounds in dry powder form which are mixed with a liquid before using.

Cabinet makers have a system for making wood filler which is excellent when you are working on a project and the material is available or if you have some of the same wood around.

All that is required is some fine sawdust from the same wood and a good wood glue. Mix these to form a putty and you have a wood filler that is the same color as the original and which will not shrink.

Plastic compounds are quite common. They consist of wood powder and an adhesive mixed together. They come in can or tube, dry quickly and result in a dense, tough compound. Experimentation with brands will tell you which dries smoothest—some are fairly coarse.

The neutral or so-called natural wood color is used when the surface will be painted over. When a clear finish is used another problem arises. Wood plastic compounds will not take stain. If the wood surface has no finish, do your staining before making the repairs.

Then buy a wood filler that is the same color. Manufacturers provide a variety of tinted patching materials. Tinting colors can sometimes be used to color a neutral filler before applying.

Ordinary linseed oil putty is often used as a wood filler. It handles easily, is easy to smooth and because of this can be smoothed out thinly over a surface. Since linseed oil putty doesn't get very hard, however, it does not have the strength of wood plastics and it cannot be used for building up corners or edges. It is best for tiny cracks and nail holes.

Linseed oil putty can be used outdoors where expansion and contraction are often problems.

You can paint over putty but it will not absorb a stain. Putty can be tinted in advance with oil colors to a shade that is close to that of the wood.

Do not apply putty to raw wood. It will stick better to wood that has been primed. Use paint, linseed oil or a sealer.

If you have a quantity of patching to do, try the dry powder compounds which are cheaper than the ready-mixed. Unlike the ready-mix stuff, the dry powder will keep indefinitely. Once mixed with water, however, it hardens quickly.

One quality this has over the ready-mix is that it can be applied in thin layers. You can feather an edge and do a neater, smoother job.

Since this cannot be tinted once it is hard, the powder must be tinted by adding colors which are also available in powder form.

America's Favorite Tree? Popular Dogwood Gets Nod

WASHINGTON — One of America's prettiest spring trees has the least appropriate name.

The dogwood's popular name derives from an old European practice of boiling the bark in water to produce a strong potion used to treat dogs suffering from mange.

Today flowering dogwood is the state tree in Missouri, its blossom the official flower in North Carolina and Virginia, the National Geographic Society says. Week-long spring festivals honor the native American tree in Atlanta, Ga.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Charlottesville, Va.

The dogwood bloom suggests an ivory Maltese Cross, and it traditionally opens a week before those of most other flowering trees. Thoreau likened the petals or bracts to "a flock of white birds passing."

Washington Planted Many

George Washington celebrated his birthday on Feb. 22, 1785, by transplanting several young dogwoods from the forest to his garden at Mount Vernon.

A careful nurseryman, the general took up "as much dirt with the root as could be well obtained."

Washington's love of dogwood is memorialized at Valley Forge. Some 50,000 blooming trees there form one of the most magnificent floral displays in the world. Many of the old dogwood trees were growing before Washington and his Revolutionary troops camped on Pennsylvania soil in the bitter winter of 1777.

Dogwood trees bring remembrances of the Civil War, too. One soldier wrote, "How white the dogwood bloomed in the dark woods of Shiloh."

One tropical species provides a narcotic and an excellent poison for stunning and catching fish. American pioneers used dogwood to fashion arrows, wooden cogs, and skewers. Modern artisans have used the lumber to make handsome inlays.

About 20 of the 45 or more varieties of dogwood grow in the United States. The most striking are the flowering dogwood (Cornus florida), which blooms in the eastern United States, and the Pacific dogwood (Cornus nuttallii) of the West Coast.

Dogwood Used in Cross

Many legends stem from the dogwood and its strong, durable wood. Greek mythology holds that dogwood grew on Mount Ida in a grove sacred to Apollo. The god of youth and beauty was furious when Greek soldiers chopped down the trees for lumber to build the Trojan Horse.

Another familiar legend maintains that Jesus was crucified on a cross made from dogwood. As the story goes, Jesus was moved to pity by the sorrowing tree. He comforted it by promising that dogwoods never again would grow large enough to be used for such an evil purpose.

Ulster Rec Program Schedule Announced

The recreation program for the Town of Ulster will begin on Monday, July 8 and continue through Friday, Aug. 16.

There will be swimming on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week at DeWitt Lake. The town will offer bus service for pick-up and return of the children and each bus will be supervised by a counselor. Pick-up will begin at 12:35 and return will be at approximately 4. The route will be as follows:

The Lipton Bee Line will pick up children at the following stops: Boices Lane and Morton Boulevard; Sunset Park, Van Keuren Highway and Morton Boulevard; corner of Lawrenceville Street; corner of Esopus Avenue and Nicholas Street; Post Office, Vincent Street; corner of Groff Street and Lincoln Park Place; corner of Plainfield Street and Harwich Street.

The Acker Bus Lines will pick up children at their terminal in East Kingston: Country Club Estates (Flat-bush); Tuxtenbridge Road area; Neighborhood Road (Lake Katrine); Lake Katrine School; corner of Neighborhood Road and Leggs Mills Road; Ruby Firehouse; junction of Sawkill Road and Brabant Road; Hillside Terrace; Millers Lane Extension.

Addition pick-up points will be announced as the need arises.

The town has appointed Robert Bondar as director of the program. He will be assisted by Trudy Daddio, Julie Letus and Jan Pileggi.

Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 4, organized play activities will be held at the Chambers School Grounds.

Boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 16 are eligible to participate in the program. Permission slips signed by parents are required. The slips may be picked up at the supervisor's office, the town clerk's office, and at Acker and Lipton Bus Terminals.

Those Four Long Holidays Will Take Effect in 1971

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he will sign the bill making four national holidays fall always on Mondays, but the resulting long weekends won't start until 1971.

The new law will change the dates for Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day and Veterans Day, and give Columbus Day status as a national holiday.

Washington's Birthday will fall on the third Monday in February, Memorial Day on the last Monday in May, Columbus Day on the second Monday in October and Veterans Day on the fourth Monday in October.

The bill applies only to federal employees and the District of Columbia. But by Jan. 1, 1971, when the law takes effect, most states are expected to have decided to go along with the new holiday lineup, which, with Labor Day, will produce five three-day weekends a year.

"This is the greatest thing that has happened to the travel industry since the invention of automobile," said Clarence A. Arata, president of the National Association of Travel Organizations.

Travel agencies and the business community were the main champions of the legislation, which was first introduced in Congress more than 10 years ago. The key to its success this year was the inclusion of Columbus Day, a holiday long sought by Italian-Americans.

A major argument used by its sponsors was that Monday holidays would stimulate greater industrial and commercial production by reducing employee absenteeism and avoiding the interruptions of midweek holidays.

Albany Youths Indicted in Woman's Death

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Four Albany-area youths have been indicted on murder charges in the stabbing of a 47-year-old Schenectady woman, whose nude body was found in a creek on the night of June 17.

Indicted Thursday by an Albany County grand jury, and held for arraignment in the death of Mrs. Rose Murch, were Robert L. Pierce, 21, of Slingerlands; Joseph B. DiDomenico, 18, of Westmere; Alfred C. Salisbury, 16, of Guiderland; and William P. Sacchi, 16, of Menands.

Police said the woman had been assaulted sexually.

The Cintra: True Form Of Colonial Dwelling

By JACK McELENNEY

An important factor to be considered in the process of building a new home is economy in construction and future upkeep. This does not mean that a modest beginning sacrifices comfort and luxury. In this design, called "The Cintra", the focus falls on the room noted on the plan as the den, nursery or bedroom. The value of this area goes far beyond that of just another room. The key to its importance is the location, situated so that it can be naturally included into the dwelling as a bedroom, den, nursery or formal dining room.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

HOME GROWN RADISHES
Radishes are a "cool weather" crop, producing crisp, crunchy bottoms during the spring growing season when moisture is abundant. Summer plantings become "bitter," due to lack of moisture, although many home gardeners do grow them throughout the summer. A fall sowing produces tasty radishes. Did you ever grow radishes in sawdust? Many have written to tell me that they dig a shallow trench (6 inches deep) and then this is filled with moist sawdust. Seed is sown in the trench, and gardeners tell me there is less trouble with radish maggots this way than when grown in soil. One trouble with radishes is "all tops and no bottoms." This is due to lack of thinning, or sowing the seed too thickly. If radish seedlings are not thinned out, they become weeds to each other, competing for nutrients and moisture. The result: spindly tops and no bottoms. Did you know there is a winter radish and a summer radish? Winter radishes are sown in July or early August, and can be stored like other root crops for winter use. They grow considerably larger than the summer types and have a very mild flavor, plus a fine texture.

PROTECT FRUIT FROM BIRDS

We've tried a lot of methods for keeping birds out of strawberries, blueberries, cherry trees, etc., and have concluded that nothing beats a netting material, draped over the bushes, to keep the birds out. There are many kinds of netting on the market now, and most garden centers carry them. Note: You cannot drape the net directly on the plants as birds can peck at the fruit through the holes. You have to put a couple stakes with cross arms to keep the netting off the bushes, and in this way you provide a barrier which works perfectly for keeping the birds out. It pays to use the plastic treated net materials as they can be used over and over again, without rotting, mildewing or spoiling.

FREE — If birds are "bugging" you, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, BYE, BYE BAD BIRDS! My guide has some good tips gardeners use to keep birds away.

GREEN THUMB CLINIC — A reader writes: We have some flowering quince. Is the fruit edible?

Flowering quince (Chaenomeles) produces fruit good enough for jams, jelly and marmalades. Some use a baked quince, cored, filled with honey. If grown on poor, damp soil, the fruit is inferior, but you can improve the quality by making the soil better. Plant has handsome crimson and white blossoms, thorned branches excellent as a hedge to insure a sense of privacy. Used as a hedge, plants may be sheared to shape. Pruning may be done all during the summer. New plants are started by seed, cuttings and layering.

Are You Planning to Buy a New Home? Be Sure to Check Heating System

Are you planning to buy a new home this summer? If so, be sure you check the heating system. The Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau advises,

By far the largest number of homes are bought during the summer months. Since especially if they're shopping the heating system is shut for their first home. When down then, home shoppers they turn on the system in the fall, they find, to their chagrin, that it's noisy or drafty or there are cold spots that can't be heated no matter how high the thermometer is set.

Hydronic heat is a quality type. Water is the heating medium, and the fuel can be whatever you prefer or whatever is the best bargain in your locality.

In hydronic heat, the water is heated by a compact boiler and piped to radiation in the various rooms. These days, the radiation most often is baseboard. It gives off clean, even, draft-free heat that's quiet too.

One of the advantages of hydronic heat is the ease with which it can be extended to additional rooms or to the basement or attic if you decide to convert either into a living area. The existing boiler usually can handle the extra load. All that needs to be done is extending the pipe and installing the radiation.

Bedroom Vanities a Hit With Teenagers, Parents

For all practical purposes, water in the bedroom went out with great grandmother's china bowl and pitcher. However, it's now making a strong comeback—but with a difference!

According to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, one of the strongest trends in bedroom decor today is a single or double-bowl vanity lavatory with hot and cold running water. The bowls are installed in generous counter-tops that serve as dressing tables. A cabinet beneath provides drawers and shelves for storage.

The bowls come in a broad assortment of luscious colors, or decorated with floral or other designs. Countertops and cabinets are styled in virtually any furniture period you may wish. You can go plain or ornate with the faucets too. They come chrome or gold-plated or made of a crystal, jewel-like material. You have your choice of "conventional," single-handle, dial or push-pull.

In short, the Bureau notes, the bedroom vanity lavatory can blend smoothly into the rest of your bedroom furnishings. In fact, it can provide the focal point of the room.

Bedroom vanities are especially popular with teenagers, who regard them as a kind of status symbol. They're popular with parents too, because youngsters are likely to do their hours-long primping in the bedroom, leaving the bathroom free for adults.

A standard type kitchen located at the right rear corner contains not only all the modern facilities demanded by the housewife, but also an informal dining spot that will be more than adequate for informal dining.

The size of "The Cintra" is 46 feet long by 25 feet deep, and contains 1,150 square feet of living space. All lumber material, including windows, doors, shingles and roof are stock lumber yard items.

Combat Gun Legislation Area Sportsmen Advocate

A meeting of area sportsman's clubs was held at the club house of the Saugerties Fish and Game Club recently to determine what measures should be taken to combat the current drive for gun legislation.

Two proposals were made and acted upon.

One calls for a money-raising campaign to support press and radio endeavors as well as other actions deemed necessary in connection with their cause.

The other proposal would make available a questionnaire for the public which would supply the committee with workable data.

Woodstock News Recreation Field Opens On July 15

The opening of the Andy Lee Recreational Field at Woodstock has been delayed due to inclement weather.

Scheduled to open July 5, it will begin operation instead on July 15. Registration for summer programs will take place Thursday and Friday, July 11 and 12.

The delay in opening is caused by constant rain which prevented proper preparation of the field and the pool.

Frank Greco Heads Lions

The annual installation of officers was the feature of the Saugerties Lions Club meeting held recently at the Flamingo Restaurant.

King Lion Harder turned over the gavel of office to Frank Greco, first vice president, who will be president for the coming year.

Kingston Lion William Stall, former deputy district governor, the perennial installation officer of the Saugerties Lions, officiated at the formal ceremony, which saw the following slate of officers take their oaths: William Farrell, first vice president; Paul Pavlovich, second vice president; Wellington Hunter, third vice president; George Turner, treasurer; Irving Dreishpoon, secretary; Bernard Rinaldi, tail twister; and Rodney Hommel, lion tamer.

Also installed as directors were: Rodney Ball, Andrew Vozdick Sr., James Dargan and Joseph Crotty.

Wives and guests at the event were introduced by the various members, including Nancy Lou Saulpaugh, who was the recipient of the annual Lions Club scholarship merit award. This award extends over a four-year period and is one of the largest single awards given to any Saugerties High School student.

The club and its guests were treated to a presentation by the "Unlikely Hoods," members of the Poughkeepsie Chapter for the preservation of barbershop quartets in America. Band leader, Vince Edwards, and his group, provided music for dancing.

Scouts Travel To West Point

Cub Scouts of Pack 33, Saugerties, took a field trip to the United States Military Academy at West Point recently.

Also, badges and awards were presented to Kevin Hudak and Brad Holmes for achievement in Cub Scouts during the past year.

Pleads Guilty

Arrested on a charge of second degree assault, Edna Mae Alexander, 27, of the Huntington Hotel, was permitted to plead guilty Thursday to a reduced charge of third degree assault before Kingston City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

She received a conditional release of six months. The woman was accused of stabbing Ronald Johnson on the right arm Wednesday night, police records noted.

Sunday services at the Methodist Church will be conducted by the Rev. A. E. Kaufman at 10:30 a. m. Sunday school for the children will be 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Masses at Sacred Heart Church will be at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a. m.

Bank Guest Saturday

Pete Williams, sometimes known as "Mr. Country Music," will make a personal appearance Saturday at the grand opening of Kingston Savings Bank's Bonanza Branch on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster. Williams' popular show on WRGB is now in its eighth year and is a favorite with a vast number of TV fans in the Northeast. His first record album sold so well that it was released two separate times to meet the demand. Subsequent releases are also selling well. His stage shows, noted for their clean, wholesome entertainment suitable for the entire family, attract a yearly average of close to 100,000 people and are enjoyed by all age groups.

Appearing at the Bonanza Branch with Williams will be David Allan, star of "Pick-a-Show," and a fine songwriter as well. They expect to be present Saturday between 1 and 3 p.m. to meet their fans. Open house at the branch bank will take place between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., with refreshments and souvenir gifts for all visitors.

Esopus

ESOPUS—The Annual Rummage Sale and Fair sponsored by the WSCS of the Esopus Methodist Church will be held on the church grounds Saturday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Refreshments will be sold. The public is invited.

The annual bazaar for the benefit of Sacred Heart Church will be held in the church hall on Friday and Saturday, July 5 and 6 starting at 7 p. m. with fun for all. The public is invited.

Sunday services at the Methodist Church will be conducted by the Rev. A. E. Kaufman at 10:30 a. m. Sunday school for the children will be 9:30 a. m.

Sunday Masses at Sacred Heart Church will be at 8, 9, 10 and 11 a. m.

The committee agreed that "gun laws won't keep guns out of the hands of criminals and that some forces that are pushing for these laws have other motives."

The committee reminds those concerned that the National Rifle Association has requested that they write Sen. James Eastland, Senate Judiciary Committee, Washington, D. C., to request a public hearing.

Representatives attending the local meeting were Rick Ormandy, Nunzio Isgrow, Ernest Blake, Edward Van Gasbeek, Robert, Art, William and Len Spert; Robert Schiavone, James Hutton and Orin DeGraff.

Woodstock News Recreation Hadassah Plans Field Opens Theatre Party, On July 15 Rummage Sale

The opening of the Andy Lee Recreational Field at Woodstock has been delayed due to inclement weather.

Scheduled to open July 5, it will begin operation instead on July 15. Registration for summer programs will take place Thursday and Friday, July 11 and 12.

The delay in opening is caused by constant rain which prevented proper preparation of the field and the pool.

The Woodstock group of Hadassah has scheduled two events for July.

A rummage sale has been planned for Wednesday, July 3, beginning at 10 a. m. on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Ida Taylor, 6 Pine Street (opposite Grand Union).

Contributions of saleable items, delivered to Mrs. Taylor's home, will be gratefully received.

The second event is a theatre party to take place Friday, July 12, at the Woodstock Playhouse.

The production to be presented is "The Odd Couple," well-known Broadway comedy. Tickets may be obtained at box office prices. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Jerome Miller, 935 Ohayo Mountain Road.

Athens Fire Under Probe

Investigation was underway today by Leeds state police and the Greene County sheriff's office seeking to establish the cause of a Thursday night fire that destroyed a large unoccupied farmhouse on Flats Road in the Town of Athens.

Sergeant F. W. Hillfrank reported the fire was reported by a resident shortly after 10 p. m. and the fire units from the Athens area and West Coxsackie were dispatched to the scene. A washout on the back road prevented firemen from driving the apparatus close to the burning building, and it was necessary to lay extra lengths of hose to reach the fire area.

Trooper Robert Stabile, who made the initial investigation found no immediate evidence of incendiary, according to Sergeant Hillfrank, who said further investigation will be made. The property belonged to Lewis Bush of Athens. It had been vacant for some time.

Glenrie Bridge

The Glenrie Bridge Club held its Monthly Master Point Game at the Elk's Club on Fair Street and played 24 boards in a Mitchell movement.

On the North-South side, Miss Marie Degenhardt and Charles Scalzi of Poughkeepsie took first place. Second and third place were tied by Mrs. Renee Canfield of Poughkeepsie and Stanley King of Kingston and Mrs. R. Martin and Thomas Martin of Krumville. Fourth spot went to Miss Dorothy Maroon and Abhay Jhaveri of Kingston. Fifth place went to Dr. John Roberts and Arling Kalleberg of Kingston.

On the East-West side, Bill Russ and Mike Koral had a fine game to win their way. Second place went to Joseph Mautner and Nathan Katasky of Kingston. Third and fourth places were by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berleth of Woodstock, and Mrs. and Mrs. Ernest LeFevre of Hurley. Fifth spot went to Dr. John Comstock and Donald Thompson of Kingston.

The Glenrie Bridge Club will hold its fractional point game at the Elk's Club on Tuesday July 2 at 7:30 sharp. All bridge players are welcome.

Negotiations Are Closer For Nuclear Missile

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American officials said today they expect early agreement with Moscow on a time and place to begin negotiations to limit and eventually reduce offensive and defensive nuclear missile systems.

The Soviet Union's announcement Thursday of its acceptance of a long-standing U.S. proposal on this was interpreted here as stemming from a combination of international pressures and Soviet concern over strong congressional backing for a new American antiballistic missile system.

Administration officials said talks between the two countries might begin between the head of the U.S. disarmament agency, William Foster, and his Soviet counterpart, a few days before the resumption of general disarmament talks in Washington on an agreement; Geneva July 16.

The view here is that they would be carried on strictly between the Soviet Union and the United States, outside the regular conference.

One official speculated it would take three to five years to reach agreement, in view of the Kremlin's traditional reluctance to agree to any type of enforcement provisions on disarmament pacts.

The assumption in Washington was that the following factors played a big part in getting Gromyko to tell a meeting of the Supreme Soviet that his country was at last prepared to begin "exchanging opinions with Washington" on an agreement: —The United States, the Soviet Union and Britain are scheduled to sign Monday the laboriously worked out treaty to prevent further spread of nuclear weapons.

—Non-nuclear nations have insisted that the big atomic powers negotiate some limitation and reduction of their arsenals if the rest of the world is to forego such weapons.

—Failure of the Soviets to give any sign of movement in this direction might result in a number of nations failing to sign the treaty, which both Washington and Moscow consider important to stabilize world peace.

Athens Fire Under Probe

Investigation was underway today by Leeds state police and the Greene County sheriff's office seeking to establish the cause of a Thursday night fire that destroyed a large unoccupied farmhouse on Flats Road in the Town of Athens.

Sergeant F. W. Hilfrank reported the fire was reported by a resident shortly after 10 p. m. and the fire units from the Athens area and West Coxsackie were dispatched to the scene. A washout on the back road prevented firemen from driving the apparatus close to the burning building, and it was necessary to lay extra lengths of hose to reach the fire area.

Trooper Robert Stabile, who made the initial investigation found no immediate evidence of incendiary, according to Sergeant Hilfrank, who said further investigation will be made. The property belonged to Lewis Bush of Athens. It had been vacant for some time.

Glenier Bridge

The Glenier Bridge Club held its Monthly Master Point Game at the Elk's Club on Fair Street and played 24 boards in a Mitchell movement.

On the North-South side, Miss Marie Degenhardt and Charles Scalzi of Poughkeepsie took first place. Second and third place were tied by Mrs. Renee Canfield of Poughkeepsie and Stanley King of Kingston, and Mrs. R. Martin and Thomas Martin of Krumville. Fourth spot went to Miss Dorothy Maroon and Abhay Jhaveri of Kingston. Fifth place went to Dr. John Roberts and Arling Kalleberg of Kingston.

On the East-West side, Bill Russ and Mike Koral had a fine game to win their way. Second place went to Joseph Mautner and Nathan Katsky of Kingston. Third and fourth places were by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berleth of Woodstock, and Mrs. and Mrs. Ernest LeFevre of Hurley. Fifth spot went to Dr. John Comstock and Donald Thompson of Kingston.

The Glenier Bridge Club will hold its fractional point game at the Elk's Club on Tuesday July 2 at 7:30 sharp. All bridge players are welcome.

Hudson, Rondout Waterfronts Need Federal Aid for Cleanup

ROTTING TUG MAKES 'WOODEN WATERFRONT'

The "wooden waterfront" has got to go. Alexander Aldrich, executive director of the Hudson River Valley Commission, says that his state agency not only strongly supports but urges that as soon as possible a proposed Federal program should be started to eliminate driftwood and clean up the "wooden waterfront" of the Hudson River and on the Rondout Creek in particular.

Aldrich testified before a recent public hearing by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, which has proposed the program and is collecting evidence to lay before Congress to gain necessary funding.

The Corps traditionally has interested itself only with driftwood and other debris that might prove hazardous to navigable channels so that the proposed riverwide and waterfront attack on the debris problem is considered an historic and long overdue step in combatting what has become a major problem not only in the Hudson but in many of the nation's major waterways.

Aldrich pointed out that New York State's pure water program designed to eliminate most of the shore originated pollution of the Hudson among other rivers in the state, is "on schedule" for producing a clean river by 1972, "in spite of the Federal government's failure, so far, to fund its share of the program."

The State official pointed toward an anticipated huge increase in recreational boating and fishing and to public sentiment for the river cleanup, expressed at a series of Hudson Valley conferences held by this commission earlier this year.

He also cited a renewal of interest in the Hudson waterfront on the part of many communities, including Poughkeepsie, making the river once again "a great asset to be treasured."

This state of mind will spread, Aldrich said, and "unsightly riverbank with a grubby, dangerous hulk, will be recognized everywhere as the public nuisance it is."

The Hudson River Valley Commission already has done some preliminary work in this area, he added, and he offered whatever aid the Commission could offer to the anti-debris effort of the Corps of Engineers.

Preliminary studies of debris already had been made, Aldrich said, in areas such as Rondout Creek, near Kingston, where 100 abandoned barge hulks had been pinpointed. An aerial study of the Hudson Valley had been completed by the Commission and was available to aid the Corps planners, if they wanted it, he said.

The Commission spokesman said he hoped that the hearings would determine several things: that this is "much more than a one-shot job" but one that will have to be carried on—whether by the Corps or by State or local authorities—on a continuing basis.

* that a realistic timetable is necessary for the proposed debris cleanup, a timetable that will have the bulk of the job done coincidental with the State's expected goal of an unpolluted Hudson by 1972.

* that the enforcement area, which currently permits many violations by debris-spreaders to go undetected or merely slapped their wrists even when they are detected, will be reexamined with a view to bringing the staffing and penalty areas up to date.

Aldrich also made a strong plea for the Corps and Congress, which would have to allocate the necessary funds for the Corps' actions, not to make a purely quantitative judge of what as to where and what will be necessarily tight funds should be spent.

"Sheer quantity should not be the index to impairment of resources (by debris)," he said, "nor to the amount of dollars to be spent in an area. Because Rondout has 100 barge hulks and New York Harbor, for example, has 1,000 does not mean the problem is 10 times more acute in the Lower Hudson."

"Kingston's future development certainly might be said to be more directly related to the future development of the Hudson than is New York City's. The Hudson is one of Kingston's major resources, but only one of many, many resources in New York City."

The Hudson River Valley Commission spokesman called for a comprehensive river debris survey as a necessary first step in the Corps' effort.

"Our nation's previous lack of concern with this problem is reflected," he concluded, "on the near absence of such studies, not just for the Hudson but for all of the nation's major waterways."

"This Hudson effort will have great local and regional benefits, but by pioneering the way for other efforts of this kind, it can have even greater national and, perhaps, international benefits."

Mino Declares Moratorium On New Weapon Permits

By WALTER S. CLARK Jr.

While the firearms registration controversy continues to brew in Washington and Albany, the issuance of new handgun permits in Ulster County has been delayed by a moratorium invoked recently by County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

It was learned Wednesday afternoon that at least 84 applications for weapon permits have been processed by the office of Sheriff William B. Martin, and are awaiting the signature of Judge Mino.

Judge Has Chore

Although the judge of any court of record has authority to sign gun permits, it has been the procedure in Ulster and other counties in the mid-Hudson Valley that the chore of signing the permits rests with the county judge.

Judge Mino noted that he declared the moratorium as far as his signing the permits is concerned, some time ago and said it would continue for a three-month period or until proposed Federal and State legislation is resolved. The judge contended he would not sign any new firearms permits until decisions are reached on legislation in Washington and/or in Albany.

Applicants for permits to carry or possess firearms are thoroughly investigated by the sheriff's office. Individuals and character references are checked. Fingerprints are recorded by any duly authorized police agency, the FBI, state police, the sheriff's office or city, town, village police.

After the applications are processed, they are forwarded to the FBI in Washington and the State Department of Correction for final check before they are submitted to the county judge for his signature.

The local moratorium went into effect some time ago and will continue until the three-month period ends.

Officials Testify

On Wednesday, Attorney General Ramsey Clark and several other leading officials testified before a Senate subcommittee on President Johnson's proposals relating to firearms registration and a tighter control of weapons.

Hearings in Washington were expected to resume today.

Meanwhile, area applicants for firearms permits must wait until definite steps are taken and the controversy on proposed legislation is finalized.

The New York Guard is one of the state's least understood military organizations. It is often confused with the National Guard—but its function is to stay at home in times of crisis and man the backyard battlements.

Unlike the major branches of state militia—the Army Reserve National Guard, the Air National Guard, the Naval Militia and Marine Militia—the New York Guard cannot be federalized.

The guard, created under a 1956 federal law that permits states to maintain troops, is charged with the responsibility of taking over any National Guard unit at any armory in the state should that outfit be federalized.

This secondary military force exists only in skeletal form in peace time, but is prepared at moments' notice to expand to full strength through recruitment in veteran organizations and Civil Defense manpower pools during time of war.

The state now is divided into six area commands, and a seventh is in the making. Each command includes an average of three battalions, each with four companies.

The New York Guard is commanded by Maj. Gen. Andrew Malatesta, an Albany attorney, who reports directly to Maj. Gen. A.C. O'Hara, chief of staff to the governor.

In its cadre status, a company includes two officers and five enlisted men. Battalion staffs are larger.

The state guard resembles the home-guard units recruited during World War II and the Korean War but later disbanded.

And, it is the New York Guard that will measure radioactive fallout in the event of nuclear warfare.

command includes an average of three battalions, each with four companies.

The New York Guard is commanded by Maj. Gen. Andrew Malatesta, an Albany attorney, who reports directly to Maj. Gen. A.C. O'Hara, chief of staff to the governor.

In its cadre status, a company includes two officers and five enlisted men. Battalion staffs are larger.

The state guard resembles the home-guard units recruited during World War II and the Korean War but later disbanded.

Enlisted men and officers are issued basic fatigue uniforms, but their insignia bears the legend, "N. Y." and their shoulder patches picture only the state's seal.

Because state funds are limited to three days at Camp Smith, Peekskill.

But "deadwood" is trimmed periodically and morale remains high, says one training officer from an upstate battalion.

Those who stay work hard preparing for the eventuality they may be called upon to assume duties and offer logistical support to federalized guard units. They also are trained to aid regular civil authorities and to assist other states with which New York has reciprocal militia agreements.

Country Wife

By DORTHY VAN DOREN

Lying awake the other night I began to think of all the things in the world that were moving and active. I, myself, was comfortable, quiet, no complaints - but I couldn't sleep. When I counted sheep the silly things wouldn't go through the gate single file but crowded all together so it was impossible to single them out. I tried just counting slowly, one, two, three, four, etc. No result. The moon was shining in my window. It will move soon, I thought, move on past the glass. That set me off.

The earth itself was moving. I thought, slowly, inexorably, toward another sunrise. The stars were changing, Orion down, the Scorpion rising. Venus would disappear when the moon did.

The whole world was moving, each part of it according to its own fashion. In the ground earthworms were digging themselves down and then up, forever changing and churning the dirt. Busy ants were making paths through the grass. Fieldmice, safe in the dark from the cat, were chasing each other around the meadows. A fox was a prowler in the woods; a barn owl flew noiselessly down on its prey. The robin in the nest in the lilac was tucked in, head under wing, but the restless heads of her children were poking out, hoping that Mama would go out and get another worm.

Iris buds were getting ready to open tomorrow; the flowers of the hawthorne tree shook a little with a small wind in the branches. Our visiting rabbit came out from under the barn and made a snack out of the young leaves of the syringa. Even the grass was growing slowly, steadily, rising to the time of mowing.

It was an extraordinary thing to be in the midst of so much activity. Yet I did not feel like a stranger. It was, after all my whole too.

All the things moving around me were familiar. I wouldn't have wanted earthworms in my bed or mice running across the floor, but it was somehow reassuring to know that they were in their place, doing what came naturally.

Maybe this is the way we should think of our restless young folks these days. It is so hard to grow up. There was once an easy world to grow up in but I don't know where it was. A thousand years ago there was no local government and no security; five hundred years ago there were bitter battles within and without the Church; the industrial revolution of the nineteenth century brought unimaginable changes. Each time young people had to meet these changes head on, without experience. So they were unhappy and didn't trust their elders and yearned for a new world. As they are today, as far as we know, does not hope for a better life. Our young men and women have a built-in rebellion. It keeps them moving, like all the other created things.

Fleming-DeVoll

St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Helen Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming of Star Route, Rosendale, and John Edward DeVoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. John DeVoll of Tilton, on Sunday, June 23.

The Rev. Joseph J. McCarthy officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mary Preen provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of gladioli decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a champagne and organza over silk tulle gown, styled with a fitted bodice. She carried a bouquet of roses and fern. The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, had been employed at Caldor of Kingston.

Her husband, an alumnus of Rondout Valley High School, is serving in the U.S. Marine Corps, stationed in Hawaii.

Attendants were Rene De-

Simone and Nancy Turner. Their floor length gowns in white lace over yellow and white lace over pink, respectively, were fashioned with scoop necklines and full skirts of white lace ruffles over the colored fabric. They carried Colonial nosegay carnation bouquets to match their gowns. All attendants wore oval picture hats with moline bows and streamers.

Edward Bennett of Kingston was best man for his cousin, Ushers were Thomas Montella, Ulster Park, cousin of the bridegroom; Richard Hobart who is serving in the U.S. Marines.

After the wedding a reception for 100 guests was held at the Alpine Restaurant.

For her wedding trip to Hawaii where they will reside for eight months, the bride selected a whipped cream and daron cotillion blue dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE.

Dear Heloise:
May I suggest a hint that I've found absolutely terrific for a teething baby?

First fill a sterilized nipple with water from the baby's bottle. Then put the nipple down in a small glass and put it in your freezer. You'll find that the nipple, when frozen, makes the greatest teether imaginable! Just put the hard nipple back on his baby bottle and let your youngster chew away.

Renee M.

You are so right, Renee. The nipple is as hard as a rock to begin with and as the bottle itself contains no frozen water, it isn't too cold for the baby's hands.

Thanks for your great suggestion.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Before I buy a new appliance or any of the many wonderful conveniences that are on the market today, I give it this test: How often will I use it?

Where will I store it? How difficult will it be to keep AND how heavy is it to lift or carry about?

I buy all the lightweight items. Think of the energy women use lifting, carrying and moving things (turniture excluded) about the house.

Mrs. W.B.

Dear Heloise:
I buy large, very soft paper napkins for my boys and husband to use as everyday handkerchiefs.

I find this a perfect solution for lost cotton ones and a tremendous saving on laundry work. They are sturdier and larger than regular tissues and my menfolk prefer them.

I save their good linen handkerchiefs for church and other special occasions.

Emily L.

Dear Heloise:
For those who have bamboo fishing rods with wrappings, try wiping some paste wax along the pole.

It is a wonderful preservative for fishing tackle. Sure protects work. They are sturdier and larger than regular tissues and my menfolk prefer them.

Another thing I learned was to use spray on all metal joints. Makes the rod easier to assemble and take down and also protects it.

Lucile

Dear Heloise:
How can I keep scum from forming on top of my jar of olives? I am about to cry... they cost so much nowadays.

Mary Hill

Dear Mary:
Now don't you cry, honey. Next time you open a new bottle, pour about 1/4" of salad oil on top of the brine.

This will keep that scum from forming. And as you remove each olive from the jar, the oil will give it a shiny appearance and keep it from shriveling.

If you want a real flavor treat, put a few drops of garlic juice in that brine, shake, let set, and see what that does!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When we camp, we usually cook over a wood fire. This, of course, makes our pots and pans very black on the outside and can cause a lot of tiresome scrubbing.

A simple detergent over the bottom and sides before placing it on the fire.

When you have finished cooking the soot will wipe off with a wet cloth quick as a wink!

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Hart-VanVoorhis

Miss Carol Ann Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Hart of Agnes Street, Port Jervis, became the bride of Byron Robert VanVoorhis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron VanVoorhis of RD 5, Box 318, Kingston, on Sunday, June 23, at Old Dutch Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Arthur Oudemool officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Cynthia Jones, organist, accompanied Mrs. Margaret Roosa who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli, white chrysanthemums and pink marguerite daisies decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza and peau d'ange lace in the princess fashion, featuring a wide bouffant chapel length train. A bridal crown of seed pearls and crystals held a triple tiered silk illusion veil and she carried a luxuriant bridal bouquet of marguerite daisies and ivy.

For her wedding trip to California, the bride selected a lime green ensemble with matching accessories.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, is employed as secretary by George A. Wootan, MD.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and State University of New York at Cobleskill, is employed by the New York Telephone Company.

Mr. and Mrs. VanVoorhis will reside at Box 318, RD 5, Kingston.

Attendants were Mrs. Nicholas Roudis, Kingston; Mrs. Lucile

Miss Donna Hart of Port Jervis was maid of honor for her sister. Her samaron rose linen gown was enhanced with daisies at the high empire waistline and she wore a crown of braided daisies with a waterfall tulle veil. Her simplicity hand bouquet included the deep pink marguerite daisies and leather leaf.

Mrs. W.B.

Dear Heloise: I buy large, very soft paper napkins for my boys and husband to use as everyday handkerchiefs.

I find this a perfect solution for most cotton ones and a tremendous saving on laundry work. They are sturdier and larger than regular tissues and I menfolk prefer them. I save their good linen handkerchiefs for church and other special occasions.

Emily L.

Dear Heloise: For those who have bamboo fishing rods with wrappings, try wiping some paste wax along the pole.

It is a wonderful preservative for fishing tackle. Sure protects for today and tomorrow. Another thing I learned was to use spray on all metal joints. Makes the rod easier to assemble and take down and also protects it.

Lucile

Dear Heloise: How can I keep scum from forming on top of my jar of olives? I am about to cry... they cost so much nowadays.

Mary Hill

Dear Mary: Now don't you cry, honey. Next time you open a new bottle, pour about 1/4" of salad oil on top of the brine.

This will keep that scum from forming. And as you remove each olive from the jar, the oil will give it a shiny appearance and keep it from shriveling.

If you want a real flavor treat, put a few drops of garlic juice in that brine, shake, let set, and see what that does!

Heloise

Dear Heloise: When we camp, we usually cook over a wood fire. This, of course, makes our pots and pans very black on the outside and can cause a lot of tiresome scrubbing.

A simple detergent over the bottom and sides before placing it on the fire. When you have finished cooking the soot will wipe off with a wet cloth quick as a wink!

Linda Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Mets Again Zero in on .500 With Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Here come the Mets! Again! New York's grown-up expansion babies soared within a stride of hitherto unreachable heights Thursday night ... for the fifth time this month ... by trimming Houston 3-1 behind right-handers Don Cardwell and Ron Taylor.

The victory put the Mets' season record at 35-36. They never have reached the .500 level, after the first week, in any of their previous six National League seasons. But for the past two weeks it's been touch and go.

A four-game winning streak brought the Mets within a step of the elusive break-even point on June 14. The next day they rattled 16 hits off San Francisco's Juan Marichal ... and lost 9-5.

Last Saturday, Gil Hodges' youngsters were knocking at the door again, but Los Angeles' Don Drysdale applied the brakes. Then, two shots at .500 in Cincinnati this week became a pair of one-run losses.

Tonight in the Astrodome, Nolan Ryan, a 21-year-old rookie with a 6-5 record and speed to burn, leads the uphill assault against last-place Houston and fireballer Larry Dierker, 7-10 in the season.

In Thursday's only other NL games, Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 6-5 on Zoilo Versalles' 11th-inning homer, ending Marichal's personal winning streak at 10 games, and Atlanta shaded Philadelphia 4-3 under the lights as brothers Hank and Tommie Aaron combined to drive in three runs.

No Kiddin', No Ball Game?

Dear Readers:

As you know by now, there were no ball games played in the area Thursday.

And there will be none to night. The Braves, cancelled out last night with Florida Comets, were scheduled to try it again tonight with Beacons Astros. They won't.

When will baseball ever be played again in the area? Probably Saturday.

Set Free Boat Inspection Week

By special proclamation of President Lyndon B. Johnson, the week of June 30-July 6 has been designated as a special Safe Boating Week to bring to the attention of the public and boating people the need for safety afloat.

In conjunction with the President's edict, Flotilla Commander L. W. Cleveland of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 10-12, Kingston, advises that courtesy examinations for all boats will be performed during the June 30-July 6 week at Dwyer's Boat Basin at no charge to the boat owner.

Six Unearned Runs Help Bosox Beat Sam

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam McDowell was fine as long as he was throwing strikes. It was only when he let the Red Sox hit the ball that he got in trouble.

McDowell, selected as a member of the American League All-Star pitching staff earlier in the day, struck out the side in the first inning against Boston Thursday night. But between strikeouts the Red Sox scored six unearned runs on their way to a 9-3 romp over Cleveland.

In the only other American League game played, Minnesota blanked Baltimore 2-0 in a game ended by rain after five innings.

Joe Foy opened the Red Sox first against McDowell with a bloop single and raced to third when Larry Brown threw wild on Jerry Adair's grounder.

McDowell struck out Carl Yastrzemski, but Ken Harrelson stroked the first of his three hits, scoring Foy.

Brown's second error of the inning gave Boston another run and Rico Petrocelli singled for the third one. George Scott struck out but Russ Gibson walked, leading the bases and Jose Santiago singled for two runs. McDowell wilted pitched the sixth run in and walked Foy before fanning Adair for the third out.

Santiago, also an All-Star, worked five innings before leaving with a slight soreness in his right elbow. He got his ninth victory in 13 decisions.

McDowell lasted 2 1/3 innings, allowing seven unearned runs and striking out four. The loss evened his record at 7-7.

Harrelson raised his league leading average to .322 with his three hits, driving in two runs and scoring another.

Minnesota moved into second place, one-half game in front of

5th IL Pitcher Goes 9 Innings

By United Press International

It was a month to the day between victories for John Thibodeau and he celebrated in style.

Thibodeau, a 6-foot-4, 190-pound lefthander for the Louisville Colonels, became the fifth pitcher in the International League this season to hurl a nine-inning one-hitter Thursday night as he blanked the Rochester Red Wings 3-0.

The Red Wings were no match for the fireballing southpaw as he outdueled Mike Adamson.

In other games, Buffalo beat Richmond 4-1, Syracuse blanked Columbus 3-0 and Jacksonville defeated league-leading Toledo 6-2.

A two-run homer by Terry Harmon and the combined five-hit pitching of Barry Moore and Dick Lines paced the Bisons' victory. Pete Magrini's five-hit pitching and a homer by Len Boehmer helped the Chiefs' down Columbus and a route-going performance by Jim McAndrew handed the Mud Hens their third loss in four games.

3-Stroke Lead For Tony Jacklin

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Britain's Tony Jacklin coasted to a five-under-par 66 Thursday to lead the first round of the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament by two strokes.

The 23-year-old Jacklin, who became the first Englishman ever to win a tournament on the PGA tour when he took the Jacksonville Open earlier this year, needed only 26 putts and had 10 one-putt greens in his sparkling round.

He finished a solid three strokes ahead of early leaders Roberto DeVicenzo and Dave Stockton, who were deadlocked for second place at 69, two under par.

Jacklin had only two bogies in his sensational round over the 6,742-yard Lakewood Country Club, while collecting seven straight birdies, three of them coming on the 14th, 15th, and 16th holes that shot him into contention.

Playing the back nine first, Jacklin wound up with a 33, and was two under par as he made the turn. He really got hot on his second nine, with four birdies and only one bogie, a five on the par four eighth hole.

Jacklin was a late starter, and Stockton and DeVicenzo were already in the clubhouse as the early leaders before the Britisher's name went up on the board of leaders.

Cardwell, who went into the Houston game with six straight setbacks and a 1-8 record, blanked the Astros for seven innings before leaving under fire in the eighth. With one run in, Taylor came out of the Met bullpen and got the third out, stranding two base runners, then retired the Astros in order in the ninth.

Two of Ed Charles' three hits figured in the New York scoring. Singles by Cleon Jones and Charles, a late throw to the plate by Jerry Grote's grounder, a balk by losing pitcher Denny Lemaster and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly sent two runs across in the seventh. Singles by Charles, Grote and Don Bosch produced an insurance run in the ninth.

Versalles' leadoff homer off Marichal in the 11th ruined the Giant ace's bid for his 15th victory and dropped San Francisco into third place, one-half game behind Atlanta and seven back of the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Willie McCovey drove in four runs with his 19th and 20th homers, staking Marichal to an early 5-2 lead. The Dodgers rebounded on Len Gabrielson's two-run homer in the fifth and tied it on pinch hitter Ken Boyer's run-scoring single in the sixth.

Four LA relievers then battled Marichal, 14-3, to a standstill until Versalles' second homer broke the tie.

Hank Aaron drilled his 14th homer ... and 495th of his career ... and brother Tommie delivered two runs with a pair of singles, helping the Braves take a 4-2 lead into the ninth.

But winner Pat Jarvis needed relief help from Cecil Upshaw, who retired Rich Allen on a sharp grounder to third baseman Marty Martinez for the final out after pinch hitter Bill White's RBI single had closed the gap.

By PAUL ROBBINS
BOSTON (UPI)—The American League "firing squad," which will be charged with cutting down National League batters in the July 9 All-Star game, is knee-deep in heavy artillery.

For openers, the seven-man pitching crew named Thursday by Manager Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox features the American League's top winner in Denny McLain, the top strikeout man in Sam McDowell and the master of the white-wash, Luis Tiant.

McLain is 13-2 a the big man on the Detroit pitching staff which has stood the American League on its ear in building a comfortable first place margin. McDowell has struck out 143 batters and Cleveland Indian teammate Tiant, who fashioned four back-to-back shutouts earlier in this season, has six blankings in an 11-5 mark.

Pick Stottlemyre. Named along with that impressive trio were southpaw Tommy John of the Chicago White Sox and righthanders Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees, Boston's Jose Santiago and John Odom of the Oakland Athletics.

They join the eight starters named earlier this week in voting by the players, managers and coaches. That group includes catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit, the leading vote-getter; first baseman Harmon Killebrew and second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins; shortstop Jim Fregosi of the California Angels; Baltimore's Brooks Robinson at third base and a hard-hitting outfield of Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, Willie Horton of Detroit and Frank Howard of Washington.

Williams, who guided Boston to its first pennant in 21 seasons last year, will name the rest of his 25-man team Monday. He already has met the requirement of naming at least one player from each team, so he will have a free hand in the selections.

Red Schoendienst, of St. Louis, the National League skipper, will name his pitchers Saturday and the rest of his club next week.

The American League pitched includes five righthanders and two southpaws to face a starting National League lineup of five righthanded hitters and two switchhitters. Also certain to be named to the N.L. club are righties Willie Mays of San Francisco, and Felipe Alou of Atlanta.

The National League has won five straight games and holds a 20-17 1/2 lead in the annual midsummer classic, which began in 1933.

Heads Eastern League All-Stars

Mickey Scott, New York Yankees, was the left-handed pitcher and Elmira's Lloyd Fourroux the righty. Other Binghamton players making the squad were Frank Trepedino and John Fenderson, first base and left field, respectively.

York also placed a trio of performers on the squad, with catcher Tim Murtaugh, shortstop Bill Heintz and rightfielder Gene Clines being chosen.

Billy Conigliaro, brother of Boston Red Sox slugger, Tony, picked up the centerfield slot. Chet Trail of Elmira is the second baseman and Gomer Hodge, Waterbury is the third sacker.

Here come the Mets! Again! New York's grown-up expansion babes soared within a stride of hitherto unreachable heights Thursday night ... for the fifth time this month ... by trimming Houston 3-1 behind right-handers Don Cardwell and Ron Taylor.

The victory put the Mets' season record at 35-36. They never have reached the .500 level, after the first week, in any of their previous six National League seasons. But for the past two weeks it's been touch and go.

A four-game winning streak brought the Mets within a step of the elusive break-even point on June 14. The next day they rattled 16 hits off San Francisco's Juan Marichal ... and lost 9-5.

Last Saturday, Gil Hodges' youngsters were knocking at the door again, but Los Angeles' Don Drysdale applied the brakes. Then, two shots at .500 in Cincinnati this week became a pair of one-run losses.

Tonight in the Astrodome, Nolan Ryan, a 21-year-old rookie with a 6-5 record and speed to burn, leads the uphill assault against last-place Houston and fireballer Larry Dierker, 7-10 on the season.

In Thursday's only other NL games, Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 6-5 on Zoilo Versalles' 11th-inning homer, ending Marichal's personal winning streak at 10 games, and Atlanta shaded Philadelphia 4-3 under the lights as brothers Hank and Tommie Aaron combined to drive in three runs.

Cardwell, who went into the Houston game with six straight setbacks and a 1-8 record, blanked the Astros for seven innings before leaving under fire in the eighth. With one run in, Taylor came out of the Met bullpen and got the third out, stranding two base runners, then retired the Astros in order in the ninth.

Two of Ed Charles' three hits figured in the New York scoring. Singles by Cleon Jones and Charles, a late throw to the plate on Jerry Grote's grounder, a balk by losing pitcher Denny Lemaster and Jerry Buchek's sacrifice fly sent two runs across in the seventh. Singles by Charles, Grote and Don Bosch produced an insurance run in the ninth.

Versalles' leadoff homer off Marichal in the 11th ruined the Giant ace's bid for his 15th victory and dropped San Francisco into third place, one-half game behind Atlanta and seven back of the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

No Kidding, No Ball Game?

Dear Readers:

As you know by now, there were no ball games played in the area Thursday.

And there will be none tonight. The Braves, cancelled out last night with Florida Comets, were scheduled to try it again tonight with Beacons Astros. They won't.

When will baseball ever be played again in the area? Probably Saturday.

Six Unearned Runs Help Bosox Beat Sam

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam McDowell was fine as long as he was throwing strikes. It was only when he let the Red Sox hit the ball that he got in trouble.

McDowell, selected as a member of the American League All-Star pitching staff earlier in the day, struck out the side in the first inning against Boston Thursday night. But between strikeouts the Red Sox scored six unearned runs on their way to a 9-3 romp over Cleveland.

In the only other American League game played, Minnesota blanked Baltimore 2-0 in a game ended by rain after five innings.

Joe Foy opened the Red Sox first against McDowell with a bloop single and raced to third when Larry Brown threw wild on Jerry Adair's grounder. McDowell struck out Carl Yastrzemski but Ken Harrelson stroked the first of his three hits, scoring Foy.

Brown's second error of the inning gave Boston another run and Rico Petrocelli singled for the third one. George Scott struck out but Russ Gibson walked, loading the bases and Jose Santiago singled for two runs. McDowell wilted in the sixth run in and walked Foy before fanning Adair for the third out.

Santiago, also an All-Star, worked five innings before leaving with a slight soreness in his right elbow. He got his ninth victory in 13 decisions.

McDowell lasted 2 1/3 innings, allowing seven unearned runs and striking out four. The loss evened his record at 7-7.

Harrelson raised his league leading average to .322 with his three hits, driving in two runs and scoring another.

Minnesota moved into second place, one-half game in front of

St. Louis.

5th IL Pitcher Goes 9 Innings

By United Press International

It was a month to the day between victories for John Thibodeau and he celebrated in style.

Thibodeau, a 6-foot 4, 190-pound left-hander for the Louisville Colonels, became the fifth pitcher in the International League this season to hurl a nine-inning one-hitter Thursday night as he blanked the Rochester Red Wings 3-0.

The Red Wings were no match for the fireballing southpaw as he outdueled Mike Adamson.

In other games, Buffalo beat Richmond 4-1, Syracuse blanked Columbus 3-0 and Jacksonville defeated league-leading Toledo 6-2.

A two-run homer by Terry Harmon and the combined five-hit pitching of Barry Moore and Dick Lines paced the Bisons' victory. Pete Magrini's five-hit pitching and a homer by Len Boehmer helped the Chiefs' down Columbus and a route-going performance by Jim McAndrew handed the Mud Hens their third loss in four games.

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

"Cox Gains 11 Points . . . Yankees Get Dividend," said the 3-column head in a New York daily.

It sent the Yankee third baseman to bed with pleasant dreams and a .244 batting average, the item went on. But, don't laugh! On the Yankees, that's a badge of distinction, good enough for third place among the regulars.

It was exactly a point ahead of Joe Pepitone, the man who was supposed to follow in the tradition of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle. There are distressing signs, however, that Pepe is more likely to make the Elizabeth Arden Hall of Fame as the man who was more potent with a comb than a baseball bat.

AS EVERYONE KNOWS . . .

Bobby Cox succeeded Mike Ferraro at third base, after the Dawson Award winner in Yankee spring training had been subjected to an exhaustive, 13-game trial by Manager Ralph Houk.

Even the most naive baseball observer must have been skeptical about the length of Mike Ferraro's apprenticeship. His detractors looked bemused and said "I told you so" coining a new phrase for the language. Not so his supporters. They were understandably concerned and outraged.

How did the Yankee minor league brass react? "I think the Yankees gave Ferraro a fair shake," said Don Labruzzo, the general manager of the Syracuse Chiefs. "I don't think he has anything to complain about."

"I think Mike can be an excellent Triple A ball player, but probably couldn't make it into the majors because of his hitting," he added.

Labruzzo, however, appeared sure that Mike would get into the majors via the expansion program—Seattle or Kansas City, "if he does fairly well at Syracuse."

At this writing, Mike Ferraro is doing "fairly well" at Syracuse with a .302 average. But reading between the lines, Mr. Labruzzo has apparently written Mike off as a future resident of Yankee Stadium.

SAID LEE MC PHAIL . . .

Lee McPhail, the Yankees farm system director who learned his trade from a distinguished father, apparently shares part of Labruzzo's evaluation of Mike Ferraro's future.

They are both unanimous on Mike's unquestioned ability as a fielder, but that's old hat by now.

"We are now batting Mike second, instead of the power slots of third, fourth and fifth," said McPhail. He's going for the hit, not pulling the ball as much as previously."

McPhail observed that Ferraro made an explosive return to Syracuse, was cooled off by a knee injury, but now seems to be clearly out of the slump.

Would McPhail speculate on Mike's chances of returning to Yankee Stadium? He deftly sidestepped the issue.

"There is no scuttlebutt about a trade," he said, "but I think his chances are excellent in the expansion, at least for next year."

While Labruzzo and McPhail appeared to be reading from the same script, there is a difference in nuances. Labruzzo had strong reservations about Ferraro as a major league possibility. He might have a chance in the draft, he was saying. McPhail did not preclude a future major league career for Mike, but not with the Yanks, of course.

HOUK'S COMFORTING WORDS

It is unlikely that Mike Ferraro will ever see Yankee Stadium, except as a visiting player. But there is an interesting sequel.

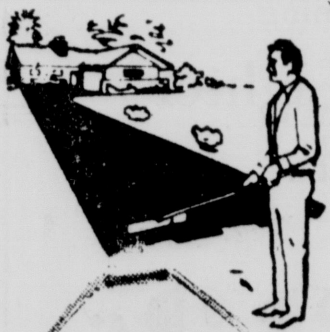

The interview between Cox and the New York sportswriter, following Bobby's climb to .244 on 3 hits, is quite revealing and bears repeating.

Commenting on the major league roster cutoff date and his battle with Ferraro for third base, Cox told the reporter:

"I was kind of a borderline case, but a few nights before the final cutdown, Ralph Houk told me not to sweat. I was on the club."

Obviously, Ralph Houk, disregarding Mike's fine spring performance, had made up his mind on Bobby Cox even before Mike reached that fatal 13th game. Ferraro's slump gave him the opening he wanted.

Cox's statement should answer a lot of questions. That other question: Did Ralph Houk give Mike Ferraro a fair shake? What do you think?

Spring Racing Nets $35 Million

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The spring meetings at Aqueduct race track and Yonkers Raceway have produced $35.7 million for the state from pari-mutuel betting handles — an increase over 1967.

Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy announced Thursday that the total betting handle at the two tracks was $329,694,476 and attendance, up at both tracks, was 3,256,318.

In the 59-day Aqueduct meeting, from March 11 through May 18, one day less than last year, the amount raised for the state was $22,083,088, or 7.8 percent over last year.

Yonkers' 61 racing days, 10 more than last year, produced $13,658,316 as the state's share of the pari-mutuel revenue.

Harner Victor With Lockman

MONTICELLO — Levi Harner, 59-year-old veteran reinsman, enjoyed his best night of the 1968 meeting at Monticello Raceway, scoring a 2:09.4 victory with Lockman Hanover in last night's featured trot to complete a driving double.

Harner kept Lockman Hanover off the top end, letting two others cut out the mile.

Leaving from post four, Harner and Lockman sat third on the rail as Penney's His Nibs (1) and Faber Mar Mic (6) fought it out, going the first quarter in :32.1, the half in 1:03.2 and the three-quarters in 1:36.1.

Ronnie Star (8) went three wide on the outside, taking over third from Harner after three-quarters.

Down the stretch, Harner stayed on the wood with Lockman, sneaking by along the rail to win by three-parts of a length.

The contract driver for Ted Zornow of Pittsford, Harner and Lockman Hanover, 16-1 shot, returned whopping payoffs of $32.50, 10.40 and 5.40. Windy Lightning (5) placed, paying $10.60 and 5.40 while Penney's His Nibs was worth $3.00 for show.

Kickers Play Shamrock Sunday

The first of a series of exhibition games leading up to Kingston Sport Club's elevation to the Premier Division of the German-American Soccer Association will be played Sunday at Oehler's Mountain Lodge. The summer schedule released today by Bill Oehler, schedule chairman, lists the Shamrock A.C. of New York as Sunday's foe. Game time is 3 p.m.

Shamrocks? Isn't that the old League Division rivals of the Kickers? Yes, the same team.

WESTBURY, L. I. — Stanley Dancer reins Nevele Pride to a four-length triumph in the $166,756 Dexter Cup at Roosevelt Raceway last night. The richest trot of the year was Nevele Pride's 12th consecutive win. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Nevele Pride Trots 2:02.2 Record Dexter

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — It's true what they say about Nevele Pride.

The 3-year-old colt by Star's Pride out of Thankful has been hailed as the greatest trotter in harness racing.

Anyone doubtful of such high praise would have been convinced by the terrific performance of Nevele Pride in winning the $166,756 Dexter Cup Trot at Roosevelt Raceway before 18,083 on a rainy Thursday night.

The 1967 Harness Horse-of-the-year trotted home eased up by four lengths in stakes record time of 2:02.2. It was his 12th straight victory, including 4-for-4 this year, and his 30th in 33 starts.

Money-wise he earned $83,373 to boost his career bankroll to $329,809 for co-owners Nevele Acres and Louis Resnick of Ellenville, N.Y.

"It was a terrific performance for Nevele Pride," said driver Stanley Dancer. "We were three wide around two turns. We were under wraps at the finish. If he stays sound there's no telling how much he can win."

Dancer said Nevele Pride is staked in races worth $960,000 this season in 3-year-old trotting stakes. The Dexter was the first of trotting Big Five which include the Yonkers Futurity, the Hambletonian, the Colonial and the Kentucky Futurity. His next start will be July 3 in the historic Dickerson Cup at Goshen, N.Y.

The winner, as far as the wagering was concerned, was Snow Speed, reined by Ralph Baldwin for the Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky. He beat Keystone Spartan by a neck and paid $20, $8.60 and $5.40.

Keystone Spartan, handled by Del Miller, returned $7 and $3.80. Yankee Town, a 28-1 outsider who led for nearly three-quarters with Paul Hebert in the sulky, paid $7.60 to show.

After Yankee Town came Fine Shot, Kerry Pride, Ole Hanover, Larengo Hanover, Dart Hanover, Master Yankee and Fashion Hill.

In the feature races Thursday night at other harness tracks in New York State:

Saratoga Raceway—Keystone Starlet defeated Isetta Rodney by a nose in the $16,500 trot. Fantasia Hanover was third.

Keystone Starlet, timed in 2:12.1-5 on a heavy track, took the lead after the half. She returned $39 for the victory.

The event was part of the week-long Grand Circuit series. Vernon Downs—Fazan won the $1,500 trot in 2:11. Sharp Shot was second, three lengths behind.

Trackman Selections
1—Silencer, Sunrise Haze, Storm Worthing.

2—DON BREWSTER, Star of Gold, Trump's Knave.

3—Wagner Hanover, Spartacus, Speedy Quick.

4—Peerless Yankee, Sprint, Victory Camp.

5—Gay Dud, Irish May, Buttery Wick.

6—Scandalous, Bettor's Choice, Sharp Cat.

7—Avon Girl, Trustworthy Pick, Victory Knightness.

8—Eloise Wick, Legal Freight, Yachtsman.

9—Andy Minbar, Bravado Pick, Live Gay.

BEST BET: Don Brewster (2nd).

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Shelby Wilson, a 1960 Olympic champion, was named wrestling coach Thursday at the University of Colorado.

They moved to the Premier Division last year.

Among the high spots on the summer slate is a July 21 date with the Stadtwerke Meunchen squad of Munich, Germany. The annual Mid-Hudson Valley Soccer tournament is slated Aug.

8 and Aug. 18. Exhibitions close out with Sept. 8 and Sept. 12 dates with the New York University team.

Tentative opening of the 1968-69 Premier Division season in the GASA is the third week in September.

DeCicco Blasts 871 High Series

Jim DeCicco led off with a 210 and followed it up with high blasts of 225 and 239 sandwiched around a 177 for an 871 slam that led Three Man Classic bowling.

Jack Ferraro trailed with a hat-trick 221, 214, 204, 213-60. Other qualifiers: Frank Bartoff 201, 205, 204, 213-823; Gary Barnes 244; Joe McGrane 236; Ben Sanford 215, 234-815; Sonny Barnes 222, 205-809; George Brown 254.

Team results: Kingston Ornamental Iron 7, Linnart 5; Riozzi Masonry 5, Ferraro 7; Dousharm's 3, George's Auto Sales 9; Barnes 10, Lincoln Park Inn 2; Kingston Coal and Oil 5, Wayside Rest 7.

Third Annual Pistol Match To Wawarsing

Wawarsing's pistolers fired top honors at the third annual Center Fire match at the Wawarsing pistol range Wednesday.

Ernest Muller, the area's hottest shooter, led the Wawarsing crew to their 1258 total with a score of 276.

The Kingston Rifle and Pistol Club was second with 1175 and Rondout Valley brought up the rear with 1166. Frank Steltz of Kingston and George Schwab of Rondout led their teams with rounds of 266.

The scores:
Wawarsing (1258) — Ernest Muller 276; John Tverdak 263; Joseph Blank 250; Norman Dewire 244; William Tyner 225.

Kingston — (1175) — Frank Steltz 266; Phil Sigia 249; George Seymour 237; Frederic Guerra 217; Robert DenBleyker 193.

Rondout Valley (1166) — George Schwab 266; Harold Black 233; John Dickerson 229; Albert Mastin 225; Mendy Samuels 213.

Majors in Ten Roster Shifts

A host of roster changes, shifting players from one league to another and large scale reshuffling in general, were announced yesterday by the major leagues.

In the most noteworthy deal, the Chicago Cubs swapped 34-year-old outfielder Lou Johnson to the Cleveland Indians for virtual unknown Willie Smith, a first baseman-outfielder.

The Cubs also sent relief pitcher Chuck Hartenstein and first baseman-catcher John Bocabella to their Tacoma farm club, recalling pitcher Bill Stoneman from that same team.

Langushing in ninth place, the Cubs also bought catcher Gene Oliver from the Boston Red Sox.

The Sox, AL champs last year, bought veteran lefthander Juan Pizarro from the Pittsburgh Pirates, who in turn purchased 40-year-old Bill Henry, a relief specialist, from the San Francisco Giants.

The Giants, with a varsity roster spot to fill, recalled utility infielder Bobby Schroeder from their Phoenix farm club of the Pacific Coast League.

The New York Yankees, looking to bolster its pitching staff, brought up reliever Thad Tillotson from its Syracuse farm team. Tillotson was 7-2 and had an 0.97 earned run average for the Chiefs.

ANNOUNCING

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

"Cox Gains 11 Points . . . Yankees Get Dividend," said the 3-column head in a New York daily.

It sent the Yankee third baseman to bed with pleasant dreams and a .244 batting average, the item went on. But, don't laugh! On the Yankees, that's a badge of distinction, good enough for third place among the regulars.

It was exactly a point ahead of Joe Pepitone, the man who was supposed to follow in the tradition of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle. There are distressing signs, however, that Pepe is more likely to make the Elizabeth Arden Hall of Fame as the man who was more potent with a comb than a baseball bat.

AS EVERYONE KNOWS . . .

Bobby Cox succeeded Mike Ferraro at third base, after the Dawson Award winner in Yankee spring training had been subjected to an exhaustive, 13-game trial by Manager Ralph Houk.

Even the most naive baseball observer must have been skeptical about the length of Mike Ferraro's apprenticeship. His detractors looked bemused and said "I told you so" coining a new phrase for the language. Not so his supporters. They were understandably concerned and outraged.

How did the Yankee minor league brass react? "I think the Yankees gave Ferraro a fair shake," said Don Labruzzo, the general manager of the Syracuse Chiefs. "I don't think he has anything to complain about."

"I think Mike can be an excellent Triple A ball player, but probably couldn't make it into the majors because of his hitting," he added.

Labruzzo, however, appeared sure that Mike would get into the majors via the expansion program—Seattle or Kansas City, "if he does fairly well at Syracuse."

At this writing, Mike Ferraro is doing "fairly well" at Syracuse with a .302 average. But reading between the lines, Mr. Labruzzo has apparently written Mike off as a future resident of Yankee Stadium.

SAID LEE MC PHAIL . . .

Lee McPhail, the Yankees farm system director who learned his trade from a distinguished father, apparently shares part of Labruzzo's evaluation of Mike Ferraro's future.

They are both unanimous on Mike's unquestioned ability as a fielder, but that's old hat by now.

"We are now batting Mike second, instead of the power slots of third, fourth and fifth," said McPhail. He's going for the hit, not pulling the ball as much as previously."

McPhail observed that Ferraro made an explosive return to Syracuse, was cooled off by a knee injury, but now seems to be clearly out of the slump.

Would McPhail speculate on Mike's chances of returning to Yankee Stadium? He deftly sidestepped the issue.

"There is no scuttlebutt about a trade," he said, "but I think his chances are excellent in the expansion, at least for next year."

While Labruzzo and McPhail appeared to be reading from the same script, there is a difference in nuances. Labruzzo had strong reservations about Ferraro as a major league possibility. He might have a chance in the draft, he was saying. McPhail did not preclude a future major league career for Mike, but not with the Yanks, of course.

HOUK'S COMFORTING WORDS

It is unlikely that Mike Ferraro will ever see Yankee Stadium, except as a visiting player. But there is an interesting sequel.

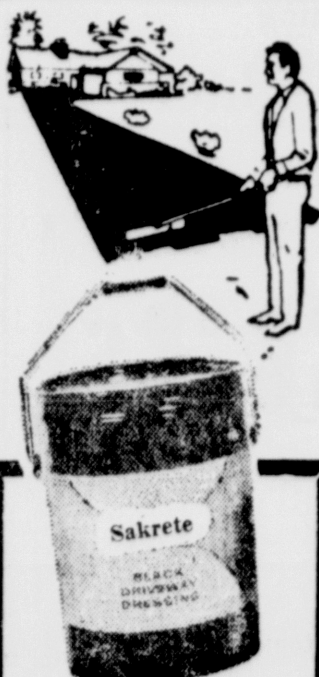

The interview between Cox and the New York sportswriter, following Bobby's climb to .244 on 3 hits, is quite revealing and bears repeating.

Commenting on the major league roster cutoff date and his battle with Ferraro for third base, Cox told the reporter:

"I was kind of a borderline case, but a few nights before the final cutdown, Ralph Houk told me not to sweat. I was on the club."

Obviously, Ralph Houk, disregarding Mike's fine spring performance, had made up his mind on Bobby Cox even before Mike reached that fatal 13th game. Ferraro's slump gave him the opening he wanted.

Harner Victor With Lockman

MONTICELLO — Levi Harner, 59-year-old veteran reinsman enjoyed his best night of the 1968 meeting at Monticello Raceway, scoring a 2:09.4 victory with Lockman Hanover in last night's featured trot to complete a driving double.

Harner previously had topped the first race behind Avon Charlie, and came right back in his next drive to guide Lockman Hanover home over the rain-soaked track, classified as good.

Harner kept Lockman Hanover off the top end, letting two others cut out the mile. Leaving from post four, Harner and Lockman sat third on the rail as Penney's His Nibs (1) and Faber Mar Mic (6), fought it out, going the first quarter in :32.1, the half in 1:03.2 and the three-quarters in 1:36.1.

Ronnie Star (8) went three wide on the outside, taking over third from Harner after three-quarters.

Down the stretch, Harner stayed on the wood with Lockman, sneaking by along the rail to win by three-parts of a length. The contract driver for Ted Zornow of Pittsford, Harner and Lockman Hanover, a 16-1 shot, returned whopping payoffs of $32.50, 10.40 and 5.40. Windy Lightning (5) placed, paying $10.60 and 5:40 while Penney's His Nibs was worth $3.00 for show.

Dancer said Nevele Pride is staked in races worth $900,000 this season in 3-year-old trotting stakes. The Dexter was the first of trotting Big Five which include the Yonkers Futurity, the

Kickers Play Shamrock Sunday

The first of a series of exhibition games leading up to Kings-Schedule chairman, lists the Premier Division of the Shamrock A.C. of New York as Premier Division of the Ger-Sunday's foe. Game time is 3 p.m.

Shamrocks? Isn't that the old League Division rivals of the Kickers? Yes, the same team.

The summer schedule released today by Bill Oehler, They moved to the Premier Division last year.

Among the high spots on the summer slate is a July 21 date with the Stadtwerke Meunchen squad of Munich, Germany. The annual Mid-Hudson Valley Soccer tournament is slated Aug.

8 and Aug. 18. Exhibitions close out with Sept. 8 and Sept. 12 dates with the New York University team.

Tentative opening of the 1968-69 Premier Division season in the GASA is the third week in September.

Manager Bob Graves says all KSC regulars except All-American Gino Ventriglia will be available for the exhibitions. The former State U New Paltz star is attending summer college in Maine.

"Timo Lieloski will be at goal and other regulars like Elliott Pobbi Asare of Ghana, Reiner Schwebel, Winnie Soddenman expect to play most of the exhibitions," said Graves. "The boys are really looking forward to the new league in September."

Games at Oehler's

Oehler's field where Sport Club home games are played is located on Morgan Hill Road, six miles from the Thruway interchange in the Stony Hollow area.

The summer slate:

Sunday, June 30—Shamrock of New York

July 4—New York Hungarians

July 14—Haledon S. C.

July 21—Stadtwerke Meunchen of Munich, Germany.

July 28—Hoboken Football Club.

Aug. 4—KSC first and second team in scrimmage game.

Aug. 11—5th Annual Mid-Hudson soccer tournament, 12 noon to 5 p.m.

Aug. 18—Finals Mid-Hudson tournament.

Aug. 27—Friendly Bar vs. Oehler's Mountaineers.

Sept. 8—New York University.

Sept. 12 (Thursday)—New York University.

THE CURRAGH, Ireland (UPI) — American-owned Sir Ivor, winner of the English Derby this year, was favored in the early betting line Thursday to win Saturday's $184,800 Irish Derby.

Nevele Pride Trots 2:02.2 Record Dexter

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — It's true what they say about Nevele Pride.

The 3-year-old colt by Star's Pride out of Thankful has been hailed as the greatest trotter in harness racing.

Anyone doubtful of such high praise would have been convinced by the terrific performance of Nevele Pride in winning the $166,756 Dexter Cup Trot at Roosevelt Raceway before 18,083 on a rainy Thursday night.

The 1967 Harness Horse-of-the-year trotted home eased up by four lengths in stakes record time of 2:02.2. It was his 12th straight victory, including 4 for 4 this year, and his 30th in 33 starts.

Money-wise he earned $83,373 to boost his career bankroll to $329,809 for co-owners Nevele Acres and Louis Resnick of Ellenville, N.Y.

"It was a terrific performance for Nevele Pride," said driver Stanley Dancer. "We were three wide around two turns. We were under wraps at the finish. If he stays sound there's no telling how much he can win."

Dancer said Nevele Pride is staked in races worth $900,000 this season in 3-year-old trotting stakes. The Dexter was the first of trotting Big Five which include the Yonkers Futurity, the Hambletonian, the Colonial and the Kentucky Futurity. His next start will be July 3 in the historic Dickerson Cup at Goshen, N.Y.

The winner, as far as the wagering was concerned, was Snow Speed, reined by Ralph Baldwin for the Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky. He beat Keystone Spartan by a neck and paid $20, $8.60 and $5.40.

Keystone Spartan, handled by Del Miller, returned $7 and $3.80, Yankee Town, a 28-1 outsider who led for nearly three-quarters with Paul Hebert in the sulky, paid $7.60 to show.

After Yankee Town came Fine Shot, Kerry Pride, Ole Hanover, Larengo Hanover, Dart Hanover, Master Yankee and Fashion Hill.

In the feature races Thursday night at other harness tracks in New York State:

Saratoga Raceway—Keystone Starlet defeated Iselta Rodney by a nose in the $16,500 trot. Fantasia Hanover was third.

Keystone Starlet, timed in 2:12 1-5 on a heavy track, took the lead after the half. She returned $39 for the victory.

The event was part of the week-long Grand Circuit series. Vernon Downs—Fazan won the $1,500 trot in 2:11. Sharp Shot was second, three lengths behind.

Trackman Selections

1—Silencer, Sunrise Haze, Storm Worthy.

2—DON BREWSTER, Star of Gold, Trump's Knave.

3—Wagner Hanover, Spartacus, Speedy Quick.

4—Peerless Yankee, Sprint, Victory Camp.

5—Gay Dud, Irish May, Butterfly Wick.

6—Scandalous, Bettor's Choice, Sharp Cat.

7—Avon Girl, Trustworthy Pick, Victory Knightness.

8—Eloise Wick, Legal Freight, Yachtsman.

'Indians Week' -- Busiest Season of History

ADDISON JONES

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, celebrating "Indians Week" with their younger brothers the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians are enjoying the busiest season of their history. So far this year, they have appeared in parades, exhibitions and contests in Brooklyn, New York City, Saugerties, Bridgeport, Conn., Cornwall, Lodi, N. J., Middletown, Conn., Smith Falls, Ontario, St. Jerome, Quebec and of course, Kingston.

Entering all Class A contests, they have already competed against most of the top corps in the East, as well as many up and coming corps. In the five marching and maneuvering drum and bugle corps contests entered this season, the Indians have placed in sixth once, fifth twice, and fourth twice. On June 15, the Corps took 4th place with a 63.85 for their best score of the season, and Indian Drum Major Charles "Chick" Buboltz took 1st place honors for "Best Major" with a score of 9 out of a possible 10.

Last weekend the Corps left Kingston for Canada in two buses and competed against the Canadian National Champions, the Toronto Optimists, and Canada's No. 2 rated Les Metropolitains, among others, in Smith Falls, Ont. and came in fourth. From Smith Falls, the Indians proceeded to Montreal, spending the night at the Queens Hotel, and having free time until Sunday at 1 p. m. when the Corps gathered to rehearse for their evening show which was held in St. Jerome, Que. This appearance was an exhibition of their '68 Field Show, and the Indians became the first American Drum Corps to appear in St. Jerome. Representing America, and Kingston, they did themselves proud, putting on their best performance, and received a standing ovation from the many French Canadians viewing their first American Corps in action. Just the Sunday before, Father's Day, the Indians put on an exhibition at Shea Stadium between the Mets-Giants game before over 63,000 baseball fans, where they also received a standing ovation.

Booked through October, the Kingston Indians will compete in their contest in Milford, Conn. this Saturday night. They and the Troop 12 Indians will appear in the Saugerties Independence Day Parade on the morning of the 4th of July, and the Kingston Indians will compete that night in Millbrook.

One of the outstanding drum and bugle corps contests in the East, the "Pow Wow of Junior Champions" is sponsored by the Indians, and will be held at Dietz Stadium at 8 p. m. on Saturday, Aug. 10. More details about the Pow Wow will be announced.

This week being Kingston's Indians Week, the boys of both Indians Corps are soliciting for "boosters." All friends who purchase these boosters will have their names listed in the attractive Pow Wow Program and will receive a "genuine wooden Indian head nickel" as a memento of the 4th Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions. The Indians are happy and proud that heading up this ambitious campaign again is Indians' Week Chairman Addison Jones.

'Indians Week' -- Busiest Season of History

ADDISON JONES

The Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps, celebrating "Indians Week" with their younger brothers the Troop 12 B.S.A. Indians are enjoying the busiest season of their history. So far this year, they have appeared in parades, exhibitions and contests in Brooklyn, New York City, Saugerties, Bridgeport, Conn., Cornwall, Lodi, N. J., Middletown, Conn., Smith Falls, Ontario, St. Jerome, Quebec and of course, Kingston.

Entering all Class A contests, they have already competed against most of the top corps in the East, as well as many up and coming corps. In the five marching and maneuvering drum and bugle corps contests entered this season, the Indians have placed in sixth once, fifth twice, and fourth twice. On June 15, the Corps took 4th place with a 63.85 for their best score of the season, and Indian Drum Major Charles "Chick" Buboltz took 1st place honors for "Best Major" with a score of 9 out of a possible 10.

Last weekend the Corps left Kingston for Canada in two buses and competed against the Canadian National Champions, the Toronto Optimists, and Canada's No. 2 rated Les Metropolitan, among others, in Smith Falls, Ont. and came in fourth. From Smith Falls, the Indians proceeded to Montreal, spending the night at the Queens Hotel, and having free time until Sunday at 1 p. m. when the Corps gathered to rehearse for their evening show which was held in St. Jerome, Que. This appearance was an exhibition of their '68 Field Show, and the Indians became the first American Drum Corps to appear in St. Jerome, representing America, and Kingston, they did themselves proud, putting on their best performance, and received a standing ovation from the many French Canadians viewing their first American Corps in action. Just the Sunday before, Father's Day, the Indians put on an exhibition at Shea Stadium between the Mets-Giants game before over 63,000 baseball fans, where they also received a standing ovation.

Booked through October, the Kingston Indians will compete in their contest in Milford, Conn. this Saturday night. They and the Troop 12 Indians will appear in the Saugerties Independence Day Parade on the morning of the 4th of July, and the Kingston Indians will compete that night in Millbrook.

One of the outstanding drum and bugle corps contests in the East, the "Pow Wow of Junior Champions" is sponsored by the Indians, and will be held at Dietz Stadium at 8 p. m. on Saturday, Aug. 10. More details about the Pow Wow will be announced.

This week being Kingston's Indians Week, the boys of both Indians Corps are soliciting for "boosters." All friends who purchase these boosters will have their names listed in the attractive Pow Wow Program and will receive a "genuine wooden Indian head nickel" as a memento of the 4th Annual Pow Wow of Junior Champions. The Indians are happy and proud that heading up this ambitious campaign again is Indians' Week Chairman Addison Jones.

Avoid Ailments Is Radio Topic For Physicians

Tips on avoiding the common ailments and mishaps that can ruin a family's summer fun are given at a Physicians' Forum program to be heard on Radio Station WGHQ on Sunday at 1:15 p. m.

Meditation Guest

The Rev. David Stanton, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, Lomontville, will be the speaker for Morning Meditations on WGHQ, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday morning at 6:15 this coming week. The program is sponsored by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association.

LEGAL NOTICES

AN ORDINANCE OF THE TOWN OF HURLEY IN PURSUANCE of authority conferred by Article 9 of the Town Law pertaining to the powers of the Town Board to enact ordinances within the said town.

IT IS ORDAINED AND RESOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Hurley, Ulster County, New York, that the following be the provisions of the said ordinance:

SECTION I
PURPOSE OF ORDINANCE
It is hereby created by Section 130 of the Town Law of the State of New York, that the establishment of a fire lane on Depot Street in said town is necessary for the protection of the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the said town. Therefore, the provisions hereinafter prescribed and enacted in the public interest and their necessity is hereby declared as a matter of legislative determination.

SECTION II
GENERAL PROVISIONS
It shall be unlawful for any person driving or having any vehicle in charge or under his control to park or permit the same to be parked or left standing in or upon the northerly side of Depot Street in the said town of Hurley, in connection with the easterly side of Old Road 209 to a point opposite the easterly end of the fire house as it is now situated.

SECTION III
VIOLATIONS AND PENALTIES
Any person who violates any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be guilty of an offense, and any person convicted of such violation shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $10.00 for the first violation and conviction, and for a second or subsequent violation conviction within eighteen (18) months, for a penalty of not less than $25.00 and not more than $50.00.

SECTION IV
EFFECTIVE DATE
This Ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days after its publication and posting as provided for by Section 133 of the Town Law.
Dated: June 24, 1968
BY ORDER OF THE TOWN BOARD OF THE TOWN OF HURLEY
RAYMOND C. CROWELL, Town Clerk.

Board of Public Works
City of Kingston, N.Y.
Sealed proposals will be received by the Commissioners of the Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, New York, at its office in City Hall, 408 Broadway, Kingston, New York, until 3:45 p.m. on Wednesday, July 10, 1968, and they will be publicly opened and read in Mayor's office, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 10, 1968.

Proposals are invited on Contract No. 81 for furnishing and installing about 550 feet of storm drain in which the approximate quantities of items for the comparison of bids are as follows:

Item I—Furnish and install Corrugated Pipe Arch Storm Drain (72 x 44" Bit. Coated, Paved Invert—3 x 1" Corrugations).
Item II—Steel End Section 1 ea.
Item III—3 Reinforced Concrete Transition Structures 30 C.Y.
Item IV—Adjustment of unknown or uncharted utilities, if any.
Item V—Select Fill placed and compacted.
Item VI—Extra Work—Cost plus 15% in accordance with Article XXII of the City of Kingston Standard Contract.

Proposals must be submitted on forms furnished by the Board of Public Works. These forms, together with other contract documents, including plan and specifications, may be obtained from the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, upon the deposit of $10.00, which will be refunded upon the return of the documents in good order within ten (10) days after the opening of bids. Contractors who do not submit proposals will be refunded $5.00 upon the return of the documents above. These documents must be examined free of charge at the above office of the City Engineer.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check in the amount of ten per cent (10%) of the total amount bid, which will be returned upon the non-acceptance of bid or the execution of the contract. No bids may be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days after the date of the opening of bids.

The Commissioners expressly reserve the right to use any information in or to accept any bid, or to reject any or all bids, or to award on any or all items, at the interest of the City of Kingston may appear to require.

By order of the Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, New York.

Mother Has Much to Learn

By ABAIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl. I am a virgin and I intend to stay that way until I get married.

With my parents' permission, I started going steady with a boy I'll call Vic. He is 20. Vic is a gentleman and he treats me with respect.

Vic's mother invited me to her house for supper last night to "get acquainted." She seemed very nice and friendly and I really liked her. Then she got me aside and said: "It's none of my business how far you go with my son; but as a favor to me, I want you to take these birth control pills. I'll buy them and keep you supplied. All I want is your promise that you will take them."

Abby: I was too shocked to say anything except: "Thank you very much, Mrs. —, but I won't be needing them." She insisted that I take them anyway, saying: "Vic's older brother had to get married three years ago; and I don't want to go thru that again; so this to my wife a couple of weeks ago; and so far she's done nothing about it. I am very easy going and dislike scenes, so what do you advise me to do?"

DEAR STUMPED: Search your mind and try to come up with the REAL reason you don't want the girl there. (Could be you're deceiving yourself.) In any case, as long as you know you want her out, ask your wife to tell her she'd better look for another room — or YOU tell her.

DEAR GIRL: Give the pills back to Vic's mother and tell her firmly that you appreciate her offer; but you have no use for them. I see no point in telling Vic.

DEAR ABBY: I am stumped. We have a young woman renting a room from us. My wife and kids will be gone most of the summer and I would rather not have a girl staying here while my family is gone.

There is no attraction on either side; so that's not it. Also I'm not worried about gossip. I just would rather not have her here is all.

Mother Has Much to Learn

By ABAIGAIL VAN BUREN

N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl. I am a virgin and I intend to stay that way until I get married.

With my parents' permission, I started going steady with a boy I'll call Vic. He is 20. Vic is a gentleman and he treats me with respect.

Vic's mother invited me to her house for supper last night to "get acquainted." She seemed very nice and friendly and I really liked her. Then she got me aside and said: "It's none of my business how far you go with my son; but as a favor to me, I want you to take these birth control pills."

I told her I don't need them. Should I tell her? What if Vic's mother asks me if I am taking them? Should I lie and say yes to avoid an argument? I honestly don't know what to do and I can't ask my mother.

VIC'S GIRL: Give the pills back to Vic's mother and tell her firmly that you appreciate her offer; but you have no use for them. I see no point in telling her.

DEAR ABBY: I am stumped. We have a young woman renting a room from us. My wife supplied. All I want is your promise that you will take the summer and I would rather not have that girl staying here while my family is gone.

There is no attraction on either side; so that's not it. Also I'm not worried about gossip. I just would rather not have her here is all.

She doesn't have a lease; so three years ago; and I don't want to go thru that again; so this to my wife a couple of as a favor to ME: I want you to take them. And please don't say anything to Vic about this. And she shoved them into my purse.

DEAR STUMPED: Search your mind and try to come up with the REAL reason you don't want the girl there. (Could be you're deceiving yourself.) In any case; as long as you know you want her out; ask your wife to tell her she'd better look for another room — or YOU tell her.

DEAR ABBY: Will you PLEASE make some attempt to curb the incessant babbling of dotting grandmothers? Many a good card game has been ruined because these slobbering idiots don't know enough to keep quiet about a subject that is a crashing bore to others.

We even tried imposing a 10 cent fine at our bridge club for every mention of "what my adorable grandchild said." One simpleton announced that the 10-cent fine wasn't going to stop her from talking about HER cute little granddaughter; so with that she threw a ten dollar bill on the table and launched into an endless monologue about the world's smartest 4-year-old. She said it was worth it.

Here's a story our minister told that brought down the house: A dotting grandmother said to her friend: "Say, 'Say,' have I ever told you about my grandchildren?" Her friend replied: "No," and I sure do appreciate it.

ALSO A GRANDMOTHER

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the teen-ager girls who kept their room in a horrible mess to the dismay of their mother reminded me of my own girlhood. My sister and I were also careless and lazy about keeping our room tidy. No amount of nagging or threatening helped.

Finally, one day Mother came into our room with a WHEELBARROW and RAKE and proceeded to "clean" our room. We all had a good laugh; but somehow after that we kept our room clean. Sometimes humor gets thru when everything else fails.

The club champion sat gloomily in a corner. Not only had he failed to win the weekly duplicate but he had actually made a below-average score.

He was moaning quietly and if you were to listen to his moans, you would hear something like, "Why couldn't I have played simple bridge!"

Today's hand shows one of his bottom scores. As anyone can see, four hearts makes easily. All declarer has to do is to ruff the third club, play ace-king and another diamond for dummy to ruff, draw trumps and concede a spade trick at the finish. Of course, declarer should play one heart before going after diamonds as a general mild safety precaution.

Now let's see what our champion did. First, look at the bidding. West's overall had nothing to commend it but when West did overcall, it seems that East might well have either raised clubs or tried two spades. Obviously, East was familiar with West's overcalls and passed.

Anyway our champion made a sort of advanced loser-on-loser play. He discarded a low spade on the third club lead. East was in with the queen and returned a diamond. The champion won that trick, played his ace and king of trumps and remaining high diamond.

Then he ruffed his last diamond in dummy, cashed dummy's ace of spades and ruffed a spade to get back to his hand. West overruffed and the champion had the distinction of being the only man to make only nine tricks at hearts.

We don't really approve of his line of play but it might well have been the winning one. Suppose for example that hearts broke 2-2 and diamonds 6-2. The players who led one trump and then tried to ruff a diamond would have seen that third diamond ruffed by the opposition and gone down while the champion's play would have been the winner.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

Girls: The best way to keep a husband is happy.

Unhappiest man in our town is the miser who just found out that those silver certificates were worth a premium until scant days ago.

The fellow who holds his cards close to his chest is either a born gambler or else he has dribbled soup on his tie.

You seldom hear of sleep-walking any more. That's because so much sleeping is done sitting down on the job.

Show us the man who steps into this office with his suit nicely pressed on a rainy day, and we'll show YOU the fellow who pinched our umbrella.

Generally, a word to the wise is resented only by the know-it-all.

The fellow who smiles all day on the job may be happy. It may also be a case of having dentures with teeth that are long.

Our bibulous friend says that it's the air you swallow when drinking that gives you the hiccups.

Timely Quotes

Actually, it is the old poverty of the South which is transforming, astounding and disturbing other parts of America... It is more than anything else giving national dramatization to the problems which once seemed so southern and are at least disclosed as the shame of dreadful destitution in the whole of an opulent land.

—Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, declaring that the concept of a New South is a myth.

THE BORN LOSER

HOW DARE YOU TELL THE GIBBES THAT I HAVE A WILL TO TALK INCESSANTLY! I KNOW LOTS OF PEOPLE WHO GO ON AND ON FOR HOURS AND NEVER LET ANYBODY GET A WORD IN EDGEWISE! SALLY WINECOOP IS AN EXCELLENT EXAMPLE! IF YOU HAD PUT A CLOCK ON HER WHEN SHE LAUNCHED INTO THAT DISSERTATION ON HER GARDEN CLUB, YOU'D HAVE FOUND THAT SHE HELD THE FLOOR FOR A GOOD TWENTY MINUTES! AND HOW ABOUT YOUR BORING FRIEND HOWARD SNOOTFEELT AND HIS DUST-DRY ACCOUNT OF THEIR TRIP TO SQUAW FALLS LAST SUMMER? OH, THEY WERE ALL YAKKING IT UP PRETTY GOOD, BUT WHO HAD TO ANNOUNCE TO ONE AND ALL IN A LOUD VOICE THAT HIS WIFE HAS A WILL TO TALK INCESSANTLY? OH, YOU REALLY DID IT THAT TIME! OF COURSE, IF I WERE THE TYPE TO GO ON AND ON AND ON, YOU'D REALLY HEAR SOMETHING BECAUSE I HAVE A LOT TO SAY BUT YOU WON'T CATCH ME SAYING IT BECAUSE WHENEVER YOU BELIEVE IT OR NOT I SAY SO...

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid carelessness. Applies particularly when engaging in sports, recreation. Tendency to take safety for granted is not wise. Generally this is a day for fun, creative pleasure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Home front centers your attention. Even if on vacation, take time to check domestic situation. Element of deception could be present. Be perceptive and realistic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your methods subject to change. Your base of operations remains the same. But there is definite tendency to modernize. Older person is sincere but may be old-fashioned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If imagination is disciplined, you make real gain. Means learn rules before you break them. Be completely aware. Images could be distorted. Know this — and don't be coerced.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stress greater independence. But also remember obligations. A money proposal connected with home, property requires further study. Get questions answered. Insist on factual information.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A call from neighbor, relative could be misinterpreted. Best to double check. Communications could be less than clear. A secret is revealed. Be discreet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some old acquaintances could communicate; result might prove costly. Maintain balance. Utilize innate wisdom. You can have a good time without over-spending. Highlight simplicity, quality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may not be seeing complete picture. Get the facts; correct any distorted images. Handle responsibility. You possess air of glamor today; capitalize on it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Obtain hint from VIRGO message. Don't reveal all you know. Travel plan may have to undergo revision. Your personal philosophy may be put to a test. Be flexible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Hearsay concerning funds, possessions may lack foundation. Best to stick to familiar ground. Include family members in any entertainment planning.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): One who offers to help could be filled with good will but could lack material. Know this — and face reality. Important to strengthen marital, partnership ties. Make generous concession.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Routine affairs dominate; period of concentration is necessary. Fulfill obligations. Older person offers advice regarding health, diet. Be a good listener. IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your intuition is highly developed. Utilize it in analyzing numerous changes which are due in your life, including travel and (if single) marriage.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle continues high for LEO, VIRGO, LIBRA. Special word to ARIES: avoid borrowing or lending today. (To find out who's lucky for you in money and love, order Sydney Omarr's booklet, "Secret Hints for Men and Women." ## Hanoi View: Big Defeat

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnamese negotiators at the deadlocked peace talks today claimed the American pullout from Khe Sanh is "one of the most serious strategic defeats" suffered by the United States in the Vietnam War.

A Hanoi spokesman told a news conference called to claim downing of the 3,000th American plane over North Vietnam that 15,000 American and South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and injured while trying to hold the strategic Marine outpost, south of the Demilitarized Zone.

He said 11,700 of the casualties were Americans, U.S. Marines reported suffering 2,000 casualties—including wounded—at Khe Sanh.

Dr. Abernathy Loses Another Round on Food

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy has begun a symbolic fast in the District of Columbia jail to "strengthen myself in the fight ahead" to get more food for America's hungry.

But even as he announced his decision to "voluntarily join the ranks of the hungry," Abernathy's Poor People's Campaign lost another round in its fight to force the government to spend more money on food aid.

The defeat came Thursday when the campaign failed in its attempt to win a court order compelling Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman to spend $227 million in federal customs duties for food for the disadvantaged.

Chief U.S. District Court Judge Edward M. Curran turned down a suit to block Freeman from giving the money back to the Treasury when the current fiscal year ends Sunday.

Curran said Freeman's department still would have another $300 million which could be used to feed the poor even if the $227 million were turned back.

He said attorneys for the campaign failed to show how the poor would be irreparably injured by Freeman's return of the money.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy were to speak from the same platform in Bismarck, N.D., today where a close battle was being waged for 25 National Democratic Convention votes.

Humphrey went into the state convention contest with something of an edge, for state party rules specify the automatic designation of four national convention delegates and all of those were in his camp.

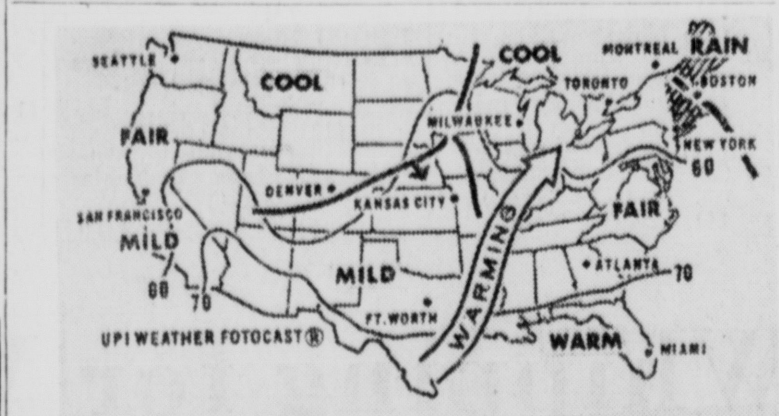

Nominations for the 21 others will be presented by a committee for approval by the 1,002 state delegates.

McCarthy aides placed their hopes in a bloc of "undecided" state delegates. They threatened a floor fight if necessary.

The news conference was another Communist attempt to claim victory and demand an immediate cessation of U.S. bombing of the North. North Vietnamese spokesman said the 3,000th U.S. plane was shot over Dong Hoi, in North Vietnam's southern panhandle.

According to U.S. military spokesmen, 859 American planes were downed over North Vietnam in the course of the war.

Other developments:

Richard M. Nixon—On a national radio broadcast, the Republican presidential hopeful promised "to move government closer to the people and to make it more responsive" if he is nominated and elected president. He said the remoteness of national government has alienated "all groups, all races, all ages in America today."

Nixon received the endorsement Thursday of Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts.

Nelson A. Rockefeller—The New York governor accused his chief rival for the GOP nomination, Richard M. Nixon, of "retreating into silence" and "withdrawing from actual political activity."

He told a Huron, S.D., news conference Nixon was refusing to campaign on the major issues facing the country—poverty, the Vietnam War and strife in the cities.

Eugene J. McCarthy—Friction continued to grow between the Minnesota senator and the leadership of the NAACP over McCarthy's visit to Atlantic City during the civil rights group's national convention. Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, accused McCarthy of "meddling" in the civil rights organization's affairs by bringing politics to a traditionally nonpartisan gathering.

McCarthy said he did not think their differences were "very serious."
